

Grant Reynard Will Lecture This Evening

'Life and Art' To Be Theme; Painting Exhibits Now in Green Parlors

The Forum of the Arts and Sciences will present Mr. Grant Reynard in a lecture on "Life and Art" to be given in Taylor chapel tonight, at 8 o'clock. This program, which was arranged by the Fine Arts and Music division of the Forum, is the first in a series of activities to be sponsored by the Forum.

Noted Painter and Writer

Mr. Reynard is not only one of the foremost contemporary painters but as a writer he has enjoyed the distinction of having his works included in The Fifty Best Stories of the Year. He has just published Rattling Home for Christmas, a book of verse.

Although Mr. Reynard's lecture will include a painting demonstration, in dealing with his subjects he embraces not only the technical but also the human and literary problems of the craft.

Lectured At Many Colleges

The first guest speaker of the year has enjoyed enthusiastic receptions from audiences all over the country, among which have been those composed of students at Cornell university, at the University of Buffalo, and at Mount Holyoke college. Reporting on a lecture by Mr. Reynard, the Smith College Weekly wrote, "During the demonstration, Mr. Reynard talked in a delightfully informal manner of his varied experiences, and the theories behind his art."

"The lecture was a great suc-

Changes Made In Personnel And Faculty

Mrs. Zurbuchen Resigns As Dean of Students; Faculty Adds 6 Members

Mrs. Ruth H. Zurbuchen has resigned as dean of students and director of residence of Beaver and Ivy halls. Miss Eleanor Bisbing is now the social secretary, and Mrs. Helen G. Campbell will be in charge of Beaver and Ivy halls. Mrs. Zurbuchen will continue as executive secretary of the Alumnae association, with offices in the club house. Her office will be open on Tuesday and Thursday and Saturday mornings.

Six new members will join Beaver's faculty this year. Mr. Ralph L. Chermock will replace Mr. Kenneth Bergstresser as instructor in biology. Mr. Bergstresser has resigned to go to the University of Pittsburgh. Mr. Chermock did his undergraduate work at the University of Pittsburgh and received his master's degree at Duquesne. He is now working for the degree of doctor of philosophy. Mr. Chermock's grandfather was professor of biology at the University of Vienna.

New Speech Instructor

Taking the place of Miss Ruth Haun, instructor in speech, is Miss Judith Elder. Miss Elder is a graduate of Smith college where she specialized in spoken English. She has studied at the Academy of Speech Arts in Boston and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London. She has acted in His Majesty's Theatre in London, and with Cyril Maude, one of the greatest English actors. Miss Elder has had parts in Broadway productions and

Forum Presents Third Speaker On October 10

Dr. Harlow Shapley, Eminent Astronomer, To Give Lecture

Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard university Observatory and one of the most eminent astronomers in the country, will speak at Beaver college on Friday evening, October 10, on the subject, "Reaching for the Stars." He will be the first lecturer sponsored by the department of Science in the Forum of the Arts and Science.

Holds Many Degrees

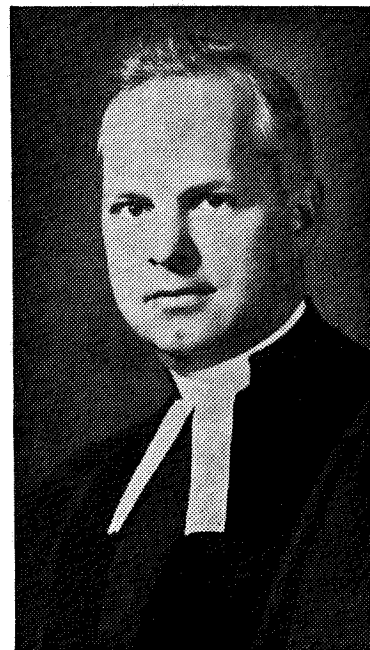

Dr. Shapley received the degrees of bachelor of arts, master of arts, and doctor of letters from the University of Missouri. He also holds the degree of doctor of letters from Oglethorpe university. He received the degrees of doctor of philosophy from Princeton university, and of doctor of science from the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Pennsylvania, Harvard university, Brown university, and the University of Toronto.

Honored by Many Societies

Before coming to Harvard, Dr. Shapley was at the Mt. Wilson Observatory in California from 1914 to 1921. He is a member of many astronomical societies both here and abroad. In 1926 he was awarded the Draper medal of the National Academy of Sciences and the University medal of Brussels. He was the recipient of the Janssen prix of the Astronomical Society of France in 1933, the Rumford medal of the American Association of Arts and Sciences in 1933, the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, and the Bruce medal of the Pacific Astronomical Society in 1939.

