

Herbert Lansdale To Receive Honor On Founder's Day

Herbert P. Lansdale, Jr., executive secretary of the International Committee of YMCAs, will be honored with the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Beaver College at the annual Founders' Day service Monday, October 4, in Murphy Memorial Chapel at 7:30 p.m. As main speaker for the evening, he will also address the audience on the subject "We Start Another Year."

A leader in YMCA work for over 30 years, Mr. Lansdale now heads North America's YMCA World

Herbert P. Lansdale, Jr.

Services program which aids and cooperates with Association movements in 29 countries. Previous to this position he served as general secretary of the Rochester YMCA in New York State where he was an active leader in many civic, church, and welfare groups.

One particularly interesting phase of his work abroad was his job as a World Services secretary representing North America's YMCA movement in Greece for 14 years, from 1925 to 1939.

For his outstanding services to that country, the government of Greece has decorated Mr. Lansdale five times. His most recent honor, conferred in 1951, was Commander of the Order of Phoenix.

Originally from Baltimore, Maryland, Mr. Lansdale was educated at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1919 and his master of arts degree in 1920.

The Founders' Day service will be preceded by the academic procession of faculty, administration, and seniors. Faculty marshals will be Dr. Doris Fenton, Miss Isabelle Bull, Dr. Paul Cutright, and Mr. Benton Spruance. Suzi Ketz, president of the Student Government

HERBERT LANSDALE
(Continued on Page 4, Col. 2)

Fun, Frolic, and Football Are Featured In Weekend Social Events for Freshman

The coming weekend is one of frolic and new faces for the freshmen who will be entertained at two exciting social events.

Beaver College is the Friday night fun site and the occasion is the Day Student Mixer with its New York theme. The music will be supplied by Bob Lubkay and his orchestra from 8:45 p.m. to 12M. Featured Saturday, October 2, is a trip to Lehigh replete with football game, buffet supper, and a Dink Hop.

Working energetically on the Mixer since they have returned, the day students have left nothing to chance. The theme is carried through from the front porch, which will be strung with Chinese lanterns as Chinatown, to the Beaver lobby with its apropos title of Grand Central Station. Jenkintown gymnasium, in which the informal dance will be held, is being decorated with sky-line silhouettes and stars by Nancy Hess '55 and Mary Jane Radhe '55, co-chairmen.

Beaver's Waldorf-Astoria lounge

Beaver News

Vol. XXI, No. 1

BEAVER COLLEGE, JENKINTOWN, PA.

Friday, October 1, 1954

Cosmopolitan Freshman Class Dons Greenies For New Role

by SALLY WOODWARD

Beaver College, Monday, September 20: bulging baggage, a barrage of buoyant students, brooding parents, and a barometer forecasting bad weather. Such was the scene on the campus when approximately 200 new students, freshmen and transfers arrived to begin the fall term.

The register on Monday showed that students from all parts of the United States and countries in Asia and South America are enrolled at the college. Among the foreign students is Lillian Torres from Ponce, Puerto Rico. Lillian is the lone representative from that island.

Also arriving from that section of the world are two girls from Caracas, Venezuela, Clarita Darer and Judith Glijansky. Belva Henriquez, who flew to the United States and prepared for school with only a week's notice, is from Aruba, an island in the British West Indies off the coast of Venezuela.

The Philippine Islands are represented at Beaver by two girls. Anita Dee, a freshman, and Julia Dee, a junior transfer. Anita and Julia are from the cities of Quezon and Pasay, respectively. The girls are not, contrary to early opinion, related to each other. They were, however, good friends at home in the

Airline Caterer Is Dining Room Head

Miss Louise Swettman, Beaver's new dietitian, comes to us from the position of airline caterer at New York's La Guardia Airport. During her five years there, she supervised the preparation and packing of foods to be served on planes.

