

Beaver Adds Ten New Members To College Faculty

Dr. Frank Scott Returns After Leave of Absence As Chaplain in Army

In addition to Dr. Frank Scott who returns as head of the department of Bible and Religious Education, Beaver has added three new heads of departments to its faculty this fall. They are Dr. John L. Dugan, head of the department of education and the co-ordinator for student teaching; Mr. John Wallace, head of the department of commerce; and Dr. Dallas E. Buzby, new head of the department of psychology.

During the war years Dr. Scott served as major and chaplain in the Army. He had previously taught at Beaver for 12 years, and the faculty, alumnae and students have looked forward to Dr. Scott's return to the campus.

Dr. Dugan Has Much Experience

Dr. Dugan, head of the department of education, has had much experience as a teacher. He was assistant principal of the Princeton High School and later principal of the Haddon Heights High School, supervisor of student teaching at Montclair, New Jersey, State Teachers' College, and instructor in Visual Education in the summer school at Pennsylvania State College. Dr. Dugan received the degrees of bachelor of arts and master of arts from Princeton University and the degree of doctor of education from Rutgers University. He has also studied at the University of Wisconsin and at Oxford University.

This new professor is one of the editors of The Educational Screen magazine and has served as president of the Visual Education section of the World Federation of Education Associations. He was recently chosen president of the Secondary School Division of the N. E. A. and has held numerous other offices in various educational associations.

Mr. Wallace Is Former Colonel

Mr. Wallace of the Commerce department was a Lieutenant Colonel in the Army where he had valuable experience as a glider instructor with the Airborne Command and as a designer of cargo and transport aircraft. The system of instructing which he orig-

Faculty-Freshman Reception To Be At 8 Tonight

Grey Towers Event Ends Freshman Week Activities Planned by Committee

The faculty-freshman reception will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at Grey Towers. Since this reception is the big event which will terminate freshman week, all freshmen are urged to attend the affair.

This is to be a formal reception at which freshmen will be introduced to faculty members by their student advisers. Mrs. Frances G. Dager, faculty coordinator of the advisory system, wishes to express her gratitude to the forty-four freshman advisers.

Entertainment By Faculty

The entertainment which will be presented by the faculty at this reception is being kept as a surprise.

Refreshments, including punch, cake, and ice-cream, will be served.

The receiving line will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Raymon M. Kistler, Miss Ruth L. Higgins, Miss Marjorie Darling, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott, and Mrs. Frances G. Dager.

The following seniors and juniors are freshmen advisers this year: The seniors are Shirley Blodgett, Beverly Brown, Gretha Buermann, Margaret Carnahan, Nancy Demme, Mildred Eisele, Suzanne Fischer, Shirley Glaser, Eloise Macdonald, Audrey Minchin, Ruth Moore, Lois Moss, Florence Mullen, Dorothy Presada, Mary Louise Roberts, Jean Stahl, Adrienne Thomas, Barbara Wasserman.

Plans Are Made For Song Contest On November 26

Traditional Event In Murphy Gym; Goodwin, Choo, Houck, Franck, Leaders

Plans for Beaver's traditional Song Contest are advancing. The contest, scheduled as usual for the night before Thanksgiving vacation, this year will be held on Tuesday evening, November 26, in Murphy Gym.

Representing the Student Council, Nancy Crosson '48 and Margaret Fassett '47 are in charge of the details. The upperclassmen have selected the leaders of last year with Doris Goodwin leading the seniors, Louise Choo the juniors, and Margaret Houck, the sophomores. The freshmen have chosen Betty Ann Franck as their leader.

Origin of Song Contest

Song Contest was begun in the fall of 1932 in an effort to establish traditional events for Beaver girls. From a small beginning, the contest gradually grew and became more and more successful. In 1936 Dr. Morgan Thomas, now president of the Board of Trustees, pleased with the contest and with the high spirits and interest, donated a permanent cup for the winning class and later gave another cup for the class winning honorable mention. Recently the Glee Club also presented a cup to be awarded for the best original song.

The classes each compose four songs: an alma mater, a pep song, a class song, and a marching-in song. The words and tunes to the first three must be original, but the tune to the last may be borrowed.

Practice Hours Named

Upperclassmen will be allowed only eight clock hours for rehearsal as compared to 11 clock hours last year, while the Freshmen will be allowed 10 clock hours.

To enable students to have more time for mid-term tests only one rehearsal has been scheduled during that time. Each class will have a final rehearsal at Towers.

Freshmen Explore In Philadelphia

Under the guidance of Miss Mary P. Clarke, professor of history, Miss Elizabeth Snyder, instructor in music and freshman faculty adviser, and Patricia Carnahan '47, vice-president of the student government, fifty-five freshmen toured the outstanding historic centers of Philadelphia last Saturday afternoon. Riding to and from the city in Beaver buses, the freshmen were taken through Christ's Church, Carpenter's Hall, Independence Hall, and the Betsy Ross House. Miss Clarke contributed interesting information to the group and pointed out the places of interest.

