Home Ec's Plan Exhibit And Fashion Show Sat.

Beaver's home economics department is presenting an exhibit in Taylor Hall in rooms 10, 11, and 12 on Saturday, May 19, from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. and from 4 until 5 p.m. The exhibit will feature sections on careers, foods, nutrition, economic problems of the family, and clothing, textile and related arts.

Miss Isabelle F. Bull, professor of home economics, Miss Agnes Brown, and Mrs. Doris Hoffman also of the home economics department, and the students are arranging the exhibits. Refreshments will be served in the home economics rooms in Taylor Hall.

Elizabeth Dickinson '51 and Barbara Lawrence '51 are in charge of assembling and organizing displays in clothing and related arts. Patricia Jackson '52 is chairman of the exhibit on economics problems and Loretta Bove '51 is in charge of the fashion show to be given between 3 and 4 p.m.

The fashion show, featuring the work made by the girls in their clothing classes, will be given on the Grey Towers campus. The show is planned to illustrate the progress made in the clothing classes. Marilyn Neuburger '53 will act as announcer. The music will be furnished by Ernestine Barton '51.

The first section of the program is called "Our First Attempt" and includes work of the beginning clothing class. Girls taking part in this will be Shirley Davison '53, Anne Ditzel '54, Phyllis Haig '51, Dorothy Johnston '51, Thecla Karambelas '54, Lucy Rach '54, and Phyllis Shoobridge '54.

"Tailoring Problems" will be the next section. Girls taking part in this are Maureen Blocksidge '53, Shirley Davison '53, Joyce Gulick '53, Gertrude Kreider '53, Louise Prowell '52, Muriel Rosen, and Ruth Winterling '53.

The next section is entitled "We Draft and Drape." Loretta Bove '51, Betty Jane Bower '52, Elizabeth Dickinson '51, Marilyn Doig '51, Anna Gross '51, Catherine Kilpatrick '51, Carol Kinscherf '51, Barbara Lawrence '51, Helen Rickson '51, and Catherine Schwartz '51 will take part in this program.

"— And Meet Other Problems" with Loretta Bove, Elizabeth Dickinson, Carol Kinscherf, Helen Rickson, and Catherine Schwartz, seniors will be followed by "Finale" with Virginia Linsenmann, Marilyn Doig, Dorothy Hart, Betsey MacLeod, and Caryl Ulmer, seniors.

Faculty Club To Hold Dinner May 18

"Oriental Philosophy" will be the topic Dr. Siu-chi Huang, lecturer in philosophy, will discuss at the Faculty Club dinner to be held tonight, May 18, at Hatboro Hotel, Hatboro, Pennsylvania, at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Ruth L. Higgins, dean of the college, who will be the presiding officer, will introduce the speaker. Election of new officers for the Faculty Club will also take place tonight. The present officers are president, Dr. Higgins; vice-president, Mr. Alfred Vandling, associate professor of biology and physics; secretary, Miss Margaret Green, instructor in English; treasurer, Mr. John McKee, associate professor of mathematics.

Mrs. Gladys P. Cutright, professor of Spanish, is in charge of all arrangements for the Faculty Club dinner.

Announcement will be made of the senior who has won the Faculty Club Scholarship.

Alpha Psi Omega Has New Members

The Beaver chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary fraternity in dramatics, held its initiation last Tuesday, May 15, at Grey Towers. A dinner, under the direction of Marie Brunner '51 preceded the ceremony.

Any member of Theatre Playshop who has accumulated 75 points is eligible for the fraternity. These points are earned by participating in Theatre Playshop productions in either stage work or acting. Members receive a key for the maximum number of points, and as they acquire more, they may get pearl or diamond pins, according to the number of points.

The new members who were initiated are Betty Jane Alevizatos '51, Joan Berthiaume '51, Mary McConnell '53, Elise Melnick '53, and Nancy Jo Wright '51.

The old members of Alpha Psi Omega are Zelda Libenson '51, president, Ruth Ann Dreyer '51, Jane Ernstthal '51, Marie Brunner '51, and Barbara Stafford '51, recording secretary.

The officers of Theatre Playshop include Zelda Libenson, president, who will be replaced next year by Virginia Olsen '53; Marie Brunner, replaced by Elise Melnick; and Barbara Stafford, who will be replaced by Mary McConnell. Faculty adviser for Theatre Playshop is Miss Judith Elder, assistant professor of speech.

'51 Dedicates 'Log' To The Cutrights

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Cutright received the dedication from the senior class for the 1951 "Beaver Log" Wednesday at Move-up Night exercises.

According to Suzanne Cooney '51, editor of the "Log", who made the dedication, the Cutrights have contributed to the student body in molding "our intellect, our social thought and our character," and their spirit of giving talent and time.

Ingenious Students Have To Struggle With Machine Age In Beaver Chat

by BEV GIFFORD

Have you ever been curled up on one of the benches of the smoker engrossed in Shakespeare, chemistry, or Greek Lit, only to be interrupted at regular intervals by the shrieks of some distressed student standing in front of the coke machine holding a foaming bottle at arm's length? After about an hour, the kitchen door opens and Estelle trudges in to the scene of the accident "toting" a bedraggled mop to repair the damages. It's a never-ending cycle—the desire for a coke, the borrowing of a nickel, the search for a penny from somebody's cigarette wrapper, the rumble-grumble of the machine as it emits the seemingly harmless coke bottle, and then—the explosion and the clean-up committee.