Exercises Open 89th Year Of Beaver College

Dr. A. Sutherland And Dr. Raymon M. Kistler Take Part In Ceremony

"No college generation ever faced a more momentous situation than we face tonight," said the Reverend Rex Stowers Clements, the guest speaker at the Founders' Day exercises held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Murphy Memorial chapel. This ceremony marked the opening of the eighty-ninth year of Beaver college.

Highlights of Address

Dr. Clements suggested that we are living in a molten world which is waiting for each individual to make its impression. According to Dr. Clements, religion gives meaning to life, and religion and education belong together. "Life can't become full, free, or powerful without them," he said.

Dr. Clements believes that the future will be judged by the kind of people it produces, and that "we are shaping tomorrow by the choices of today." He believes that a Christian college ought to have relation to Christian creeds regardless of what each student believes.

In closing, Dr. Clements stated again that each one has a great opportunity of making his mark on a molten world. He said, "When the world hardens, it will assume the footprints and shapes you make upon it."

Dr. Clements Noted Leader

Dr. Clements, who is a leader in both religious and educational work, has been pastor of the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian church since 1937. Previous to that time, he was pastor of the Church of the Covenant, Boston, Massachusetts, and assistant minister at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New

Mr. Silsbee Leaves Beaver

Mr. Nathaniel F. Silsbee, who came to Beaver college seven years ago and who has served the college as assistant comptroller, assistant professor of accounting and finance, and comptroller, received a commission as captain, Specialist Reserve, United States Army, in July. He has recently been called to extended active duty in the newly reorganized Public Relations division of the Air Forces and left for Washington about the middle of September.

Introducing "Who's Who" In Beaver

The freshmen and new students this year, having missed the advantages of a freshman week, must get acquainted by just seeing the girls around campus and in class. The Beaver News cannot introduce you to all the upperclassmen, but we can show you a few of the leaders and tell you about them.

Viola Monaco '42, who is the president of the Student Government association, holds the highest executive position in Beaver's democratic organization. The vice-president of the association was to have been Shirley Seidenman; but since she did not return to school an election will be held in the near future. The other officers are secretary, Melita Takacs '42; and treasurer, Cherry Wagner '43. Muriel Smith '42 is president of the Day Student council and is the day student representative on Student Council. There are also class and dormitory representatives.

The Forum of the Arts and Sciences, the new organization formed to reorganize extracurricular activities, is headed by Beth Eaton '42. The other officers are Anita Reinicke '42, vice-president; Doris Reinhardt '42, secretary; and Chrys Wade '42, treasurer.

Jean Ledy '42 is editor of the Beaver News, the weekly median through which the students may speak. Jacqueline Palmer '42 is the editor of the Beaver Review, which presents the original and creative efforts of the students. The Beaver Log, the yearbook published by the seniors, which you will hear about all year, is to be edited by Bernice Wenzel '42. Bernadine Finnerty '42 is editor of the Handbook which, incidentally contains the Blue laws of the college.

Dorothy Kistler '42 heads the Honor council, the organization which functions for the maintenance of high ideals of honor in school life.

The Young Women's Christian association sponsors such activities as freshman week. Its president this year is Avis Goodby '42, and the other officers are vice-president, Elizabeth Chapman '42; secretary, Anne McLaren '43; and treasurer, Mary Berlin '43.

Helen Williston '42 is the president of the Athletic association, the body which directs all athletic events.

The social committee, headed by Eleanor Glead '42, plans and carries out those teas we so often have on Wednesday afternoons. Winifred Boye '42 and her point committee keep track of the points each student earns through participation in extracurricular activities.

Jean Stewart '42 is chairman of the May Day committee. This is the year May Day is celebrated in a

To The Students . . .

Welcome! "At long last" we have the privilege of welcoming you to the Beaver campus. To many of you it is a return to scenes which hold happy memories and to friendships which have been strongly built. To some of you it is a new adventure, coming from the well-known and sheltered life of home to the intriguing and challenging life of a college dormitory.

We are happy to see all of you. We are looking forward to this year at Beaver with real faith and expectation. In spite of the problems and uncertainties in the picture of the world, it is great to be alive and there is a real challenge to us to be prepared to do our part when we take our places in the activities and relationships of a democracy.