After the three and a half hour tour, the guiders led the new students through the main section of Philadelphia, showing them the more popular shopping centers.

Several of the students who accompanied the freshmen were Betty Ericson, Margaret Swart and Margaretha Buerman.

'The Reason For Going To College Today' Is Theme

Mrs. Pauline Dengler, New Faculty Member, Sings 'Pilgrim Song'

To enjoy living, to change living, and to make a living, these are the principal reasons for going to college today, stated the Reverend E. Fay Campbell, in his address at the annual Founders' Day program, Monday, September 23, in Murphy Chapel.

One of the greatest dangers in planning the college curriculum is the temptation to specialize too early in the course, continued Dr. Campbell. A far more effective method of learning to enjoy living is to find interests in additional courses outside the major.

Liberal Arts colleges are often reluctant to emphasize studies training students merely for a vocation. Dr. Campbell expressed his disagreement with this policy of isolating intellectualism in educating young women.

Dr. Campbell Holds Offices

Dr. Campbell is the secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. The four departments of this division carry on the church's work among students in both Presbyterian and tax-supported colleges.

Coming to the Board early in 1942, Dr. Campbell has a wide background in dealing with religious programs among students. For twenty-one years, until 1941, he was General Secretary at Dwight Hall, the historic Christian Association in Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut. During a year's leave of absence in 1934 he was a special staff member of the World's Student Christian Federation in Geneva, Switzerland. In 1928 he represented the Christian Student Movement of the United States at the International Missionary Council meeting in Jerusalem. From 1919 to 1921, he traveled widely among universities and colleges for the student Volunteer Movement, emphasizing the world appeal of Christian Missions.

Speaker Is Yale Graduate

A graduate of Yale University, Dr. Campbell took his theological degree at the Yale Divinity School. The degree of doctor of divinity has been conferred on him by Washington and Jefferson College and by Tusculum College.

Class of 1950 is Launched in Freshman Week And Settles Down to Classes and Calm After First Flurry

Ah, a beautiful day it was when the class of 1950 breezed into Beaver Hall and began a week of hurry, scurry and get-acquainted.

The day they had long awaited had finally dawned. Laden with suitcases they journeyed up the hill for the first time. Need we say it wasn't the last? The advisers had been waiting too, with baited breath, that is. But now their anxious moments were gone like the last year's seniors. Freshmen! Freshmen! Freshmen! Everywhere you looked you saw freshmen.

Excitement really kept things going with unpacking to be done, roommates to exchange greetings and of course farewells to the parents for a short while. By nightfall each frosh had in her possession a trusty little handbook, a cap of green and a fixed idea of her first day of college life.

Upperclassmen tumbled into bed more fatigued than after exam week while the freshmen visited merrily through the dorm making friends and snatching ideas on room decoration from their hall mates. They discovered that the week held many interesting and mysterious moments and finally scooted off to their rooms to await Tuesday's offerings.

Registration! Ah, registration. It seemed like every line our greenbedecked friends would enter seemed endless, but at last it was over and they began comparing notes to see just what their study hours would be bringing. The conclusion was that they would bring work.

The mystery of the greenie caps was over when it was explained that they would be tipped more often than they would be stationary on their heads. Hazing remained an unsolved curious notion, but then, there are still some secrets in that department.

So there they were on Wednesday. Already they knew what Beaver had to offer and how they fitted into the scheme of college life, but the upperclassmen were yet to arrive. Then with shrill greetings and happy reminiscences the "look out for us" upperclassmen were on campus with that gleam in their eyes and those heavy, heavy suitcases under their arms. But not for long did they stay strictly with their own classmates. Dormitory hobnobs brought them to the fore and the freshmen got their chance to laugh at them. When hazing arrived the tables were more than just tipped, they were completely turned.

Grey Towers tour was a thrill for those freshmen who had not yet seen its grandeur and beauty. For those who had seen the buildings there was still the thrill of having its fascinating history explained. The Big sisters soon came dashing in off the bus and the Y. W. C. A. picnic began. Hotdogs, relish, in fact the works, and to boot, meeting big sisters for the first time.

Entertaining days were far from over. The Forum presented a sparkling home talent show which proved that besides having our radio singer, Isabel Lockwood '48, and talented musicians like Marcia Passon '48 and Ada May Coburn '49 Beaver could also produce two faculty members of unlimited talent, namely Mr. Lawrence Curry, head of the music department and Mr. Thomas Barlow, business manager. Their rendition of Jack and Jill was simply out of this world. Yes Siree!

Quaking in their little loafers, the class of 1950 adjourned to the dormitory to find those wicked, mean old upperclassmen waiting to haze them. They soon found out that their technique held many surprises and that freshmen would really be freshmen.