However, there are a few enterprising students who have devised a scientific approach to the problem. One method requires three assistants who stand in specified positions ready to spring at the proper moment. Student A inserts the penny, glances authoritatively at her partners, and then inserts the nickel. Meanwhile Student B has assumed a crouching position in front

A.C.P. Give 'News' Excellent Rating For Fourth Time

For the fourth consecutive year, the "Beaver News" has received a First Class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press. The rating, which was decided upon by a group of professional journalists, was based on last semester's issues of the "Beaver News."

Of the five honor ratings, First Class, which is comparable to excellent, is second only to All-American, which is superior in rating. The remaining three classes include Second Class, Third Class, and Fourth Class, which are good, fair, and no honors, respectively.

A total of 148 College or University papers were judged. Of this number, only 13 received an All-American rating, 53 received First Class, and the remaining 82 all ranked below First Class.

The "Beaver News" was rated exceptionally high on creativeness, vitality, features, and printing. Suggestions were made by the A.C.P. for some improvement and, if followed, the "Beaver News" should undoubtedly be among the All-American College newspapers in the near future!

B.C.W.C. Luncheon May 19, At Towers

The annual spring luncheon of the Beaver College Women's Club will be held Saturday, May 19, at 1 p.m. at Grey Towers. As a guest at this luncheon the club has invited Mrs. Herbert Anderson, president of the Philadelphia Federation of Women's Clubs, Allied Organization Incorporated.

Following the luncheon, members will attend a fashion show put on by the girls of the home economics department at Beaver. The fashions that will be modeled have been made by the girls and will include cottons, beachwear, and many other spring fashions.

Music will be provided for the fashion show. Mrs. Lawrence Curry is making all arrangements for the music. Girls in the fashion show are cordially invited to bring their mothers. Tickets for outsiders will be $1.75 per person and can be obtained by calling Mrs. George Abell, president of the Beaver College Women's Club.

'Noname' Will Be Given May 18, 19 By Key & Cue

L. to R.: Jane Topping '51, Ellen Greenberg '54, Nancy Norman '53, Roberta Morrell '53, Louise Sharp '51.

"Noname," Key and Cue's third annual production, will be presented tonight and tomorrow nights, May 18 and 19, at the Jenkintown High School Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Jane Topping '51, with the assistance of Gayle MacCracken '52, is directing the production. Dorothy Hart '51 has composed the music and Greta Funk '52, Dorothy Hart, and Jane Topping have written the words.

Policy Committee Adds 3 Members

Dr. Belle Matheson, professor of English; Mr. Benton Spruance, professor of fine arts; and Dr. Everett Townsend, professor of economics and commerce, have been elected as new members of the Committee on College Policy.

Members of the faculty serving their second year on the committee are Miss Eula Ableson, professor of education; Dr. Dallas Buzby, professor of psychology; and Miss Bertha Peirce, professor of classical languages.

Permanent members of this committee include Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of Beaver College; Dr. Ruth L. Higgins, dean of the college; Mrs. Ruth Lindemann, registrar; Mr. Thomas Barlow, comptroller and director of public relations; Miss Marjorie Darling, director of admissions; and Miss Mary Fowler, dean of students.

Kistler To Speak

Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of Beaver College, will speak at two commencement exercises during the next week. On Thursday, May 19, he will address the Young Adult Conference in Logan.

On Monday, May 23, Dr. Kistler will speak at the Deep Run Valley School commencement, Souderton, Pennsylvania.

The setting of the musical is in a large boarding house in Greenwich Village, which is filled with all types of characters, consisting of an artist, philosopher, writer, dancer, singer, and various others. The action is under way when Martha St. Beacon, a former sociology major, arrives from Boston to visit her college roommate, Amy, who resides at the fabulous boarding house. Amazed at the odd life she finds there, she sets out to reform the people and, consequently, confronts many difficult but highly amusing complications.

Gayle MacCracken '52 will play the part of Martha St. Beacon. Faith Nightingale '53 will be Carol Johnson. Alan Mann will be played by Marion Stiles '52. Louise Sharp '51 will act the part of a philosopher and Nancy Norman '53 will be Don Keynote. Fred Weekly will be acted by Ellen Greenberg '54 and Amy O'Gyazin' will be played by Terry Goldenberg '53.

Margaret Getz '53 will take the part of Jene Pasact. Joan Davis '51 will take the part of Duke Flynn, and Myrna Tomys '51 will be Moldy Dimitriev. Dore Mefaso will be played by Patricia Line '52.

Doli will be played by Beverly Rappaport '53. Joan Morse '51 will play the part of Claude Hemming-horne and Roberta Morrell '54 will play Missus. Anita Cassimatis '54 will be Turf Luck.

The sopranos in the chorus will be Joyce Brennan '52, Claire Dressler '53, Marjorie Dundore '53, Barbara Freilich '54, Marion Friend '53, Jeanette Grigg '51, Lillian Howarth '52, Rosalie Kaplan '54, Jean Par-

Choir To Serenade Valley Forge Vets

The Beaver Choraliers will take their last trip of this year Sunday, May 20. This special trip will be to the Valley Forge Veterans' Hospital. The Choraliers will take part in the morning church services held at 10:30 in the hospital chapel.

Under the direction of Alice Birk '51, the Choraliers will present the following program: "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte-Deis; "Jesus, Jewel of My Faith," Bach; "O Bone Jesu," Palestrina; "The Greatest of These is Love," Bitgood; "The Lord Bless You," Lutkin.