All of us will enter this new year with a determination and the expectation that it shall be the happiest and best year possible.

Raymon Kistler

"Alma Mater Dear..

*The years have o'er thee swept,
But stainless still through time
and tide*

Thy splendor thou hast kept."

Once again our voices are raised in a refrain familiar and beloved to those of us returning to Beaver. For several months we have remained a part of our alma mater individually—now the parts are joined into the whole again as the familiar song continues . . .

*"So hail to Beaver, hail we say!
Fling high the scarlet and the gray.
We shall keep irradiant with truth
Thine everlasting youth."*

Completing the whole we hear a chorus of new voices singing the old song for the first time. To some of them it is probably little more than a lovely melody with pretty words—to others it may stand for the beginning of a new life, a new adventure—to all these new voices it should be symbolic of their future association here.

The traditions and ideals embodied in these words are the traditions and ideals which have become a part of every Beaver girl's pattern of life—the traditions and ideals which the freshmen will soon feel, which they have perhaps already felt in a still hazy way as they join in singing . . .

*"Mother tried and true
We pledge our life to thee
We pledge thee all our fullest faith
In loving service free."*

This is the first step in forming the association—"to pledge our life to thee . . . in loving service free . . ." By serving without thought of recognition or gain, we achieve almost unconsciously one of the most precious possessions—an unbreakable, almost unexplainable tie to our alma mater. This tie must grow naturally and strengthen gradually, but once started, intertwined with loyal service, lasting friendships, and invaluable work, it can never be wholly uprooted.

*"So hail to Beaver, hail we say!
Fling high the scarlet and the gray.
To the finest in the land
We lay down our heart and hand."*

We upperclassmen still recall the problems and difficulties we encountered in our freshman year! For the present, you are all occupied in orientation to college life. You will find, as all of us once did, that college is different from high school, that methods of instruction differ.

So, in order to help you to adapt yourselves better to life at Beaver, the Beaver News recently conducted a series of interviews, the results of which you should find invaluable. The question asked was: "What do you think are some helpful hints to freshmen?"

Dr. Raymon M. Kistler, president of the college . . . believes that freshmen should make up their minds to work hard the first year of college, in order to establish their scholastic reputations.

"Get well-acquainted with your advisers and feel that you can talk with them about anything", he suggests. "Remember that you are coming into a school family and that everyone is here to help you. Try to get into the life of the college outside the classroom—in publications, clubs, or athletics."

Dr. Kistler also believes that it will prove helpful to new freshmen to attend the community church of their choice, since valuable contacts are often gained that way.

Miss Ruth L. Higgins, dean of the college . . .

"Freshmen should seek advice when they have problems. If they are unable to get help from one person, they should go to another for advice. It is extremely important that freshmen get enough sleep and exercise. And I do wish that students would realize that the officers are to help them, not scold them!"

Miss Roberta Paulhamus, registrar . . .

"Be true to yourself, then you won't make excuses to yourself, because you won't believe them. If you know you should work, then do so; if you feel the need for relaxation, relax—but be true to yourself. Freshmen should always share their problems with their advisers. If freshmen keep these two things in mind, they will succeed at Beaver."

"THE WOOKEY" BY F. H. BRENNAN

Written with the vibrancy of a man who is in earnest, The Wookey by Fredrick H. Brennan is a play which though frightening in its reality puts courage into the hearts of men. For though it shows us London under fire—a London of women and children at the mercy of an enemy force, it also tells us not to feel easily defeated when those who are suffering most have time to laugh and love and say that raising a family is a Britisher's most important job and that the love between two people is more important than a war between two ideologies.

The Wookey deals with the lives of Mr. Horace Wookey and his family through the first two years of the war. It is a magnificent character study of an English subject—the type of citizen who, upon hearing that his country is at war, refuses at first to have any part of it. "I told them what to do three years ago, and they wouldn't listen to me—those thickheads at No. 10 Downing Street. So now let 'em fight their bloody war, and let 'em know that they won't get Wookey's assistance, they won't."

And with similar phrases, Mr. Wookey continues until told that in wartime a man can be shot for treason for such utterings. To this Wookey replies with the tongue and heart and background of a democrat, "I'm a British subject, I am, and I'll blast the British government, war or no war."

Yes, it is an appeal to our sense of democracy, to our love of it. The play is an appeal to man's instinctive sense of protection and security. Perhaps because it is an appeal for the preservation of all that we hold most dear that this playgoer enjoyed it so much. Well-written by Mr. Brennan, here is a story told with sincerity, humor, and at times great depth of thought.