During the war, Miss Swettman was Petty Officer First Class in the WAVES. Under the official title of Supervisor of Clearance Desk in Operations, she cleared flights at the Naval Air Station in Anacostia, near Washington.

Last year was Miss Swettman's first with the Slater System.

A native of Hazelton, Pennsylvania, she is a graduate of State Teachers College at Mansfield, Ohio. She received her permanent certification at Pennsylvania State College and has done graduate work at the University of Minnesota.

will be Green Parlors, to which one can bring her date to pound out some jazz on the piano or to relax and watch the fights on T.V. For the more intellectual the Day Students' Room will offer scrabble, bridge, and ping pong, and for the hungry the Chat will offer refreshments in a cozy atmosphere.

With a refreshing sleep behind them, approximately one hundred freshman beauties will leave by Beaver bus for Lehigh University where they will be met by their pre-arranged escorts, also members of the freshman class. After watching the Lehigh-Delaware football game, their first glimpse of college football for some, the Beaver girls will be honored at a buffet supper. In the evening they will be escorted to the traditional freshman Dink Hop.

Arrangements for the day were made by the Lehigh sophomore class and the Inter-dormitory Council in co-operation with Miss Florence M. Brown, dean of students. Mr. and Mrs. James DiCarlo will chaperone the Beaver group.

Philippines.

Lily Tai, sister of Stella Tai, who was graduated from Beaver in 1952, is a junior transfer from Swarthmore College. Lily's family, originally from Shanghai, China, is now living in Manila.

Naomi Mori, who has been in this country for a year, comes from Tokyo, Japan. While in the United States, Naomi makes her home in Moorestown, New Jersey, where she was graduated last year from the Moorestown Friends School.

Arriving in the United States for the first time is Morgiana Lau from Hong Kong, China. Popularly called Harvey by her classmates, Morgiana will make her residence in school here.

After a somewhat delayed trip from Hanoi, Viet Nam, Teh-Kuang Li has finally made her much-anticipated arrival at Beaver. Because of conditions in her homeland, Teh-Kuang had to postpone entering Beaver for four years.

States represented by this year's freshmen class include: Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Virginia. The District of Columbia, too, is represented.

According to some unconfirmed reports there is also a large number of students from the independent and exclusive area of Brooklyn.

Approximately 60 student counselors, juniors and seniors, greeted and carefully aided the incoming students. Freshman Week, which extended from September 20 to September 26, was successfully organized by Ruth Atwood '56 and Joan Haly '56, co-chairmen of Greenie Daze; Suzi Ketz '55, president of Student Government; Shirley Kiefer '55, Big Sister chairman; and Bolyn Ramos '55, chairman of the student counselors and freshmen class student adviser.

Faculty and administrative personnel who planned much of the freshman program were: Miss Florence Brown, dean of students; Miss Marjorie Darling, director of admissions and freshman counselor; Mrs. Dorothy Haupt, assistant professor of music, and Miss Florence Oeters, instructor of music, freshman class faculty advisers; Dr. Ruth Higgins, dean of the college; and Mrs. Ruth Lindemann, registrar.

Activities for Freshman Week included Open House for the new students and their parents at President and Mrs. Raymon Kistler's home, a Freshman Rally at which the freshmen were taught the college songs and cheers, and Dormitory Hob-nobs, a series of skits presented by the upper-classes under the direction of Barbara Briggs '55, president of dormitory council.

The traditional Big-Sister-Little-

COSMOPOLITAN FRESHMEN
(Continued on Page 4, Col. 2)

4 Day Hockey Camp Promises Freshmen Members For Team

Beaver College launched its '54 hockey season on September 15 with the beginning of hockey camp. During the four days of camp, returning students and freshmen had a chance to become familiar with hockey once more.

Marlene Lochner '55, team captain for her second year, was in charge of the camp. Mrs. Mary Conklin, coach of the team, was assisted by Mrs. Louise Orr Dunn. Mrs. Dunn is a graduate of Beaver College and a former All-American. She led the girls in various exercises and drills for accuracy in stickwork.