Transportation is being provided by the hospital for the Choraliers. After the service, the girls in the group are to be guests of the veterans at a luncheon in the mess hall.

The Choraliers held their annual dinner last night, May 17, in Beaver Hall dining room.

U. S. Policy Carried Out

What is the central point of the Senate investigation of General Marshall in the MacArthur controversy? It is, we think, the policy to be pursued now in Korea.

In connection with this, President Truman in his message of January 13, to General MacArthur stated clearly the policy of the United States in the Korean situation. The policy partly consists of a clear survey of the political objectives of the Korean war, need for safeguarding and strengthening relations with American allies, and building up the strength of the United States for acting as a brake upon extending the conflict already in progress, or sending larger reinforcements if necessary.

As can be seen from the above, the United States does have a policy in Korea, and it is being carried out at this time; in Indo-China, for example, by saving her from armed conflict. It has also stimulated the defense of the west, and also deflated the ego of the Chinese communists.

In view of this the only charge that can be made against the administration is that it did not make its policy clear and comprehensive to the public. Even though the enemy might have learned the policy the fundamental conditions that were told to General MacArthur could have been released to the people. Had this been done, and had the United States had a more effective leadership at home, the doubt and confusion of the Korean conflict need never have arisen.

Now that the policy of the United States has been carried out, let's hope that the situation comes to a quick close.

Tangled Wires . . .

Recently some Beaver student placed a long-distance telephone call, and before the phone company could reach her, left the vicinity without paying the overtime, which was a sizable sum. One of the main complaints of the students is the lack of telephones in the dormitories. We do feel that the telephone system is inadequate, but the phone company refuses to install more phones until they have better cooperation from the Beaver students; and their position is justified.

Perhaps the greatest problem is the length of time the girls stay on the phone. Supposedly the calls are to be limited to ten minutes, but when some girls talk for a half an hour or more, confusion is bound to result. Often girls will receive calls on the inside phone, but by the time they are able to get to it, the person has hung up, sometimes after waiting even forty minutes! This is hardly fair to either party, and results in a tie-up on the wires.

Another situation which often rises is when the phone rings, someone answers it, and if the person's room is too far from the phone, the answerer hangs up. Many people have missed important calls this way, and it certainly is a most inconsiderate practice. Somewhat in the same vein as this is the practice of yelling down the hall for a person, and if she doesn't come running for the call, the one who answers the phone says either that the person is not in, or just hangs up without taking the message.

When taken through the bell-girl's desk, most inside call messages are accurately recorded and placed in a position where the recipient can easily find them. However, when students just passing by the phone answer it, they are very careless about messages, either forgetting them completely or getting them all wrong.

Often we do finally get our calls through, but then four or five people get into the phone booth to hear someone else's conversation. This is very unnecessary, and makes it very uncomfortable for all those involved.

Very often students get annoyed with the operators, and end up being rude to them. This sheds a very poor light on Beaver and is the cause of antagonism between the school and the phone company. If we want an increase in our telephones, we should prove that we can be more considerate and mature in our use of them.

Trowel Winners Tell Stories Of Lives

This is the conclusion of the feature on the winners of the Silver Trowel and their activities since leaving Beaver. These activities have proved to be many and varied and have, the "Beaver News" feels, made interesting reading.

Beverly Brown, 1947, was Silver Trowel winner in her class. She was on the Dean's list all eight semesters, won the Dean's Prize, the President's Prize, and graduated summa cum laude. Her major was interdepartmental language.

Miss Brown took an active part in extracurricular activities too. She was managing editor of the "Beaver News" and literary editor of the "Beaver Log" in her senior year. She was elected to Lambda Delta Alpha, Pi Delta Epsilon, and Alpha Kappa Alpha.

Miss Brown attended Middlebury College during the summer following her graduation from Beaver, and then attended the Sorbonne on a French Government fellowship for the year of 1947-1948. Since that time Miss Brown has been working for the United States Government in Paris. At present she is employed by the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Jane Locker, Silver Trowel winner in the class of 1948, was a business administration major and a social science minor. While at Beaver, Miss Locker made Dean's list all eight semesters, graduating magna cum laude. In her freshman year she won the Dean's prize for the highest freshman average. In her sophomore year she won the President's prize, and in her junior year she was a member of Honor Court, and also received the Armstrong Commerce Prize. In her senior year, Miss Locker not only planted the ivy for the Silver Trowel award, but also became a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, Lambda Delta Alpha, and Who's Who. She was also business manager of both the "Beaver Log" and the "Beaver News."

Miss Locker became employed at Standard Press Steel in 1949 and since that time has taken on much responsibility. She works in the Sales Service department and enjoys the work very much.

Hazel Gould Stein '49 is the only English major to receive the Silver Trowel award. She also received the President's Prize for the highest scholastic record in her junior year, and graduated magna cum laude.

Mrs. Stein, a day student, was active on the staffs of the "Beaver Log" and "Beaver Review." She was elected to Pi Delta Epsilon, Alpha Kappa Alpha, and Lambda Delta Alpha.

Married after her junior year, she is now living in Philadelphia, where her husband is a physician. They have one son.