Robert Sherwood in There Shall Be No Night gave us a picture of Mr. Carl Seifert, professor of education . . .

"The most important thing is for freshmen to realize that they are in college for a purpose and they ought to determine to fulfill that purpose. They should keep that goal in mind and they're bound to succeed. Freshmen should learn to know and understand their instructors. They ought not to worry about difficulties but should seek advice. Be prompt in classroom attendance and in turning in your term papers and written reports. And be sociable in trying to get along with others . . . learn to adjust yourself."

* * * *

The staff of the Beaver News would like to add to these helpful bits of advice their warmest welcome to the members of the class of '45, together with a few of their own words of wisdom.

Either in following the advice given by others or in finding the way yourself there are two things to remember—two rules in a sense. First of all, live vitally, and secondly, develop a well-balanced sense of values. By this we mean a sincerely active and enthusiastic interest in every phase of your new life—always tempered by good sound common sense, the ability to weigh the important against the unimportant, and a true realization of your own capabilities.

Extracurricular activities are important—one of the most important sides to college life, but never forget the other side, the side of academic achievement. Take advantage of every opportunity afforded you to learn something new and gain for yourself that feeling of self-satisfaction in knowing you are doing your best scholastically. Don't lose sight of this in a whirl of social or extracurricular activities, or both. To be meaningful the picture must be rounded out, not one-sided. Vital living and a well-balanced sense of values should go a long way in achieving this.

Again we extend to the class of '45 our best wishes for a full, happy, and successful year.

Looking On

Betty Ann Kiehl

We're back again—from north, east, south, and west—and freshmen—we of athletic inclinations have a hearty welcome for you, too. We invite you to come and take part in your favorite sports. There are a lot of intramural sports, but hockey is the game of the moment—and if you like it at all, come on out and do your best. Betty Anne Searle '42 is our captain this year.

Speaking of hockey—many of the last year's squad spent a week at Camp Tegawitha, Mt. Pocono, playing hockey for dear life. Beaver was the only college represented; the other girls were from private schools in and around Philadelphia. Miss Constance Applebee, who brought hockey to the United States from England, headed the camp with a staff of about six instructors, all All-Americans.

There was a lighter side, too, as in all camps—things like trips into Mt. Pocono at 10:30 P. M. for ice cream—June Corson registered as B. A. Kiehl—an epidemic of upset stomachs—Betty Heyl dashing off to the bowling alleys every free minute—and oh yes—a surprise visit from former coach Louise Orr.

We certainly will miss Miss Jean Ball this year in the Phys. Ed. department, but we extend a most hearty welcome to her successor, Miss Frances Cumbee, and to Miss Esther LaRowe, who is to coach hockey.

—And won't the freshmen be bright this year—in yellow gym suits with socks to match! (Remember those blue creations we wore?)

Flash from the class of '41—Dorothy Hill has secured a position in the public schools of Caldwell, New Jersey, and Topsy Price has a temporary job in the Haddonfield Memorial high school, Haddonfield, New Jersey.

Among our Phys. Eds. who had jobs as camp counselors this summer are: Betty Griffin, Helen Williston, and Betty Heyl. Betty Anne Searle worked at a playground, and Jo Wisse, Mickey Drexler, and Betty Ann Kiehl were waitresses. Betsy Chapman surprised us all by announcing her engagement.

During the summer, Paige Weaver, number one player on Beaver's tennis team, played in a number of tennis tournaments, being quite successful in the majority of them. She played in the Senior Middle Atlantic States tournament for the first time, and entered and won the Fort Hunter tournament.

Peggy Crosson, Jean Seward, and Betsy Whitestone will represent Beaver tomorrow at the Annual Intercollegiate Golf Play Day which is sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania. Other neighboring colleges will also send representatives.

The tentative hockey schedule for 1941 is as follows:
October 16—Ursinus
October 22—Penn
October 29—Drexel
November 12—Swarthmore
November 19—Temple

Faculty Travels Cover Continent During Vacation

Our faculty almost covered the North American continent in their travels this summer! Mrs. Gladys Cutright went south of the border into Mexico. North of the border, in Canada, were Mme. Suzanne Neves and Mrs. Edith Wright . . . Mrs. Wright, incidentally, went on a boat trip which also took her into New England. Other visitors to New England included Miss Eula Ableson, who spent some time in the White Mountains and then in East Port, Maine. Miss Helen Gilroy is another Maine enthusiast; she was there for a month with her sister. Miss Winifred Thompson, in her own words, "chased Miss Ableson through New England". She especially enjoyed Vermont.