Then came classes. Well, they had to come sometime. The first sessions of classes meant journeys to the book store. They in turn meant a mob scene, but all survived and lived to revive themselves thoroughly in the Chatterbox.

The historical tour of Philadel-

Many Additions Made To Library

Miss Mary Wheatley, librarian, has made the following announcement:

Library hours at Grey Towers can not begin until the stacks are delivered and the library has been put in order.

Library books will be loaned for one week periods this year, enabling more students to use a book while it is in demand.

Hours when the library is open are posted at the library door and on the bulletin boards of the three dormitories.

There have been thirty-five new periodicals added to the library including: American City, American Literature, American Photography, Asia and the Americas, Economic Geography, Child Life, Etude, Flying, House and Garden, Jack and Jill, Ladies Home Journal, Nation's School, New Republic, Newsweek, Pan American Union Bulletin, Parents Magazine, Popular Science, Radio News, Rotarian, Senior Scholastic, School and Society, Science Digest, Scientific American, Sky and Telescope, Story Parade, Virginia Quarterly, Vital Speeches of the Day, and the Yale Review.

Repertory Opens In Philadelphia

Eva Le Gallienne's American Repertory Theatre opened last Monday night for a two weeks stay at the Shubert Theatre in Philadelphia after which it will go to New York.

The two plays being presented are Shakespeare's Henry VIII and James M. Barrie's What Every Woman Knows. Henry VIII ran from Monday, September 23, to Thursday, September 26, and What Every Woman Knows will run from Friday, September 27, to Thursday, October 3. Henry VIII will be given again on October 4 and 5. There are evening performances every night except Sunday and matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

To The Freshmen . . .

As an aid to formulating our own thoughts about the relationship of incoming students to the Beaver News, we found ourselves resorting to the age-old trick of leafing through back issues of the News. We found many first issues—most of them saying the same thing in different words.

There were, of course, several of the "take-advantage-o-f-t-h-i-s-g-r-e-a-t opportunity" kind. There were the pre-war ones that told you to be grateful for living in America. There were the wartime ones that reminded you that these were serious times. We found that there were embarrassingly few original thoughts in our mind.

However, there was a note that ran through all these editorials that we resented—that struck us as false—an appeal to a kind of moralizing school spirit which you as freshmen could not possibly yet feel—which you may actually never feel—for Beaver. We do not believe that we could sincerely recommend your participation in any activities on the basis of this as yet unfounded kind of loyalty.

At this point in your careers, you are undoubtedly acutely concerned with you own personal, immediate lives. You would be inhuman if you were otherwise. And so, with all honesty, and in accordance with long standing tradition, we present our seniorly advice. We feel much the same as past editors—that you should be active in campus life—but, not as a duty or a responsibility or a token of gratitude—only because it would not be to your personal advantage to miss out on anything that Beaver can offer you—whether it be a chance to attend a Forum concert, to vote for an officer, or an opportunity to write a letter to the editor of the Beaver News.

Also to the Freshmen . . .

Just to let you know, freshmen, we think you're doing fine. Sometimes it is a little difficult to see the reasons for the outlandish garb, the extemporaneous performances and obedience to the upper classmen, but you will realize that there is nothing malicious or harmful intended except, perhaps, a slight deflation of the ego.

Your attitude of cooperation has been excellent and this spirit is one of the main assets in making a success of your college life. Whole hearted cooperation in whatever you tackle means a real personal satisfaction.

Keep up the good work. You have made a fine beginning.

"Henry V" - Shakespeare

By Helen Curran

It seems almost useless to add any more superlatives to those already bestowed on "Henry V", the English film produced, directed, and starred in by Laurence Olivier, as they have been totally exhausted by most of our noteworthy critics in Boston and New York. But after seeing this most excellent motion picture last week at the Golden Theater in New York, we have room for nothing but superlatives. Mr. Olivier has arrived at perfection in his interpretation of Shakespeare's historical drama.

The story of the play is simple and exciting, lending itself perfectly to the medium of the screen. It is the account of how the former playboy Prince Hal, now Henry V, advised by his ministers that certain lands in France rightfully belong to the English, sends the claim to Charles VI, king of France. The Dauphin of France denies Henry's claim, and war ensues. The dramatic climax of the play is the Battle of Agincourt, where the English, greatly outnumbered, defeat the French. Henry is acknowledged as the ruler of France, and he promptly declares his love for the beautiful Princess Katherine.