Of her college days at Beaver, Hazel says, "I think of them as making up a carefree existence with major crises consisting only of exams . . . I wish I could tell you I went to North Africa to teach the natives to appreciate Shakespeare, but unfortunately that is not true . . . I hate to admit that Chaucer is picked up only to be dusted. Milton stands nearby and Shakespeare is used only when I want to find quotes to use in an argument with my husband. My books will always be, however, my third most prized possession . . . and are still my very good friends."

Margaret Mitchell '50, was awarded the Silver Trowel in her class. She graduated magna cum laude.

A fine arts major whom many at Beaver will remember, she edited the "Beaver Handbook" and created the cartoons for the "Campus Guide," which she also edited. She was the art editor for the "Beaver Log," and worked on the "Beaver News" staff.

She spent the summer after graduation doing art work on commission. She was also preparing to enter the School of Fine Arts at Yale University for graduate study which she did in the fall of 1950.

She took on another role this past Easter Sunday, March 25, 1951, when she married Mr. Robert Eskridge at Yale. Her husband is studying architecture and engineering at the university. She is now living in New Haven, Connecticut.

Recital Is Success

Reviewed by DEBORAH KIMMEL

"Square Pegs" and "Whistle Daughter, Whistle," two well contrasted one-act plays presented by the speech-English department were given in the Little Theatre on May 2 under the direction of Rae Rabinowitz as her senior recital.

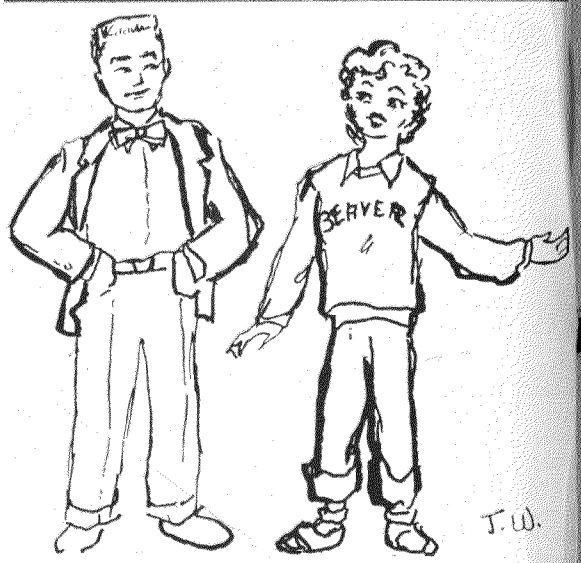

A comparison of the life of an Italian girl of the Renaissance period with that of an American girl of the present time, "Square Pegs," by Clifford Bax, was smoothly presented.

Sue Gorlin '54 as Giaconda, the discontented Italian girl, gave life to her performance by her manner and sincerity. She spoke her lines well, and with meaning. Elaine Whiteman '53 as Hilda, the modern American girl, rather overacted her part.

The very amusing play "Whistle Daughter, Whistle," by Ernest Kinoy, was well chosen in contrast to "Square Pegs." It is the story of Peggy, a young working girl who is constantly nagged by an ambitious mother, Mrs. Marks, to find herself a young man.

Doris Griffith Schaeffer '52 as the young girl seemed completely self-assured in the part and her amusing, sarcastic remarks were given added pungency by her saucy manner. Margaret Bonesteel '52, as the nagging mother who insisted she wanted the best for her daughter, seemed to enjoy playing the part.

Carolyn Danenberger '52 was not particularly impressive in her role of an awkward young man being pushed into a situation by a group of women. There should have been a touch of masculinity added to her voice. Mary Kern '53 didn't have enough expression in her portrayal of the mother.

Playshop Production Is Delightful Barrie Comedy

Reviewed by BEVERLY GIFFORD

Theatre Playshop's production of James M. Barrie's "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire" given last Thursday and Saturday, May 10 and 12, was thoroughly delightful in every way. Zelda Libenson '51, who directed the play as her senior dramatic recital, deserves credit for a job well done.

"Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire" is a comedy in three acts dealing with the antics of 17-year-old Amy Grey, who after seeing too many melodramas, imagines that her mother, Alice, is carrying on a love affair with Steven Rollo, an old friend of the family. Amy and her friend, Ginevra Dunbar, find their "proof" when they see Alice giving Steve a friendly kiss on the cheek and the two young women of the world apply what knowledge they have gained through the "theatre" in an attempt to save Amy's father, Colonel Grey. The action takes place in London in the early twentieth century about 1905.

Barbara Stafford's portrayal of Amy Grey was delightfully done, and her facial expressions were perfect for the part. She excelled in the second act especially and projected herself into the hilarious situation with great success. The part of Alice, portrayed by Elise Melnick, was excellently executed and although Elise did full justice to the part, this reviewer felt that judging from the success of Elise's past performances, this part was not as well suited to her dramatic ability as others she has played.

Mary McConnell as Cosmo, Amy's younger brother, was a show-stealer every minute she was on stage. She perfected her part even to the clumsy walk of a young boy with man-sized feet. The two men, Steve Rollo and Colonel Grey, were excellently cast with Stanley Henkles and Donald Bullock playing the parts respectively. Mr. Henkles, a member of the White-marsh Valley Players, was completely at ease on the stage and his treatment of the part showed that he is experienced in this sort of work. Mr. Bullock, a member of Wyncote Players, was extremely appealing as Colonel Grey. His appearance and stage presence were very natural and his humorous treatment of the part lent itself to the action of the play.

