DEDICATION

Attempting to be “lovers of wisdom”,
We are led from Thales to Tillich and back again.

Lost for a while in a world of “isms”,
we gradually learn

To accept and reject, to add and subtract.

Exhilarated by an infectuous essence,

We begin to sense a new realm,

Grounded in reason and limited only by the sublime.

Gentle discipline modifies our excesses.

Serenity calms our prejudices.

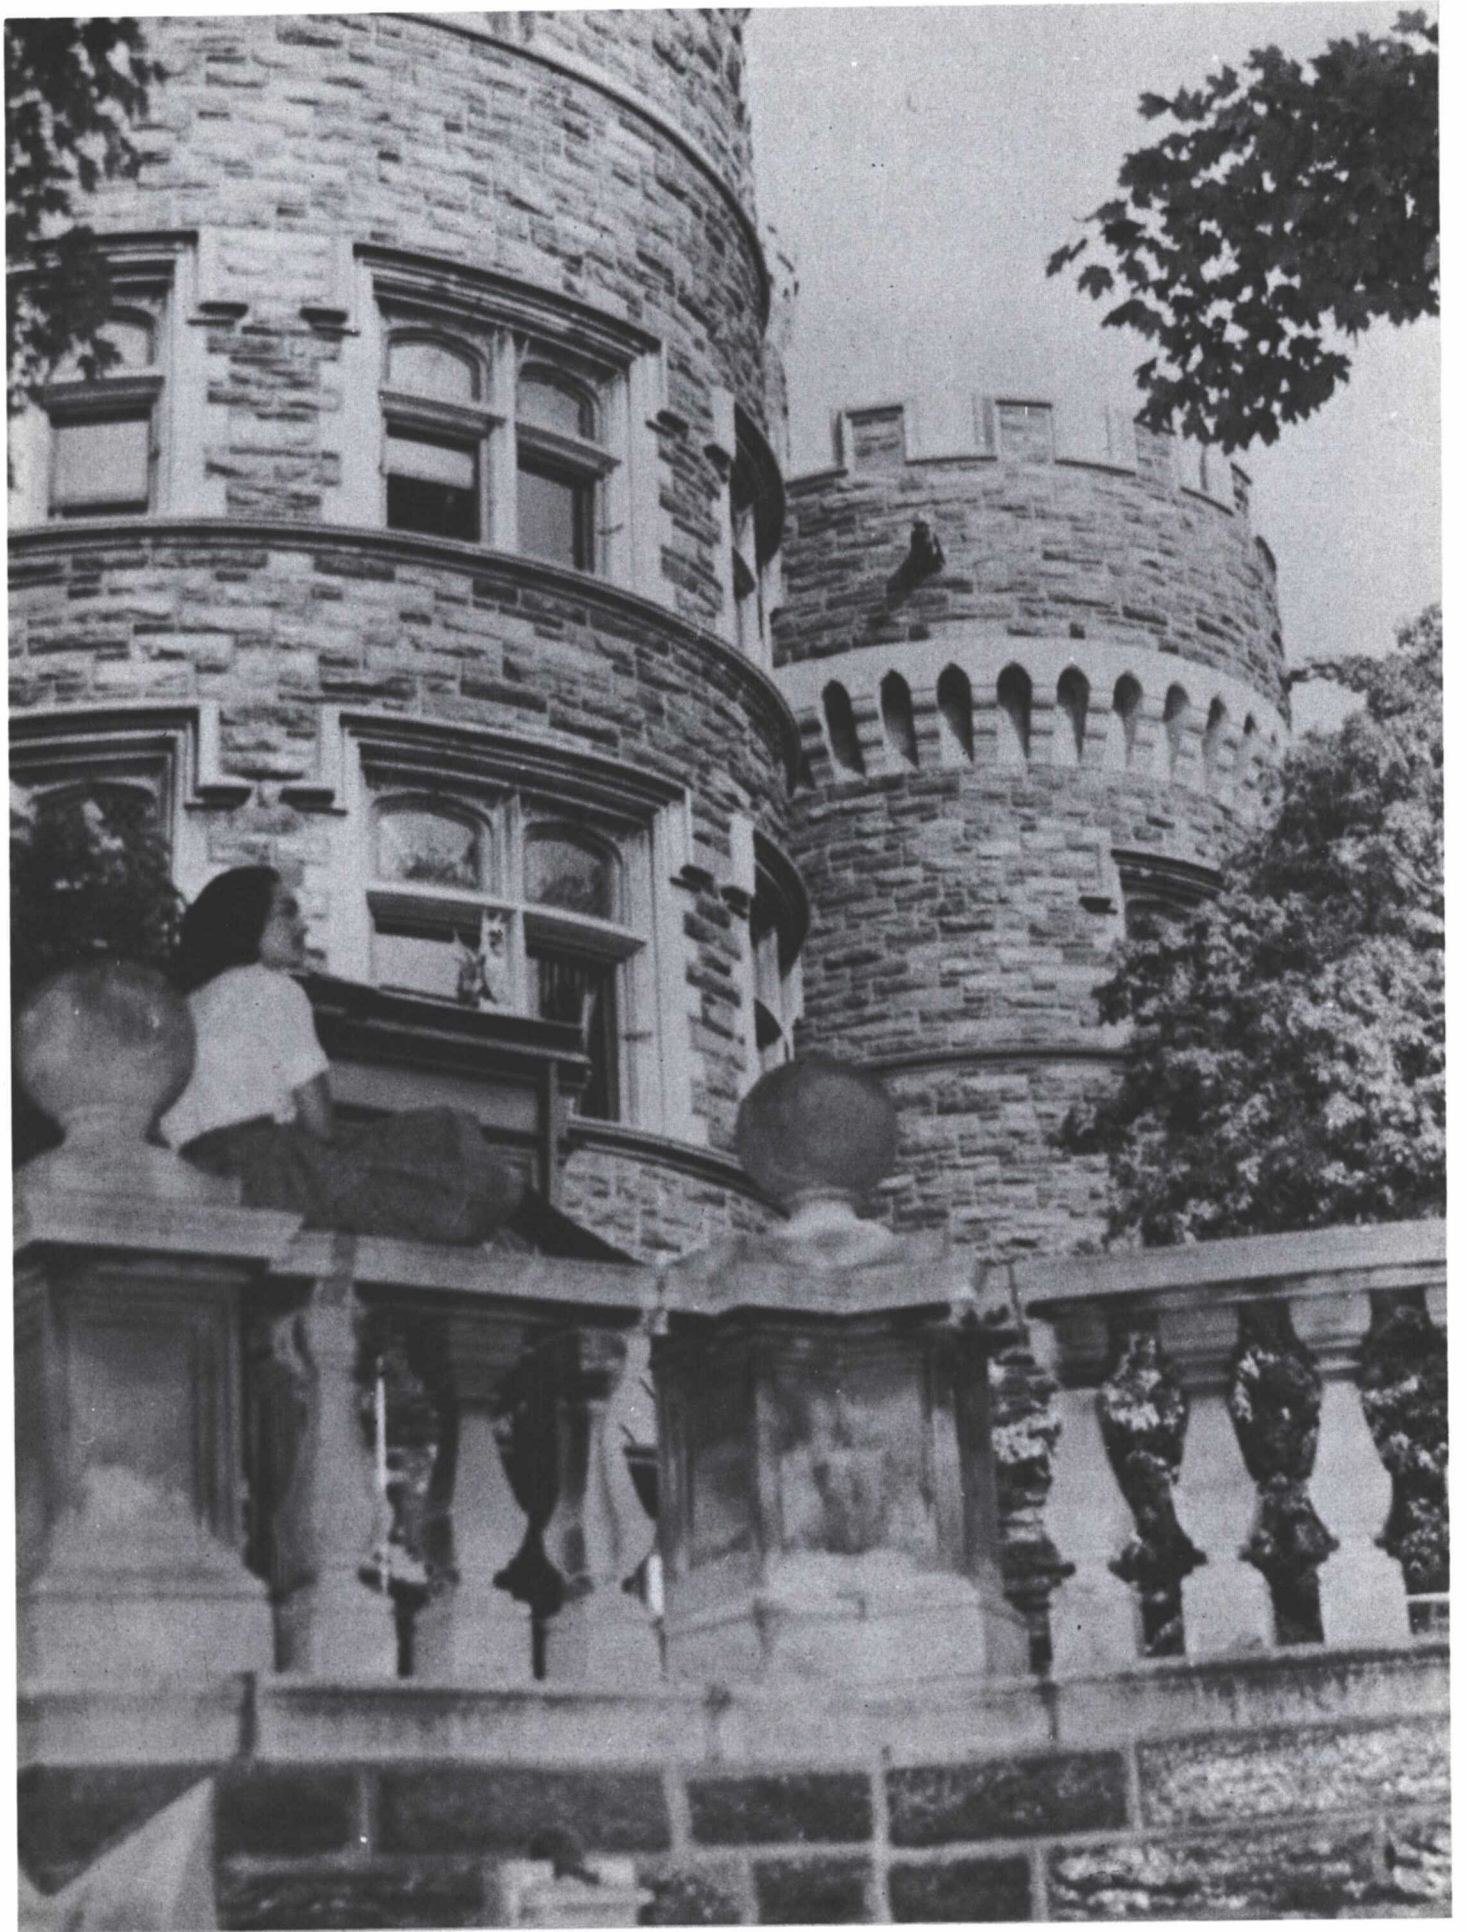

Experienced thought arrests elusiveness.