Miss Marcia Anderson and Miss Lois Adams sought the sun in California. In the month of August, Miss Adams tested feeble-minded girls in the North Jersey Training school. Miss Ruth Haun took her vacation at Lake Mohonk in New York state. Mrs. Grace Sutton toured the West and her itinerary included Niagara Falls, Chicago, Denver, Pike's Peak, and Yellowstone (where she ruined her veil in a geyser basin!). Miss Roberta Paulhamus also went down East this summer, to a farm in Vermont. Miss Mary Brill and Miss Esther Metzenthin spent their vacations together in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Miss Margaret King ran the summer school library in Ocean City, New Jersey, and relaxed by swimming, boating, and fishing.

Mr. William Sturgeon and Mr. Carl Seifert were working men; Mr. Seifert taught summer school and, as he says, "loafed in the office the rest of the summer. I'll take my vacation after school opens." Mr. Sturgeon taught basic chemistry to a group of soldiers.

Mr. D. Gardner Foulke received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Rutgers university; and Miss Lillian Stringfellow received the degree of Master of education from Pennsylvania State College.

York City. He is a trustee of Beaver college, a director of the Haverford school for boys, the Philadelphia Federation of churches, and the Main Line Young Men's Christian association. Dr. Clements has been recently elected president of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

Dr. Sutherland Presides
Dr. Allan Sutherland, president of the board of trustees of the college, presided at the exercises.

The program opened with an organ prelude played by Mr. Lawrence Curry, professor of music; Mr. Curry selected Aria from Suite in D by Bach and Fantasy on "Ton-y-Botel" by Noble.

After the doxology, Dr. Sutherland lead in the opening prayer. Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of the college, offered the constituting prayer which followed the scripture lesson read by Dr. Stacy Roberts, acting professor of Bible.

Gloria Marcus '43, rendered a solo, I Will Extol Thee O Lord, by Costa.

Dr. Kistler pronounced the benediction.

Alumnae News

It seems as if Beaver alumnae spent their summers getting married and going to each other's weddings. Sue Samter '41 was the first to hold to the tradition of a June wedding. She was married to Mr. Richard L. Levy on June 20. The marriage of Mildred Felton '39 to Mr. Clarence Boyd took place on June 21. On the very next day Anita Tuvlin ex-'42 was married to Mr. Herbert D. Schlechter. On June 28, Betty Williams '40, our auburn-haired May Queen, was married to Mr. K. Hedges Capers.

The first July wedding was that of Margaret Lutz '41 to Mr. Robert L. Lindsay on July 12. The marriage of Roberta Cleaver ex-'40 to Mr. Robert J. Weir took place on July 18. Helen Edwards '41 also had a mid-summer wedding when she was married to Mr. James C. Galt on July 19.

Georgiana Magargal '41 was married to Mr. Robert Feeney in August. Mr. Feeney has a position with the Bureau of Mines, and they are now living near Salt Lake City.

The marriage of Mignon Riley ex-'43 to Mr. Walter J. Sullivan took place on September 6. Betty Jane Wahl '40 is the most recent Beaver bride; she was married on September 13 to Mr. Robert Lowry, brother of Marjorie Lowry '40.

A wedding in the very near future is that of Jeanne de Grange '41, who will be married to Mr. Joseph B. Knipe tomorrow, October 4.

Positions

Many of the girls have put work before marriage and taken positions. Kate Greenway '41 is teaching home economics in Long Island. Virginia Fager '41 is now private secretary to Mr. James E. Mooney, president of Tampa university, Tampa, Florida.

Jane Carlin '40 took a civil service examination in physiotherapy which was also taken by approximately 500 others throughout the United States. Of these 500, fifteen were appointed; Jane's was one of the first appointments made. She will be given a six months' training course at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington during which time she will be an assistant physiotherapist. After this she will be given a government job for two years.

Births . . .

Daughters seem to be in the vogue among alumnae children; a daughter was born to Eleanor Lum Cramer on September 12; and Betty Wittwer '39, now Mrs. Robert Gravenor, had a baby daughter born on July 30.

Mrs. Clifford Heinz, a member of the Board of Trustees of Beaver college, gave a gift of $1000 to the annual campaign of the Alumnae association, which ended in June, 1941.