Joan Sniscak did a fine job in conveying the worldly-wise attitude of Ginevra. Jane Goller as Richardson, was one of the most hilarious characters in the play, and through her acting she showed that she enjoyed the part as much as the audience did. Jean Partridge as Fanny, and Jacquelyn McRury as Nurse, both played smaller parts with an equally satisfying performance.

Zelda Libenson should be very proud of herself for the fine directing job she did. The mood of the play was a difficult one to convey to its fullest, but Zelda displayed unusual talent along these lines.

The sets on the whole were very well handled by Ida Hickman and her committee. The dining room of the Greys' home as it appeared in the first and last acts was the better of the two scenes and showed the results of much work in coping with the inadequacies of the stage in Murphy Gym. The costuming by Jacquelyn McRury was outstanding and added a great deal to the color and mood of the play, and the Edwardian hair-dos done by Jane Ernstthal were just right. The styles of the period were duplicated most effectively.

Miss Judith Elder, faculty adviser; Miss Jean Franck sen, set consultant; and Mrs. Elsie McGarvey, costume consultant, all deserve a hand for their help.

On the whole, the production showed that everyone concerned had contributed his best to make "Alice Sit-By-the-Fire" as nearly professional as possible and much to the delight of the audience, Theatre Play shop hit the mark with another thoroughly entertaining performance.

To Lose Or Not To Lose Is A Weighty Problem

by LAUREL HARRIS

Mermaids all, lend me your ears. We're calling together all sylphs, Venuses, and potential Miss Americas in Beaver's bevy of beauties in order to expose the bare facts (and isn't this the season for it?) about the "whys" and "wherefores" of summer slimming down. Recently we've all been stumbling over empty Rye Crisp and Ayds boxes and figured it was time to investigate. Senator Estes Kefauver and his committee are on a bit of a vacation, so it was decided that we would attempt to divulge the secrets behind this weighty subject ourselves.

There are at present two ways of reducing that are adaptable for Beaver students. Some prefer the athletic method, others the starvation plan. At the moment, the former group appears to be the larger of the two, but that may be because it takes less willpower to be included in that category.

The athletes can be seen loping around the tennis courts about 6 o'clock any clear morning with sleep in their eyes, but expressions of determination on their little round faces. Like all dieters, they long to be slender for glamorous summer clothes (no two-ton Tessa looks good in a black lastex Bikini suit), and feel that they can, and must take off pounds by extreme overactivity.

They eat their usual simple breakfast of five or six slices of buttered toast with perhaps three or four cinnamon buns on the side. At lunch and dinner they have no qualms about partaking generously of macaroni, rice pudding, lyonnaise potatoes, and other similar delicacies. They also have no difficulty in consuming candy, ice cream, and creamy milkshakes. Activity does work up an appetite. However, the athletic weight-losers struggle vainly to uplift their vanity because: (1) all the excess food they consume can't help but add pounds (fie on those demon calories!), and (2) the racquet, golf clubs, or baseball bat that they've been swinging added unnecessary and unfeminine muscle.

The starvers have a more pathetic time losing weight and try to exist on almost no food. They lack carbohydrates, proteins, sugars, and starches, and become pale and listless. They often can just barely manage to drag themselves over to the sunbathing area.

The trouble with the starvers is that after a while the hunger pains get them. In rapid succession they attack sodas, pizza pies, and candy, and as a rule after two weeks of near starvation tip the scales at a round 180 pounds.

To defend the popular college student's overeating and underactivity, we should bear in mind that we are all growing girls so completely drawn into our studies that we must eat to stay active. When we are active enough to study we really shouldn't sacrifice our work for sporting. Stay as you are!

Dance Club Given Party By Adviser On Towers Campus

The Modern Dance Club was entertained last night at an informal get-together given by Mrs. Natalie Duffy, instructor in health and physical education, and the adviser of the club. The club members were entertained at the Gate House on the Grey Towers Campus.

The last activity of the dance club will be on Thursday night, May 24, when the girls will perform the best numbers from the May Day program for the Modern Dance Group at Drexel. The club will do "Summer time" and "Sleigh Ride." A group of girls from both the club and those who take modern dance as a class will give their pantomime or "Take Me Out To The Ball Game," the number which was so popular at May Day. After the program the girls from Drexel will entertain the group from Beaver.

This year a new policy is being instigated. All girls who have been in dance club for three years will receive a silver charm. The girls eligible for this award are: Shirley Mussare '51, Helen Anger '51, Patti Riker '51, and Sue Van Horn '51.

In the last official meeting of the club, the officers for next year were elected. Jacqueline Strohauer '53 is the new president; Virginia Platz '52 is the secretary, and Bernadine Muller '53 is the costume manager. The officers this year were Shirley Musson '51, president; Jacqueline Strohauer '53, secretary; and Helen Anger '51, costume manager.

Rifle Team Captures Nat'l. Collegiate Championship

L. to R.: Virginia Fulmer '51, Jo Ann Lissfelt '52, Beverly Gifford '53, Annette Lauer '51, and Lynn Johnson '51.

The Beaver College rifle team has captured the National Women's Inter-collegiate Championship for the second straight year. JoAnn Lissfelt '52 is varsity captain of the team, and Mr. Linford Shober is the coach.

The team has competed in the U. S. Women's Championships for the past nine years, and has placed either first, second, or third each time. Beaver shoots 15 to 20 postal matches and shoulder-to-shoulder matches each year, and the only one they lost was the first match with Drexel at Beaver, 495 to 493.

In the championship matches, the team shot 2474 out of a possible 2500, beating its last year's score by one point.