In spite of the gray skies and brief showers that prevailed for the first three days, the girls practiced various techniques of the game as well as shooting for goals, passing, and running laps. The freshmen class contains several bright prospects for the team. Outstanding among them are Barbara Heylman, Peggy Peirce, and Kay Kidd.

Barbara, from Haverford, Pennsylvania, played varsity left inner for three years in high school. Her speed and ability to distribute the play have earned her a spot as center halfback on our team. Peggy Peirce played center forward for Ambler. She has been playing other positions at Beaver and to date it is uncertain which position she will retain. Kay Kidd, hailing from Bridgeport, Pennsylvania, had four years experience as goalie before coming to Beaver, and if she continues to perform as she does now, it looks as if she will have four more years.

A special event for those at Beaver interested in sports in general and field hockey in particular will be the game between an All-Philadelphia team and the visiting Irish team on October 13 at Wall Park in Elkins Park. The game will begin at 3:15. If there are enough students interested in attending, bus service will be arranged. The visit-

HOCKEY CAMP
(Continued on Page 4, Col. 2)

Mrs. Mary Conklin showing hockey diagrams to Jean Lenox and Minoo Sartip during hockey camp this Fall.

Beaver Welcomes Dr. Robt. L. Swaim As College Pastor

Dr. Robert Logan Swaim has been named college pastor and chairman of the Bible and Religious Education department at Beaver. Since the death of Dr. Frank Scott last April, the college has been without a pastor and department head.

Before coming to Beaver, Dr. Swaim was professor of religion and philosophy at the College of Emporia in Emporia, Kansas. In addition to his professorial work, Dr. Swaim, who was ordained a minister in 1933, has served pastorates in Pittsburgh; Butler, Pennsylvania; Detroit; and Newark, Ohio.

Dr. Robert L. Swaim

A native of Doniphan, Missouri, Dr. Swaim attended the University of Tennessee and Maryville College. He received the degrees of bachelor of arts from the University of Pittsburgh, bachelor of sacred theology from Western Theological Seminary, and doctor of theology from the Iliff School of Theology.

Dr. Swaim is also the author of numerous magazine articles and miscellaneous poems. He is the author of "A History of the Middlesex (Pennsylvania) Presbyterian Church." At present, Dr. Swaim is doing research work on an interpretation of the New Testament.

Dr. Swaim is one of two full-time additions to the faculty this year. Dean Ruth Higgins announced that there were no resignations from last year's faculty and that every member returned for the 1954-55 academic year.

Forum To Present Artists on Oct. 5

Providing the program for the first college assembly, Tuesday, October 5, will be Jack Bookbinder and Frederick Gill, painters and authors, presented by the Forum of Arts and Sciences. They will lecture on art, present slides, and demonstrate different art forms.

Mr. Bookbinder and Mr. Gill are listed in "Who's Who in American Art." Mr. Bookbinder is the author of pamphlets and articles on art education. His chief occupation is special assistant to the art director of the Philadelphia Public Schools. He has also lectured at the University of Pennsylvania and at the Academy of Fine Arts.

Mr. Gill, a noted painter, has won prizes for his works which have been shown in the United States. He is head of the art department at Central High School in Philadelphia.

Last Friday night, September 24, Forum presented a British movie, "The Lavender Hill Mob" with Alec Guinness. The movie concerned a bewildered yet clever man who posed as a bank clerk while working with mobsters, making up the Lavender Hill mob. After a gold robbery by the members and the loss of the gold for their beneficial use, hilarity followed as the mob attempted to regain the gold.

It was a well-co-ordinated movie with low and high comedy finely mixed. It lived up to the standard of British film reputation.

Freshmen Reflect Spirit of Beaver . . .