MEMBERSHIP GRANTED

At its annual June meeting the Beaver College Alumnae association presented to Lois Ledy Balbirnie '39 a life membership in the association.

This was the second life membership to be presented in the association, and the first one to be given by a class. The class of '39 also won the alumnae drive this year for the second successive time.

The Beaver's Tale

For weeks now, we've been flexing our lean brown fingers and oiling up the old Corona . . . girding our loins for the day when we'd be assigned to write our first column of the year. The day is here . . . the Ed came to us this a.m. and whispered in our pink ear (but firmly) to "write a column . . . and, you know, use your wit." Sooo . . . here we are and there you are, waiting for us to dash off something really clever and amusing . . . and the staff is breathing down our dimpled neck, striving vainly to read what few lines we have managed to salvage from our once-fertile brain.

Ho hum . . . vacation times are now a thing of the past. Gone are the lazy golden days on the beach . . . when we had nothing to do but admire the lifeguards' physiques . . . gone, too, are the sunlit mornings when we lolled in bed till high noon . . . when we could have dates every night if we wanted to (and if we were lucky!) Yea, verily, them days are gone forever . . . we'll lay our summer memories away in mothballs with "Daddy," the "Hut Sut Song" and our lastex bathing suit.

It is usually customary, and in fact downright traditional, for a college columnist to discourse in his first column about a subject pertinent and timely . . . namely, to say a few words, (well-chosen), to the returning students. Far be it from us to avoid the obvious . . . but we can think of nothing more enlightening to say than that we're awfully glad to see you all again . . .

and to greet all the new poopils and the freshmen.

The old reportorial nose, so adept at snooping of yore, is at present recuperating from the summer's sunburn—but we did manage to glean a few tidbits here and around campus. Not a few Beaver-ites made hay while the sun shone this summer. Result: new men! Betty Gilchrist's newest cardiac-flutter is from Washington, D. C. . . . you've heard about Foster from Mickey Drexler . . . Jo Wisse met Jack (he's coming tomorrow night) . . . and did you notice the rocks on the third-finger-left-hands of Laura Smith, Betsy Chapman, et al? . . . Peggy Thalhimier still gets oodles of mail . . . and Maggie Sala's looking forward to her phone call October 27th.

Candid shots . . . the freshman named Caroline who arrived the 27th mit orchid . . . Seaweed's new blonde hair . . . seniors searching for convenient resting places for caps while sitting in class . . . Patsy Rosoff still playing bridge in the lounge . . . Hoppy telling about Waldomar's falling in the pool at Grey Towers . . . Ye Editor lugging her typewriter hither and yon . . .

The summer months have wreaked dreadful havoc with our feeble mind . . . next issue, we'll be in the groove again, we hope . . . but we'll probably have about a dozen steady readers of our column anyhow, including relatives and proof readers . . . (whew! we did it . . . we actually wrote a column . . . such as it is!)

The Metronome

As this is a music column, we should perhaps burst into joyous song . . . with "School Days, School Days" or "Heigh-ho, Heigh-ho, It's Off To Work We Go" . . . but we're trying our hardest not to be trite, so we'll just skip the melody for now.

The music department is fast picking up where it left off last June and is getting back into its stride again. There's so much to do this year! Mr. Curry has promised us plenty of work and a rising crescendo of concerts, climaxed (wheel!) by the big soiree for glee club and orchestra that has been one of the brighter spots on our college social calendar for lo! these many years. There have been several rumors currently heard in the glee club circle that the Harvard orchestra might be exchanged for something new . . . and perhaps even more exciting . . . but nothing definite has really been decided on that score. Who knows? . . .

Another organization that is as busy as the proverbial bee, is the choir . . . which is under the direction of Mr. Nagle this year . . . he's taking Miss Bampton's work with the choir, you know. The choir will, as has been its custom in past years, sing at the Sunday services here at Beaver . . . and will also participate in Church Services in prominent churches in the Jenkintown and Philadelphia areas.

Sooo . . . it seems to be a busy season ahead of the music department, and we're looking forward to it with great eagerness. And if any of you upperclassmen and freshmen are interested in music . . . why not join us for some real musical enjoyment and lots of fun besides?

Beaver News To Hold "Tryout Night" Monday

Monday evening, October 6, at 7 o'clock, all those students who aspire toward a newspaper career will have the opportunity to show their skill in the tryouts which will be held by the Beaver News.