The runners-up were Drexel in second place with 2460 and George Washington University in third place with 2450. Beaver won the championship back in 1948 also.

One of the amazing things about the success of the rifle team is that before they came to college, none of the girls, with the exception of JoAnn had had any experience with riflery.

Virginia Fulmer '51 was the high scorer in the match with 498 points. Beverly Gifford '53 and Marilyn Johnson '51 tied second with 495, and Jo Ann Lissfelt and Annette Lauer '51 both scored 493.

The Beaver team has pre-season matches with various professional teams before beginning their collegiate matches.

This year Beaver shot and won postal matches with the University of Kansas, 491 to 477; University of Connecticut, 491 to 490; Oklahoma A. and M., 591 to 590; Ohio State, 496 to 492; University of Cincinnati, 497 to 471; Knox College, 497 to 487; Monmouth College, 497 to 474; Penn State, 497 to 491; Cortland State Teachers' College, 497 to 491; George Washington University, 497 to 494 and Cornell University, 496 to 495. The team also shot against the University of Hawaii.

Dorothy Johnston '51 is manager of the team this year.

Lacrosse Team Defeated 4-2 By U. Of P. At Penn

The Penn lacrosse players defeated the Beaver varsity with a score of 4 to 2 on Thursday, May 10. The weather was very cool with occasional raindrops spattering the players. There were two games, a varsity and a junior varsity.

The beginning of the first half of the game was uneventful. Each team carried the ball the length of the field only to be stopped by the defensive players and the goal keeper. Penn had a particularly good goalie who managed to keep all Beaver's shots out of the crease.

Near the end of the first half a Penn player scored a goal on an easy pass. In fact the pass deceived Rolone DeRolf '53, Beaver's goalie, because it looked like such a light shot. The first half ended in Penn's favor by one goal.

The second half again began to look very uneventful also but Target Hill '53, looking very determined, cradled the ball for about 25 yards and with a fast overhead pass won a point for Beaver.

Soon after this first goal Betty King '53 passed the ball to Ann Little '53, who put it in the goal with a high overhead pass. Penn soon tied up the game by sending a long pass past Lonnie.

The spectators felt the excitement keenly as they realized that the game was a tie. Each team tried hard to gain and hold the ball but Penn scored again. Realizing that the score was 3 to 2 and that there were only a few minutes left to play, the Beaver girls tried again to possess the ball and score another goal. However, in the last minute of the game to the cheers and groans of the crowd, Penn made their fourth goal to end the game 4 to 2.

The second team composed of beginners played a shorter but just as fast a game as the varsity did. Beaver won the game with a score of 4 to 0. Marion Stiles '52 made the only goal of the first half. In the second half Joanne Casselberry '54 scored one goal and Dianne Thompson '53 scored the other two points for Beaver.

Chemistry Students Attend Conference

Five Beaver students represented the college Saturday, May 12, at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science where a group of chemistry students met under the auspices of the Philadelphia section of the American Chemical Society.

Among the technical papers presented, there was one prepared by Janet Bullock '51, Aiko Miyake '51, and Dorothy Reisgen '52 on the subject of "Vinyl Derivatives in the Textile Field."

One of the purposes of this undergraduate chemistry organization is to consider summer employment for students the year before graduation, and also to build a working placement bureau. Many Philadelphia concerns were interested in the plan, and sent delegates to the conference to search for possible employees.

Among the 16 colleges and universities represented from the Philadelphia area were Beaver, Bryn Mawr, Chestnut Hill, Drexel, Haverford, Immaculata, LaSalle, Pennsylvania Military College, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, Rosemont, St. Joseph's, Swarthmore, Temple University, University of Pennsylvania, Ursinus, and Villanova.

Beaver students attending the conference were Eleanor Bobik '51, Janet Bullock '51, Jo Ann Lissfelt '52, Aiko Miyake '51, and Patricia Smith '52.

MAGILL SPEAKS HERE

The Reverend John Magill will speak in Taylor Chapel on Monday evening, May 21. Mr. Magill is the new pastor at the Abington Presbyterian Church, York Road and Susquehanna Avenue.

Drexel Shut Out By Beaver 10-0 In Five Inning Game

Beaver's varsity softball team won its fourth game in five starts by beating Drexel's ten, 10-0 in five innings, on Monday, May 14, on the Drexel diamond.

Pat Stevenson '51 pitched a one hitter as well as a shut-out. She struck out six batters and walked two. Drexel's pitcher, Byers, gave up eight hits and four walks, and had only one strike-out.

Drexel's hit came in the first inning. After this inning Stevie held Drexel at bay, mixing her pitches nicely, and catching the outside and inside corners. Stevie also was the only one to get an extra base hit in the game. It was a triple to left center field.

Beaver committed four errors while Drexel had 12. It was largely because of the errors that Beaver scored its 10 runs.

In the first inning Beaver scored three runs. Phyl Saxton '52 was the first one to score. She came in on a ball popped up by Weezie Ogden '53 to the right of the pitcher's mound, which was dropped by the pitcher. Bebe Steunenberg '53, running for Molly Kern '53, scored the next Beaver run on a hit by Mary Weighell '54. Dotty Duckworth hit Weezie in and the inning ended with the next batter.

Beaver also scored one run in the second inning, one in the third, three in the fourth, and two in the fifth to make a total of 10 to Drexel's 0.