Subtlety distinguishes the real from the absurd.

We are startled by a new vigor; perspective is mastering confusion.

DR. SIU-CHI HUANG

FOREWORD

*It is time to dream, to stretch, to climb
Toward where in silvery vapour
Goodness, Truth, and Beauty are alone.
There in shifting mists my gods evade me.
Gleefully a red balloon darts about
A shining sky and nears the sacred places where I am not.*

Smilingly a spider sets free the fly who searches as I do.

Earthbound a truant turtle denies his cloistered lodge.

Unwittingly my careless toe trips that turtle greedy for the spider.

He topples, straining, and flips himself upright—with a wink.

It is time to laugh and begin again.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

DR. EDWARD D. GATES
President of the College

To The Class of 1961:

Addressing a college graduating class, Woodrow Wilson once said: "You are here to enrich the world." That is a succinct statement of the aim of education—to enable one to enrich the world. Indeed, that, in a sense, is the purpose of life itself. We are here to enrich the world.

For your enrichment of the on-going life of this college, we are grateful. Surely it is the hope of the trustees, faculty, administration, and all friends of the college that your days at Beaver will prove ever helpful to you as in increasing measure and varied ways you continue to enrich the world.

To each of you, as you read these pages now in 1961 and in years to come, greetings and sincere good wishes.