Classes have started, suitcases are unpacked, and most of the freshmen have recovered from illusions of dating every night. In short, things are back to normal for another school year.

Every year the upperclassmen marvel at the exuberance, wide-eyed enthusiasm, and astonishingly large number of pretty girls in the freshman class.

We wonder how they can possibly do so much; adjust to a whole new world, and many times an entirely new viewpoint, learn all the rules, make friends and start classes, and at the same time grasp the intrinsic ideals behind those sometimes-pleasant, sometimes-annoying freshman traditions.

We know they have heard all about the Honor System; they have memorized the ALMA MATER and they are beginning to feel like a class, even if the feeling is only a kind of collective self-pity. How much they understand of honesty, honor, loyalty, respect, and kindness, only they know.

These values are not ones a person can learn like the words to "We Are the Scarlet and the Gray." They have to be assimilated almost unconsciously as any newcomer picks up the ideals of a group.

This puts a tremendous responsibility on the upperclassmen. We can make this freshman class what we want it to be.

The values the freshmen learn are going to be our values; their opinions of this school, its councils and traditions, will largely reflect what we ourselves think of them.

Freshmen are highly susceptible to attitudes like, "It's what you are that counts around here," or "Nobody will find out anyway."

After all, the final aim of any good school is that each individual graduates a better person than he was when he or she entered. We are privileged in having here at Beaver an excellent faculty and in being church-affiliated.

But the faculty and college pastor cannot possibly influence a girl as much as her friends and classmates.

It is simply a matter of seeing to it that dating, clothes, and weekends do not become all there is to college for any of us. Kindness, a real desire to learn, a distaste for haphazard or even slightly shopworn morals or values—all these are easily indicated and are, actually, a part of all of us.

Now, if ever, we should be strong in our beliefs. These are the "days of our glory." These are the times when we should be thinking and standing up for what we think.

When we graduate, it will not be these buildings or this campus that we remember. It will be the atmosphere of Beaver, and, most of all, the people, because Beaver is and always has been the girls who have worked to uphold her ideals.

J. E. C.

An Appeal to Reason

It is imperative in our generation and in the generations succeeding us that we be ruled by reason. This is especially true in the field of politics.

Previous ages were not plagued by weapons as awesome as those which have been developed in today's scientific laboratories. An all-out war at present time can mean nothing but complete destruction.

The United States' political history has been soiled intermittently by warmongers. Unnecessary wars have been instigated by unthinking politicians in spite of our system of peaceful democracy. Glaring examples which are familiar to all of us are The War of 1812 and The Spanish-American War. I will admit that historically neither of these wars was terribly destructive and that our land acquired by them helped round out our natural boundaries. War, in our era, because of the nature of our military methods will be much more destructive, and therefore the present day warmongers can cause much more damage than their predecessors did.

It is important to us as intelligent people, and prospective voters, to be more aware of the ideas and ideals of the men for whom we vote. We must be sure that they will be guided by sound reason rather than a quest for personal gains.

Far from preaching the pacification of communism, we believe that Dean Acheson's plan of containment should be followed. We must push the Reds back whenever they overstep their boundaries, and we must not fail to defend our allies whether or not they accede to our political demands. It is necessary for the public to realize that our outwardly altruistic foreign policies are in truth safeguards to our own security. Foreign aid must be continued regardless of Asian and European attitudes towards us.

We may look forward to continued uneasy peace. There will doubtlessly be many outbreaks on a scale comparable to Korea. It will be important for us to treat these outbreaks as minor upheavals and avoid drifting into another major world war.

If the public demands reason and sound judgment on the part of its politicians and removes from office all those who would, for the sake of publicity and sensationalism, endanger our peace, we can look forward to continued peace and prosperity.

—Janet M. Goldberger

Letters to the Editor

It's so good to be back at Beaver — talking once again with the upperclassmen and getting to know all the new students.