Sports Round Up

by BEBE

Congratulations are in order for Beaver's rifle team. For the second successive year they have won the Women's Intercollegiate Rifle Championship sponsored by the National Rifle Association. Nice going, kids!

The spring sports are nearing the end of their schedules. Both the softball and lacrosse teams have only one more game to go, and golf ended yesterday with a round-robin match between Beaver, Bryn Mawr, Drexel, and Penn, at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

The lacrosse team played Drexel yesterday and on Tuesday, May 22, they will meet Swarthmore. Swarthmore has had an English coach for the season and therefore will probably give the Beaver team some trouble, but let's hope that the Beavers come out ahead at the final whistle.

Last Saturday, at a lacrosse play-day at Temple, Beaver's team tied Temple's for the championship of the play-day. Playing for Beaver were Eugenia Adler '54, Mary Ann Butler '53, Peg Funk '52, Target Hill '53, Jackie Jackson '51, Betty King '53, Ann Little '53, Jane Oswald '52, Robbie Pauls '51, Marion Stiles '52, Peggy Sue '54, and Molly Twichell '54.

The softball team will play its last game of the season on Monday, May 21, at home. This game was postponed because of rain, from May 4. It's just as well, too, because the team wasn't in very good shape after the licking they took from Ursinus on Monday, May 7. In case you're interested the score was 22-1 in favor of Ursinus. This reporter shall not delve into the details. Beaver is hoping to finish up the season in grand style by beating Temple; however, if you work on percentages Ursinus only beat Temple 6-4, therefore Temple has a good chance of winning, but Beaver will at least give them a good run for their money—that is, if the Beavers don't win.

After the Temple game the softball team will have a picnic and thus end the season until next year.

The faculty-varsity softball game was an absolute riot. The students won 7-6; however, the faculty gave them a pretty hard time. The highlight of the game was Harvey "hold 'em" Anderson's home run into deep left center. "Hold-'em" executed a perfect slide into home to make his hit a four-bagger.

Dr. Paul Cutright was originally supposed to pitch, but he fell trying to beat out a bunt and was shaken up quite badly, therefore Mr. Thomas Barlow pitched for the faculty and, by the way, was pretty good even though the varsity got 13 hits. Pat Stevenson '51 pitched for the varsity and allowed eight hits.

Mary Lauffer '40 and Eleanor Mitchler '41, two Beaver graduates, officiated the game.

The game was loads of fun to play and watch and some of those profs really surprised the crowd.

Carolyn Danenberger '52 and Ernie Irwin '53 have been asked to serve on a committee to plan the student section meeting of The Pennsylvania State Physical Education Association to be held at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia on Friday, December 14, 1951.

Don't forget Kids, let's get out there and support the teams during their last games.

Beaver Summer School Sessions Are Planned

Beaver's summer school session continue through Saturday, July 28.

Rutgers Dean Will Speak At Dinner

Dean C. E. Partch, dean of the school of education at Rutgers University, will be the guest speaker at the initiation ceremony for the new members of the Beaver Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in education.

The initiation ceremony will take place following a dinner at Grey Towers on Tuesday, May 22, at 5:30 p.m. Dean Partch will take part in the ceremony which will be held in the Mirror Room.

Dr. John E. Dugan, professor of education at Beaver College and faculty adviser of Kappa Delta Pi, stated that alumnae and faculty members of the society will be present at the ceremony.

New officers will be elected following the initiation. Current officers are Josephine Bruck '51, president; Audrie Max '51, vice-president; Patti Riker '51, secretary; Josephine Schupakus '51, treasurer; and Mary Ann Daniel '51, historian.

2 Y Scholarships Offered In 1951-52

Two one-hundred dollar scholarships are being offered by the Y.W.C.A. this year. Applications for the scholarships should be made to Patricia Smith '52, president of the organization by May 28.

This scholarship, a "Y" tradition, is one of the few grants made by the students to students.

Students interested in applying for this grant may do so by writing a letter to Patricia Smith stating their need and qualifications.

"Beaver Review" Awards 3 Orchids

The three orchid award winners for the current year were announced at Move-Up Night last Wednesday evening by Lucille Hudco '51, editor of the "Beaver Review."

Joan Davis '51 received an award for her short story entitled "The Tender Grasses," which appeared in the February issue of the "Beaver Review." June Hirsch '52 was awarded an orchid for the poem, "The Jade Merchant," which will appear in the forthcoming Orchid issue. For the best illustration of the year, Betsy Sawens '51 received the award for her composition in the November issue of the "Review."

The winning story, poem, and composition were chosen from all other entries published in the four "Beaver Reviews." The literary winners were chosen by the faculty members of the English department, and the winning composition was chosen by the art faculty.

will open on Monday, June 18, and informality will prevail with classes being held out-of-doors when the weather permits.

Classes will be for the most part scheduled in the morning so that students will have plenty of time for relaxation—swimming, sunbathing, or tennis.

Courses will be offered in the following departments: Bible, biology and physical sciences, economics and commerce, education, English, fine arts, history and government, music, psychology, and sociology. The instructors in these departments are respectively: Dr. Frank Scott, Mr. Alfred Vandling, Dr. Everett Townsend, Dr. John Dugan, Miss Margaret Green, Mr. Benton Spruance, Mr. Carl Hoffman, Dr. Lawrence Curry and others in the music department, Dr. Dallas Buzby, and Mrs. Thelma Address.