TO DR. GATES

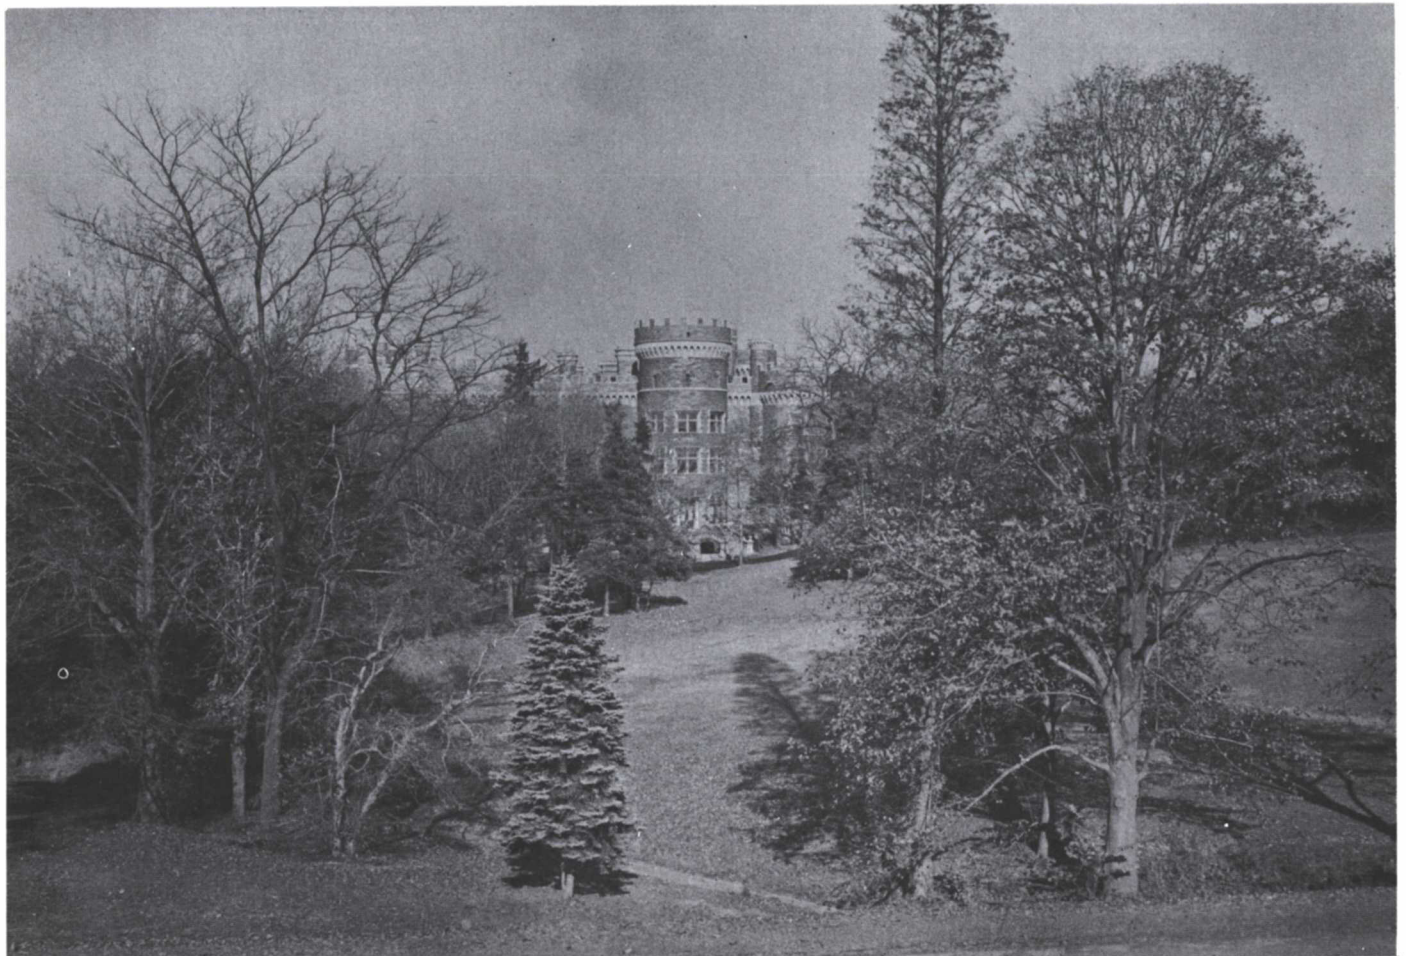

Steady purpose, an impetus to understanding, champions our visions.
Quiet vitality vies with emerging tests
of integrity.
Acute perception promises the solution to problems yet untold.
We are imbued with a new will;
the power to continue is ours.

TO DEAN LE CLAIR

Ours is the excitement of finding a new and sparkling presence.
An intellect which challenges
complacencies entreats us to act.
Tranquility, an outgrowth of wisdom,
subdues our extravagances.
Stirred by the revelation of a unique imagination, we wonder anew.

To climb toward where in silvery vapour Goodness, Truth, and Beauty are alone

IN MEMORIAM

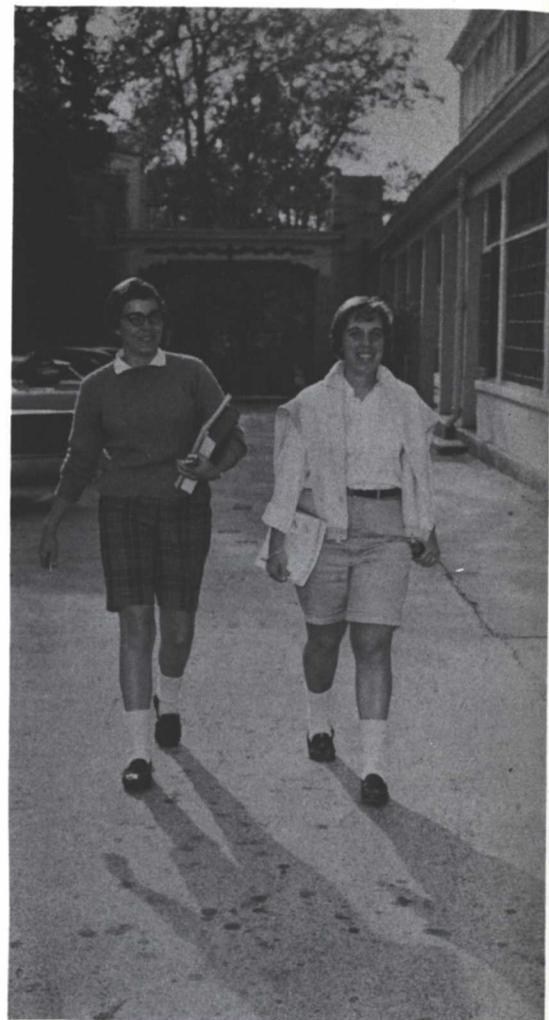

DR. JOHN E. DUGAN

With patience he guided us who are to guide,
thereby instilling an interest
in those whom we shall lead.
With care he imparted
his knowledge as an educator to us who are responsible for its realization.