Mr. Olivier does not put the beginning of his production in 1415 (when Henry V was making his war plans) but in 1600, when Shakespeare's "Henry V" was being performed at the Globe Theater in London. In this manner, we are given a charming picture of the Elizabethan theater with its Renaissance stagecraft and varied audiences. Shakespeare's Chorus (intelligently played by Leslie Banks) asks, "Can this cockpit hold the vasty fields of France?, or may we cram within this wooden O the very casques that did affright the air at Agincourt?" and says "Piece out our imperfections with your thoughts!" Entertaining conjectures, and with the aid of Mr. Olivier's skillful production, we found this considerably less difficult than Shakespeare's early audiences must have found it.

The battle scene, together with the scenes in each camp on the previous night, are undoubtedly the best scenes in the film. Henry discussing the war with three of his soldiers is a scene notable for its beauty and poignancy. This, together with a view of the French, waiting impatiently and confidently in their tents throughout the night, is an exquisite and magnificent contrast to the actual battle scene.

The Battle of Agincourt, as presented in the film, is probably the best and most memorable battle scene ever presented. We felt a sense of exhilaration all through it. The broad fields, the brilliant colors, the heavily armored and swarming French, the small band of English with their flying arrows, and the magnificent Harry make the scene the essence of colorful pageantry.

The scene in which Harry makes love to the Princess Katherine makes one wonder whether the battle scene was the best after all. The intimacy and wit of the King's playful wooing are utterly and completely delightful.

All the adjectives used to describe excellent acting could be compiled together and they would still not give sufficient credit to Mr. Olivier's performance. He was outstanding in an outstanding cast. Each player, if it were possible, could be singled out for special commendation. Renee Asherson was especially charming as Katherine, making her seem fragile and dainty and wise and demure.

All in all, Mr. Olivier has undoubtedly brought to the screen the best example of film making that has yet been accomplished. It would be well worth any one's time and trouble to make a special trip to New York to see this really extraordinary motion picture.

THE KEYHOLE

By The Peeper

Falling leaves, green hats, and chapel bells and another year has been rung in at Beaver. We find as we move in and settle down that very little has changed. The buses are still as orange, the book store is still as mobbed, and the lines at registration were still as endless.

Our new freshman class is overwhelming in its size and conspicuous by its absence is the class of '46. Members of this class wasted no time in making news. Dottie Germain and Mark made the trip to the altar and wedding bells also rang for Martha Harris and Kitty Osler. Plans are nearing the finishing stage for Berky who says "I do" on October 20. But the graduates were not the only ones to tie the knots. Lynn Yost, Betty Bell, Carolyn Dill, Effie Potter, Bernice Bliss, Helen Cashdollar, Pat Amy, and Marian Senter followed in their footsteps. Cupid sprinkled some more stardust for Gloria Rubenstein, Mina Dornfeld, Sidda Mock, Joey Thurston, and Avie Crosier but as yet they only have one ring on their finger. Demme, one of last year's engagees, is still Miss but the date has been set for sometime in March.

The new decorations in Montgomery really pleased the gals but how about a couple of new screens for room 229?

Some people get three months vacation and come back to school for a rest. Wasn't it Helen Dziadzio and Nancy Bulkley that we saw snoozing in the infirmary?

What's this we hear about Peggy Carnahan and her Billy Joe from way down south? Could it be that catching Martha's bouquet was more than just a coincidence? The other half of the Carnahans is in the news, too . . . who's Johnny Red, Pat, and may we read his letters?

Forum Show

By Patricia Curran

The Forum Home-Talent Show, sponsored by the Forum of Arts and Sciences and held last week in Taylor Chapel, was one of the highlights on the freshman week program.

Margaret Crossfield '48, Marcia Passon '48, Carolyn Carlin '47, Effie Potter '47, Shirley Bullock '48, and Harriet Schlaner '48, as chairmen respectively of the Literature and Drama, Music, Art, Science, World Affairs and Vocational Interest departments of the Forum, explained their divisions' function to the new frosh.

Between these talks, upperclassmen and faculty members entertained. Mr. Lawrence Curry, professor of music, and Mr. Thomas Barlow, head of the Business Office, gave their now-famous "Jack and Jill" act in which they give their interpretation of how composers Wagner, Handel, and Bach would have performed "Jack and Jill," and then they gave the ditty in American style.

Beaver's songstress, Isabel Lockwood '48, entertained with renditions of "Hong Kong Blues," "I'm In the Mood For Love," and "Buttermilk Skies."

Marcia Passon '48 and Ada Mae Cobern '49 on a piano duet, gave their own interpretation of "Blue Skies," "South America Take It Away," and "These Foolish Things." Marcia then played "Begin the Beguine" as a piano solo.

Joan O'Dwyer '47, president of the Forum, acted as chairman of the program and introduced the following girls as officers on Forum this year: Barbara Wasserman '47, vice-president, and Louise Haskins secretary '47.

Bev and Polly are wasting no time between seasons. Howie and Colm drove them back Sunday after their weekend at home. Bart's been talking about some Andy lately and we wonder what's cooking.