In addition to the session in Jenkintown, Mr. John W. Hathaway, assistant professor of fine arts will act as leader and instructor for a four credit course, "European Field Trip in Art," and there will be also a non-credit travel course offered.

The groups will tour England, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, and other countries.

Students who plan to attend the summer school session are urged to fill out their application blanks as soon as possible, and file them in the office of Dean Ruth L. Higgins.

Organ Majors Attend Seminary

The organ majors at Beaver College had the opportunity of hearing sacred music on Monday, May 7, at Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

The program began with recitals in the afternoon, and in the evening candidates for the master's and doctor's degrees in sacred music performed their own pieces. The program also included Benjamin Britten playing the Saint Nicholas Cantata on the organ.

The girls were fortunate in meeting several of the older musicians, many of whom are the composers of the pieces they play. The majors met Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Dickenson, the former head of the Union School of Sacred Music, and Mr. Hugh Porter, who is the head at present.

The organ majors who attended the organ music day with Dr. Lawrence Curry, professor of music, as faculty adviser were Betty Jean Arner '52, Ernestine Barton '51, Doris Dodd '53, Audrey MacLachlan '53, Rose Marie Reichle '53, Ellen Rich '52, Nancy Schaeffer '53, Elizabeth Smith '52, and Lois Young '54.

Newman Club And Soc. Club Elect 1951-52 Leaders

Nancy Brown '52 was recently elected president of the Sociology Club for next year. Marjorie Anderson '53 and Hannah Weiner '53 will work with Nancy as secretary and treasurer respectively.

Nancy will replace Joan Batting as president. Barbara Brown is the retiring secretary and Joyce Waldman the treasurer.

The final meeting of the Sociology Club will be held at Williamson's Restaurant in Jenkintown will include tribute to the senior members of the club.

Laura Traviano '53 was elected president of the Newman Club, an organization for Catholic girls, of Beaver College for the year 1951-52 at the last club meeting.

The new secretary of the club is Adeline Zullo '53, and Mary Kern '53 will serve as the new treasurer.

The Newman Club is quite active during the school year. Meeting once every month, the club manages to obtain various speakers for the meetings who discuss problems in which the girls are interested.

Communion breakfasts, dinners, retreat trips, dances, and cake sales are some of the projects which the club undertakes, making its program wide and varied.

All Catholic students are invited to join the organization.

Sponsor of the club is Dr. Anthony Flynn, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church in Jenkintown.

Jr. Prom, Soph Hop Chairmen Chosen

Betty Ann Lyle '53 and Beverly Gifford '53 have been elected co-chairmen of next year's Junior Prom. The date for the Prom has been tentatively set as February 16, 1952 and the committee urges girls to start getting their dates now so they won't miss any of the fun.

The freshman class is also preparing for next year and have elected Adelle Bovenkerk '54 and Florence Shafer '54 as co-chairmen of Soph Hop. Committee chairmen will be elected from those who sign up. November 3 is the tentative date for this first big dance of the school year.

Students Express Mature Ideas On Proposed Cuts

One of the most discussed questions on campus at present is the proposed unlimited cut system for juniors and seniors with at least a two-point ratio. The majority of students would like to see the plan endorsed, and they have been discussing it with maturity and understanding. The following students have voiced opinions which are typical of the ideas of the whole student body.

Margaret Willis '51—The recently proposed cut system allowing juniors and seniors with a two-point ratio unlimited cuts seems to me a fine plan because it is treating the students in a mature manner. It will be their responsibility to live up to the system by not abusing it. I think it will prove an incentive for Beaver girls to raise their marks. I believe the plan should be given, however, a trial period of perhaps two semesters before it would be adopted as a permanent one.

June Hirsch '52—I feel that the proposal of granting unlimited cuts to all students with a two-point ratio is an excellent idea. I feel that it will encourage many students who believe that they cannot "make the Dean's list" and attempt, therefore, only a C average, to strive for better marks. Granted that marks as such should not be the goal of a college student, this nevertheless is true in a great number of cases and, in any event, if a student works harder to attain a better grade, she will, or should, gain a greater amount of knowledge of and interest in her studies — it's simply the old story, "what you put into something determines what you get out of it."

As for the argument that the same people will abuse the privilege of cutting, my answer is that a student who wants to retain this new privilege will not be able to cut too often or her grades will drop below the required level.

Dorothy Reigen '52—I am in favor of the proposed unlimited cut system for Beaver. The fact that a girl has reached her junior year in college and has attained a two-point ratio indicates that she has gained a certain maturity and has developed a sense of good judgment regarding her education. The unlimited cut system places the responsibility on the student, the place where responsibility for conduct will lie after college. Therefore I feel that the system as proposed for Beaver should be given at least a year's trial.

Barbara J. Langdon '53—I consider the proposed cut system an excellent idea for juniors and seniors, or just seniors with a two-point ratio or better. It would eliminate extra bookkeeping for the office; allow more freedom to students with courses in which the teacher merely follows the text which can be read on her own time; and it would allow students to attend cultural activities in the afternoon, such as shows, lectures, etc.

Christine Kuhn '54 — I feel that the unlimited cut system that has been proposed is a good idea as it enables the students to use their own judgement. After all, we as students are paying for our education, and we should be permitted to cut our classes as often as we wish. We should be mature enough to be able to judge whether or not it is to our advantage to cut classes.

Diane Waxler '54—I think that the unlimited cut system would be an added incentive that we need to raise the standards here at Beaver. I feel that unlimited cuts should be granted to upper sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