ACTIVITIES

HONORS NIGHT

We pause and attempt to give intellect its due. A bit in awe, we recognize a challenge to grow. Graced by a quiet and academic dignity, an example is set and words challenge. We contemplate the expanding horizons of the rational mind.

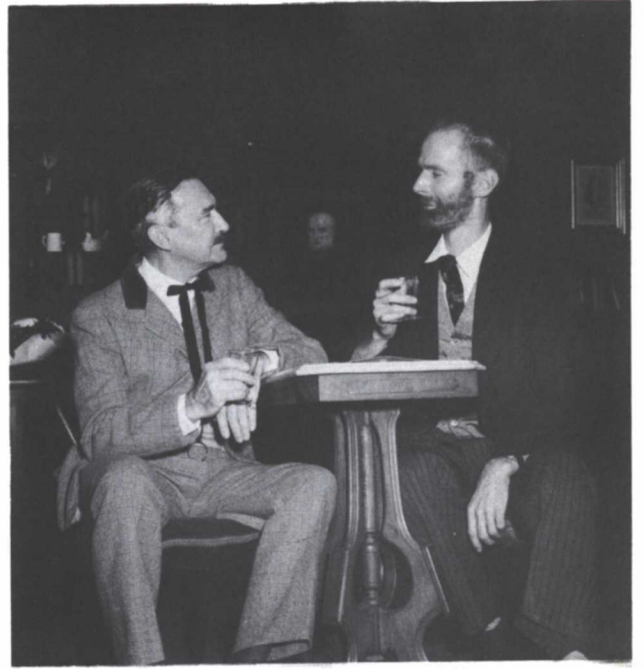

FALL PRODUCTION

Hedda Gabler
by Henrik Ibsen

A theme, a mood, an action startle us, and we feel empathy. Rendered breathless by dynamic character, we recognize that the still air ripples. We are carried quickly, willingly toward a tantalizing horror—a shot, the end.

SONG CONTEST

Elan and vigor spike competition as we sing an answer to the question, "Who is best?" Big sister, little sister shout, and the air trembles. Cups flash, and we hail the triumphant. Dinks fly, hands are shaken, and a holiday is begun.

A FIVE STAR WEEKEND

Shaping a brief space of time into a star, we create suspense. "The play's the thing," we all agree, and then—applause! Now to choose. Bouquets to whom? Applause again. The curtains close.

JUNIOR PROM

From high on Mount Olympus we take a golden apple and bring it to earth. Its radiance transforms a castle, decides a judgment. Charmed, we behold its presentation to the fairest.

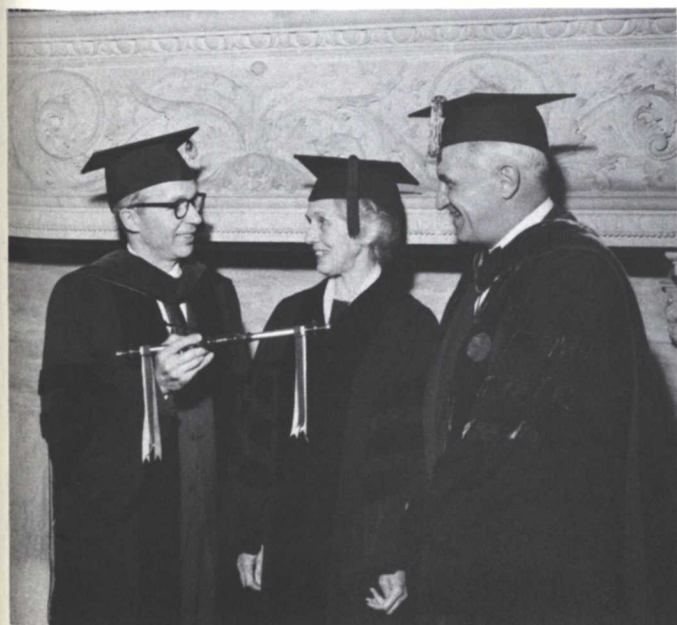

MOVE-UP NIGHT

Gratefully we acknowledge those who find duty in service as we laud past success and hail future promise.

THE INAUGURATION OF DR. GATES

With pride and expectation we behold the coming of a new order. Clear vision sets a goal and we are infused with a sense of purpose. Here is a day to recall — its setting spring, its mood a solemn stirring.

SPRING FESTIVAL

With pageantry and song we meet the May. In the midst of lilac and laurel there is a freshness and a joy. Liting through a robin-filled day we find a kinship with the spring.

WHO'S WHO

Recognition is merited by service