No matter what phase of newspaper work interests you, be sure to present yourself, armed with a sharp pencil, on "Tryout Night". Perhaps you've always had aspirations toward reporting, or you may be a natural-born columnist; you may be interested in advertising or the business end of the News; or perhaps you'd like to join our typing staff.

If you have any inclination toward newspaper work, be sure to come to the publications room on Monday night for tryouts. If you have never worked on a newspaper don't let this prevent you from trying—especially the freshmen who may feel shy about coming To you, freshmen, and to all other students, the staff of the Beaver News extends its most cordial invitation to "Tryout Night".

big way, and everyone will want to take part.

Last but not least—especially to the juniors—we give you the Junior Prom chairmen, Camille Houck and Marjorie Thompson. Prom is the big event of the year for the juniors and don't worry—you'll be hearing about it.

Song contest is another big Beaver event which will soon be here. Its class leaders are seniors, Betsy Chapman; junior, Camille Houck; and sophomore, Dorothy Harris.

Y.W.C.A. Holds Vesper Service At Grey Towers

The Y. W. C. A. held a Vesper service and tea in honor of the freshmen and new students at Grey Towers last Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Dr. Raymon Kistler delivered the sermon, the invocation was given by Dr. Stacy Roberts, and Miss Elsie Stryker gave the scripture reading. Dr. and Mrs. Kistler were at home to the students Sunday evening.

At the tea preceding the Vesper service Miss Ruth Higgins, Mrs. Raymon M. Kistler, Mrs. Stacy Roberts, Mrs. Frank Scott, and Mrs. Ruth Zurbuchen poured. Several members of the student body assisted with the serving. The guests were entertained with a solo by Gloria Marcus '43, accompanied by Mr. Lawrence Curry.

This Vesper service and tea has become one of Beaver college's traditions and is sponsored each year by the Y. W. C. A.

Party Given For New Girls

Huntingdon gymnasium was the scene last Saturday night of a "get acquainted" party given for all new students and their student advisers. The affair, which was under the combined sponsorship of the Y. W. C. A., the Athletic association, and the Student council, was planned under the leadership of Miss Hilda Guenther, head of the Physical Education department of Beaver.

The evening's festivities began with a "Grand March" led by Miss Guenther, in which all new students participated. As the mistress of ceremonies, Viola Monaco, president of the Student Government association, introduced organization officers to the freshmen and transfers.

The members of the Student council then presented the new students with their caps in the traditional capping ceremony.

A program of entertainment followed. Mr. W. Lawrence Curry and Mr. Thomas Barlow presented their very original musical arrangement of Jack and Jill. Marguerite Sala '43 and Mildred Casals '43 did a rumba dance, and Mary Berlin '43 sang The Indian Love Call and gave her interpretation of Mr. Curry's The Nightingale.

Delay Changes Advisory Plan

Because of the delay in the opening of college, the duties of the student advisers to the freshmen have been changed. The advisers have tried to do as much as possible to fill in the gaps made by doing away with freshman week.

There are two student advisers and one faculty adviser to every 10 freshmen. The faculty advisers and their student aids are:

Miss Ruth Allison—Gloria Sgritta, Janet Cooper.
Miss Marcia Anderson — Peggy Crosson, Martha Twigg.
Miss Elinor Barnes — Marilouise Hefty, Ardala Cozine.
Miss Mary Brill — Martha Skoog, Mildred Casals.
Miss Mildred Covey — Jean Grindrod, Emma La Rue.
Mrs. Frances Dager — Marie Sterrett, Vivienne Winters.
Miss Thelma Dillon—Betty Schwinhart, Mary Elizabeth Rothaupt.
Miss Janet Durand — Alice Taylor, Caroline Gerling.
Miss Helen Gilroy—Marion Bready, Helen Daumann.
Miss Hilda Guenther — Margaret Close, Louise Fillman.
Miss Lillian Knudson — Kathleen Eckroat, Jean Nester.
Miss Esther Metzenthin—Heimtraut Dietrich, Ellen Hodges.
Miss Katherine Stains—Betsy Foxcroft, Ruth Koehler.
Miss Lillian Stringfellow — Marion Moeslein, Muriel Danish.
Miss Elsie Stryker — Anne Ostlander, Virginia Millward.
Mrs. Edith Wright — Louise Rosenthal, Aune Allen.