For hours we puzzled over why Vi Long pulls an express wagon wherever she goes. She at last confessed that her Greek lit book had driven her to it.

Jo Sumers and Joan Koplowitz are running neck and neck in the telegram marathon, and we hear that they're taking up a collection to buy Mimi Paul a pair of track shoes.

We go for that feather cut Peg Houck, Peg Callaway, Jean Keck, Swannie, Ruthie Friert, and Romy are sporting . . . your ears are showing, girls.

We've heard of gals with dates and more dates but Ginny Dellinger had three last Friday between the hours of five and eleven. Better keep your signals straight, Ginny.

Most gals have their men take single pictures. Not Choo-Choo! She has them photographed en masse.

Perhaps one of the most worthwhile summers was spent by Rena Greenhouse. For some good lessons in Americanism why not see Rena personally.

And talk about mobs . . . it looks as if Beaver could stand a few more buses, especially after the Founders' Night program at Towers. We thought for a minute the freshmen would be walking home.

Guess this is all for now but just one reminder . . . keep your pencils sharpened, your shirt tails in . . . and . . . Tip, Freshie!

Metronome

By Marcia Passon

Musically speaking this year looks very promising. In addition to the interesting student recitals, Forum performers, Glee Club, and Choir activities which take place on our campus, there are, in Philadelphia, the "Pops" concerts, the Friday afternoon and Saturday night concert series, also Monday night (beginning October 4), performances of the Philadelphia orchestra, All-Star series, and other activities, most of which take place at the Academy of Music. Students interested in attending any of the series in Philadelphia should see Miss Amelia Peck in the President's office.

As many of us already know, Isabel Lockwood '48 has established herself as vocalist with Joye Kearns' band at station WCAU. She started the job this summer and will continue indefinitely. The program is called "The Mood is Rhythm," and it could go without saying, that since Isy is back at school, her fans have increased. Her name is Pat Lockwood professionally. May it bring her much luck . . . Babette Cranston '48 was soprano soloist at the First Methodist Church at which Dr. Lawrence Curry, head of the music department, is choir director . . . Marian Wolfinger '49 held the position as contralto soloist at the Doylestown Episcopal Church during this past summer . . . Miss Elizabeth Snyder of the music department spent most of her summer vacation at Syracuse University continuing her studies for the master's degree.

By next week we hope to round up all of the music majors in the class of '50 so that we may acquaint ourselves with them in this column.

A. A. Holds Gala Fun Night in Gym

The Athletic Association sponsored its annual Fun Night in Huntingdon Gym last Friday night. The evening's entertainment was under the direction of Doris Goodwin, president of the A. A.

The activities opened with a welcoming speech by Doris Goodwin. After this Mary Lou Johnston '49 led the group in square dancing. A quiz program followed the dancing. The questions covered various fields such as literature, music, and athletics. Prizes were awarded to those who gave the correct answers. The next event was a treasure hunt based on song titles. Ruth McFeeter, '48, secretary of A. A., conducted this event and awarded prizes.

After the program had been completed refreshments which consisted of dixie cups and pretzels were served to the seventy guests.

inated will continue in use for years to come, according to the report of Brigadier General Josiah T. Dolbey. Mr. Wallace has taken the degrees of bachelor of science and master of arts at the University of Pennsylvania and has almost completed the requirements for the doctorate. He has had teaching experience in Upper Darby.

The new head of the department of psychology, Dr. Buzby, served as an outstanding member of the faculty at St. Lawrence University for 11 years and has also instructed at the University of Pennsylvania and the Valley Forge Military Academy. He received the degrees of bachelor of arts and doctor of philosophy from the University of Pennsylvania and a theological degree from the Philadelphia Divinity School.

The English department is welcoming the return of Dr. Margaret Schofield Hinton as assistant professor. Mrs. Hinton has her bachelor's degree from Mt. Holyoke, her master's degree from Radcliffe and the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Pennsylvania. In addition, she has had advanced work in speech and clinical methods. Mrs. Hinton taught speech classes at Beaver several years ago.

Miss Margaret Green, who has been serving as secretary to the Dean and part-time instructor in the English department, will teach this year as a full-time instructor. Miss Green's alma mater is Randolph-Macon Woman's College. For several years she had an interesting experience as a teacher of English in Japan.

In the department of Health and Physical Education, Mrs. Mary Washburn Conglin of Hempstead, New York, will be instructor. She has her bachelor's degree from New York University and has taken some graduate work there. Mrs. Conglin has taught in Lawrence School and in other secondary schools in Hewitt Bay Park, St. Mary's School, and Amityville.

Miss Evelyn Giangulio will be instructor in the department of commerce. Miss Giangulio has taken the degree of bachelor of science and master of science at the University of Pennsylvania. In addition to having secretarial experience, she has served as an instructor in the School of Education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Marjorie Stevenson will be an assistant in the department of chemistry. She graduated from Hunter College with honors. Mrs. Clyde Dengler, who received the degree of bachelor of science in education at the University of Pennsylvania, will teach voice in the music department.

A third trained librarian has been added to the library staff. Miss Mildred Mengel, who graduated from the Library School at the Kutztown Teachers' College after several years of teaching experience, will serve as an assistant librarian.

'Beaver News' Presents Campus Leaders; Seniors and Juniors Head Student Organizations

Freshman week has been a series of introductions and getting acquainted, with roommates, student advisers, and big sisters appearing in confusing succession. So, now that names and faces have been straightened out, you will want to meet some very important upper-classmen.

A most prominent member of the student body is Dorothy Ingling, the president of Student Government Association. In addition to wielding the gavel at monthly S. G. A. meetings, Dorothy represents the interests of the students in all meetings with the faculty and administration.

The freshman class will also see a great deal of Patricia Carnahan, vice president of S. G. A. as well as student adviser to the freshmen. Other officers of S. G. A. are Eloise MacDonald, secretary, and Nancy Bulkley, treasurer. Day students, in particular, may turn for a helping hand to Margaret Fassett, president of the Day Student Organization.

Joan O'Dwyer, proudly hailed by the senior class for her dramatic ability, is chairman of the Forum of Arts and Science. Forum sponsors the many programs, both musical and lecture, which Beaver students may enjoy during the year.

Doris Goodwin and Betty Jane Anderson head two important organizations to which all Beaver students are members. Betty Jane is president of Y. W. C. A. and Doris, as president of the Athletic Association, is in charge of the program of varsity and intramural sports in which all students, including freshmen may take active part.

The Honor system is an important policy of Beaver student body, and is sponsored by the Honor Council whose president is Shirley Blodgett. Head of the Dormitory Council is Charlotte Halprin, and Social Committee chairman is Betsy McIntyre.

Various publications sent to press by the students themselves play an important part in student affairs. The Beaver News, edited by Mimi Paul, is published at least twice monthly. Patricia Curran, editor of the Beaver Review, will welcome all articles submitted by freshmen and upper classmen alike. Announcements will soon be made concerning Beaver's yearbook, The Log whose editor for 1947 is Shirley Glaser.

Among the other important upperclassmen are the class presidents: Leonora Brust, senior president; Joan Edwards, junior class president; and Beverly Peterson, sophomore president.

Really it's amazing how soon you'll get to know all of Beaver's 500 and some students, by sight at least.

Top Row: Patricia Carnahan, Vice President of the Student Government Association; Dorothy Ingling, President of the Student Government Association. ## Beaver Wins Intercollegiate Golf Tourney

Dorothy Germain Porter,
Dorothy Passon Bring
Victory to Beaver Team

During the summer of 1946 the Beaver College golf team added an intercollegiate championship to its impressive records. On July 8, a five man team journeyed to Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio, to participate in the second annual intercollegiate golf tournament.

Leading the undefeated Beaver golf team was Dorothy Germain Porter '46, recent graduate of Beaver College. Other Beaver girls who competed in the tourney were Jane Morris '47, Dotty Passon '48, and Nancy McIntosh '46.

The first day of the tournament was devoted to the team championship. Beaver annexed this title without any trouble. The red and gray's two-player total was 177 over the 6465 yard route of the Ohio State course. Beaver edged out Northwestern University by five strokes for first place. Dorothy Germain Porter, former woman's Western Amateur Champion looped four strokes off woman's par to post a 74 which was good enough to win the medalist honors. Dot's teammate, Dotty Passon '48 posted a 92.

On the following day play began for the individual intercollegiate championship. In the first round of match play Dot scored an 8 and 7 triumph over Mary Baumgarten of Michigan State. The Beaver star uncorked a medal of 38, two under par on the outgoing nine and made the turn six holes to the good. Dorothy Passon lost her first match to Roseann Shaffer of Rollins College, Florida, 7 and 5.

In the second round of match play the Beaver star defeated fighting Shirley Spork of Michigan State Normal. This was one of Dot's hardest matches. One down at the end of nine holes, she toured the last seven holes of the match one under fours, completing the last nine in 34 strokes and picking up four holes from the Detroit. The Beaver College campaigner had trouble off the tees throughout the first nine, nursing a bad hook for a par 40 while Miss Spork was carding a one-under-par 39. Shirley wilted under the pressure of the back nine, going three over par with a 41. By winning this match Dot gained a place in the semi-finals. In this match she played Patricia O'Sullivan of Bradford Junior College, Boston. She won by a 2 and 1 count. This was another close match for the Beaver girl. She was 5 up on the 11th green. However the Irish girl made a blazing comeback from there on, slashing out an eagle 3 on the 405 yard 12th while Dot had a birdie 4. She took the 13th with a par 3, halved the 14th and 15th, then shaved Dot's lead to two holes with a par 4 on the 16th. A half on the 17th ended the match.