Seniors Inaugurate Cap and Gown Tradition

At a special meeting of the Senior class last Sunday, the new cap and gown tradition had its inauguration. Following the roll call and installation of Senior class officers, Betty Anne Searle, president of the class, presented the first cap and gown to Viola Monaco, president of the Student Government association, symbolizing the presentation of caps and gowns to the entire class.

Forum Tickets Issued Now For Entire Year

Remember those little tickets, which along with a lot of other things, you acquired during registration? Well—you'd better dig them out and put them in a safe place because they're valuable. They're passes and what could be more important than a pass? They've been issued by the Forum of Arts and Sciences, and they will admit you to everything the Forum has to offer—and that everything includes a lot. You have the privilege of taking part in any activity which interests you; moreover the programs are of such varied and unusual interests that each student can find something in which to display her talents, and many programs to enjoy just watching.

The Forum was formed last spring with the following purposes: "To co-ordinate an activities program for Beaver college in order to provide for the college and for the community a distinguished and balanced program of entertainment; and for the student body, well-rounded and stimulating possibilities for creative effort and for personal activity in every field."

Anyone wishing information about the Forum may see the following faculty members: Mr. Benton Spruance or Miss Esther Metzenthin, advisers to the executive committee; Miss Mary Brill, adviser to the literature and drama group; Miss Mary Clarke, adviser to the world affairs committee; Mr. Lawrence Curry, adviser to the music and fine arts division; Mr. Paul Cutright, adviser to the science group; and Miss Katherine Stains, adviser to the vocational interests committee.

with the Jitney Players. She taught diction and Shakespearean interpretation at the Surrey Workshop and at the Boothbay Harbor Theatre-in-the-Woods, in Maine, besides producing plays at Brooklyn Heights seminary and at Marymount college.

Miss Ruth Bampton is taking a leave of absence this year. Her work is being divided between Miss Elizabeth Snyder, instructor in music, and Mr. Frank Costanzo, instructor in violin. Miss Snyder, a concert pianist, graduated from Beaver in 1939. Mr. Costanzo is a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Health and Physical Education department has two new instructors who will take the places of Miss Jean Ball, who has left to take a position nearer her home, and Miss Edna Cheyney.

Miss Frances Cumbee received the degree of bachelor of science at Alabama college in 1938 and her master's degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1941. She taught in the Pell City, Alabama, high school before coming to Beaver. Miss Esther La Rowe is a member of the Field Hockey association and the First Great Lakes Sectional team. She has a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and a master's degree from Columbia University.

Mrs. Phyllis Kiedel, instructor in Home Economics, has resigned.

Mrs. Stewart Girriel is the new director of residence of Grey Towers.

68 Graduates In Class Of '41 Have Positions

The placement bureau of Beaver college, directed by Mrs. Grace T. Sutton, has reported that sixty-eight girls out of the one hundred and forty-two in the class of 1941 are holding positions at this time. Of these placements, the highest number is in the early childhood education department, with the commerce students running a close second, and home economics not far behind. Seventy-eight of the members of the class were trained for teaching, and forty-six are employed in that field. Twenty-two of the girls are employed in other work, ten members of the class are in graduate or professional schools, and nine are married.

There were also placements of undergraduate students in summer employment. Five members of the class of 1942 and four of the class of 1943 were placed. The positions included: assistants in summer schools and day camps, camp counselors, social service, and clerical and secretarial work.

Dr. E. Fretwell Speaks October 8

Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell, professor of education at Columbia university and one of the country's most outstanding authorities in the field of extra-curricular activities, will speak at Beaver on Wednesday afternoon, October 8, in Taylor chapel at four o'clock.

After receiving the degree of doctor of philosophy at Columbia university, Dr. Fretwell became assistant professor of education in the teachers' college of the university. After the first World war in 1918, he was made organizer of the program of physical education and recreation for reconstruction hospitals for the United States war department.

Dr. Fretwell has been a leader in the movement to bring attention to the importance of extra-curricular activities in the schools. He has written several books in this field; one of which entitled Extra-Curricular Activities in Secondary Schools, is in the Beaver library.

Scholarship Awarded To Viola Monaco

The Y.W.C.A. scholarship for the year 1941-42 has been awarded to Viola Monaco '42, president of the Student Government association.

Every year it has been an institution of the Y.W.C.A. to offer a scholarship of one hundred dollars plus an active membership in the Y.W.C.A. Last year was the first that application for the scholarship could be made by the girls themselves. Consideration for the award was based on college records, character, and financial status.