The finals brought together two famous golfing names. Phyllis Otto who represented Northwestern University and Dot Germain representing Beaver College. The final was an 18 hole match for the championship. Dot started out in winning form and at the end of the first 8 holes she found herself 3 up. However, her luck seemed to run out at this point and the Northwestern contender took the next three holes. From then on the match was a nip and tuck affair and Phyllis finally won on the seventeenth by a 2 and 1 score. The only consolation in the loss for Dot is the fact that the championship will still be in the family for the new champion is engaged to Dot's brother John.

Nancy McIntosh, last year's president of Student Government, defeated Marilyn Pollock of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, 1 up in the first non-championship flight.

Hockey Team Practices Diligently During Week at Pocono Camp

Displaying a spirit of determination, eighteen members of the Beaver College hockey team started for Hockey Camp in Mt. Pocono, Pa. on September 9th. Led by their captain, Mary Louise Roberts '47, the girls realized that this year everyone would have to put forth a supreme effort to produce a winning team. Only three members from last year's first string are left to build the 1946 team on. They are Mary Louise Roberts '47, Ruth McFeeter '48, and Nancy Crosson '48.

At hockey camp the girls worked from early morning until late afternoon. A typical day at hockey camp would run somewhat as follows:

The day would start with a period of about 50 minutes of strokes. Following this there would be a practice game in which the girls would attempt to use the strokes which they learned. Team play and positioning were also stressed during this period. After the game the girls would gather in the main lodge for theory. Each girl and her position would be discussed, and suggestions for improvement would be added. Lunch and rest hour followed, and after a morning of such strenuous activity even the most energetic of the hockey enthusiasts appreciated the break in the day's activity.

The afternoon program was made up mostly of hockey games consisting of 15-minute halves. A few of the girls tried their luck at Lacrosse, which was taught by Phyllis Vane, former All-American Lacrosse player. Doris Goodwin '47 and Betty Nawrath '49 showed a keen interest in the game and made out surprisingly well for beginners. At the end of the afternoon's play an All-College team was picked and they played against a team composed of coaches. The coaches' team proved to be superior most of the time but then considering that their team had several All-Americans on it, the colleges really did quite well.

The evening program was varied, depending upon those in charge. One evening was devoted to theory and blackboard work. Another to demonstration of the various hockey strokes. A hockey quiz was held on one of the nights. The questions ranged from "How much does a hockey ball weigh?" to "How can an offside player put herself onside?" On the last evening of camp Miss Constance Applebee, the head of Hockey camp, told of her recent trip to England and of the alarming conditions which existed there at the present time. It was very interesting to listen to this great teacher and many of the girls realized how lucky they are to be living here in the United States.

At the end of a week full of days such as the one just described, the Beaver girls came home tired but filled with confidence. They are all looking forward to a season packed full of hard but pleasant work. We of the Beaver News and the entire student body wish them the best of luck in this new season and we will be backing them with a cheer and a song in all of the games this year!

Hockey camp was run again this year by Miss Applebee, who introduced hockey into the United States. "The Apple" as the girls affectionately call this great woman of hockey had as her assistants this year Miss Angela Powell, coach at Agnes Erwin School, Miss Sue Cross, former All-American center forward, Miss Ann Delano, coach at Smith and All-American fullback, Miss Betty White, All-American fullback, Miss Noreen Thompson, coach at Smith and former member of the All-South African team and Miss Betsy Cruthers, All-Intercollegiate right half-back and last year's captain of the University of Pennsylvania team.

Those girls who attended Hockey camp from Beaver this year were: Nancy Crosson '48, Betty DeCoursey '48, Charlotte Dunlap '49, Carolyn Edgecombe '49, Charlotte Geiss '48, Doris Goodwin '47, Betty Green '48, Dotty Harmer '48, Emily Heiser '49, Lucille Kraske '48, Ruth McFeeter '48, Betty Nawrath '49, Doris Pratt '49, Edna Scott '50, Jean Scott '48, Isabelle Smith '49, and Pat Steenson '49.

Weezer Roberts Hockey Captain

Attention freshman and transfer students! Allow us to introduce Mary Louise Roberts, 1946 captain of the Beaver college hockey team! "Weezer," as our captain is more familiarly known, is a day student and lives right here in Jenkintown. She is a member of the class of 1947 and is majoring in physical education. Mary Louise has held down the position of centerhalf back on Beaver's varsity for the past three years. Before coming to Beaver she attended Jenkintown High School where she played varsity hockey for three years. She was also captain of her high school hockey team.

Besides playing hockey Mary Louise plays basketball, softball and tennis. She also is president of Pentathlon, the honorary athletic society, and treasurer of the Athletic Association.

Capacity Enrollment at Beaver; Students Come From All Over World

With a capacity enrollment this fall of approximately 260 new students Beaver is once again the center for girls from out of the country as well as from numerous states. As in previous years, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and the New England states have sent a large majority of the girls.

Interesting new students are Lillian Boks from Antwerp, Belgium, who is now claiming Massachusetts as her temporary home, and two newcomers from Puerto Rico, Heyda Fajardo and Idalie Rivera. Their interests are varied, ranging from physical education to liberal arts.

October will be the month when France's first representative to Beaver in many years, Lucienne Clerlant, from Rennes, France, arrives. Her presence on campus will be a welcome and most interesting addition to the student body.

The west has sent us several new students, Patricia Little, an ex-servicewoman from San Diego, Marilyn Feisel, a transfer from the University of California in Berkeley, and from Texas a greenie freshman, Mary Jane Patch. Illinois, West Virginia, and Ohio each have sent two girls while Washington, D. C., Maryland, Delaware, and Beaver, Pennsylvania have sent one. Margaret Anderson, a liberal arts major, was awarded a high school scholarship from Beaver, former location of Beaver College.

Away on a month's tour through parts of California with Elsie, the Borden cow, is Anne Perrine from Princeton, New Jersey. Anne will return to Beaver to major in liberal arts.

Interesting note in this year's enrollment is the confusing presence of nine Browns, ten Smiths, and two Doris Pratts, not to mention the fact that there are four sets of twins, two of which are in the freshman class.

Team Is To Play Ten Hockey Games

Frances Heyl '48, 1946 manager of the Beaver college hockey team, has announced the schedule of games for the 1946 season. Looking over the schedule which is composed of such old rivals as Penn, Bryn Mawr, and Temple, it looks as if the Beaverettes have a season of very hard work ahead of them.

One of the highlights of this season's schedule is the annual southern trip. Again this year the red and gray plan to visit Westhampton, the woman's division of Richmond University and also William and Mary College. This trip is scheduled to begin October 24th and last through October 27th. While on this trip the team plans to take a tour through historic Williamsburg, Va.

Beaver has added two new games to their schedule this year. The names of Stroudsburg and Albright appear on the game list for the first time.

The Red and Gray will open its fall schedule in traditional form with the Alumnae game. It is expected that the alumnae will produce a star-studded line-up with such names as Dorothy Moffett, Elenore Pepper, Jane Scott, Dorothy Germain Porter, and Elizabeth Gold, all of the 1945 varsity leading the way. This game, as well as all the rest on the schedule will be packed full of thrill and excitement. We urge you all to support the team this year by attending all the games and cheering Beaver onward to victory!

YWCA Sponsors Freshman Tea

Honoring the Freshman class, the Young Women's Christian Association of Beaver College sponsored a tea on Sunday afternoon, September 22, from 3 to 5 o'clock in Green parlors.

The receiving line consisted of the following: Betty Jane Anderson '48, president of the Young Women's Christian Association; Miss Helen Crawford, assistant professor of Bible; Miss Ruth Higgins, dean of Beaver College; Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of the college, and Mrs. Kistler; Dr. Frank Scott, college pastor; Mary Reiley '47, Muriel Reummler '48, and Margaret Ingling '48.

The annual vesper service of the Young Women's Christian Association was held in Taylor chapel directly after the tea. Betty Jane Anderson presided.

Ministers from the local churches were introduced by Dr. Kistler, who also spoke a few words about religion at Beaver College. Dr. Frank Scott spoke in behalf of those ministers not able to be present.

Tour and Picnic Held At Towers

Big Sisters Entertain Little Sisters at Picnic

Little sisters were entertained by their big sisters at the annual picnic, Thursday afternoon, September 19, at Grey Towers campus. Betty Jane Anderson '48, president of Y. W. C. A., was general chairman and Mary Reilly '47 was in charge of the little sisters.

Miss Jean Francis, instructor in the art department, gave a lecture to the new students on the origin and architecture of Grey Towers. Following the lecture, advisers conducted the freshmen on a tour of the castle and the grounds.

The Big Sister-Little Sister Picnic concluded the tour. The picnic was under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A.

FRESHMAN WEEK

phia and the trips to local movies were the high spots of Saturday. When Sunday arrived the local churches found that their congregations were composed of many Beaver girls.

The Y. W. C. A. again took the reins in providing activity for Sunday by sponsoring a tea and vesper service for the student body.

Homework began to creep into the daily schedule by Monday, but the freshmen found that they had still other experiences to enjoy. Founders Night was their first big meeting in Murphy Memorial Chapel and also their first struggle for a seat on the Beaver bus.

Life goes rapidly on at Beaver. The freshmen are right in on every move, sharing the little traditions and the important ones which made freshman week and all the weeks to follow what they are... a lot of fun and a lot of learning.