Everything at Beaver seems so new each September—new students, new haircuts, new boyfriends, and a new chance to get from Beaver what we most desire. Just what we do get from Beaver each year is clearly a matter of individual preference—and that's the way it should be.

I would like to take this opportunity to wish you all—individually and as class groups—the best of luck. Whether this is the start of a new experience, as it is for the freshmen, or another "new chance," as it is for the upperclassmen, I truly hope you will all have a happy and successful year.

Sincerely,

Suzi Ketz,
SGA President

Dear Editor,

This is a letter to the editor from one of the sub-editors.

Well, here we are again, back in the Black Hole of Calcutta dramatically screaming our journalistic heads off, counting lines with chewed off fingers, and emoting in creative little articles such as this. What fun!

What are our chances, editor, for winning the Pulitzer Prize in Journalism this year? No, huh. Why? I see, it's limited to big dailies who have lots of foreign correspondents running through European tunnels in leather trench coats.

To get to a more practical

OH, I wouldn't worry about Hazing!

Aria Da Capo Continues To Win Praise As Fourth Repeat Performance Is Given

To those of us who witnessed the first presentation by the present senior class of Edna St. Vincent Millay's Aria Da Capo at play contest last year, it is not surprising that the production continues to receive laurels. After winning victory for the class of '55 at play contest, for the college at the UNESCO Drama Festival held at Harcum Junior College last spring, and after representing Beaver at the Cultural Olympics at the University of Pennsylvania, the production was again performed at the Little Theatre Drama Festival in the Playhouse in the Park on September 25th. Presented by the Greater Philadelphia Drama Association under the auspices of Philadelphia's Department of Recreation, the festival consisted of the productions of twelve member groups, of which the Beaver College Drama Playshop is one.

Under the direction of Miss Judith Elder, the play was adapted from the conventional stage to the round one of the Playhouse in the Park. Despite the short time available for re-organizing and for adjusting to this new staging, the performance was smooth and well co-ordinated.

The original cast appeared in the play. Sally Woodward '55 was seen as Pierrot, the buffoon and Sandra Henoch '55 as his scatterbrained sweetheart, both symbolizing the farce of life. Marilyn Moore '55 appeared as Cothurnus, the Masque of Tragedy. Ellen Katz '55 and June Bohannon '55 played the shepherds, Corydon and Thyrsis, in a scene which is a brilliant attack upon war.

Patricia Israel '55 was stage manager and Martha-Lee Taggart, production manager. Others associated with the production were Joan Leaman '55, Barbara Briggs '55, Rita Pawlikowski '55, and Joan Kovacs '55.

The experience of appearing at the Playhouse in the Park was beneficial to the members of the cast, and served as favorable publicity to Drama Playshop and to Beaver College. It is hoped that we will be seeing many more productions in the coming year as successful as Aria Da Capo.

Marilyn Berg

question, how do you think our paper will go over with the rest of the gang at school? You think it will be good. Naturally, look at the masthead. What? You want to hear from our large reading public? You want their reactions?

Have you told them how much we like to receive their letters to the editor disputing and suggesting? If you haven't, I just did it for you. I'll remind them that they must write their letters and give them to you Monday morning of the week the paper comes out.

Yes, I'll close now and write my other stories. Here's hoping everyone likes the News this year and that if they don't, they write and tell us.

Happy Writing,

Your Feature Editor

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to Forum for the movie, "The Lavendar Hill Mob," last Friday night. Barring a few mechanical difficulties it was a good movie and one I had wanted to see. We have always needed something on Friday nights, especially at the beginning of the year. Forum might also sponsor tickets and transportation for the good shows in Philadelphia. We are all looking forward to other enjoyable programs sponsored by Forum in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Corrine De Vries

Beaver News

Editor-in-Chief Jane Cranmer

EDITORIAL STAFF

News Editor Kathie Gibbons
Make-up Editor Lois Brands
Feature Editor Sally Woodward
Assistant Feature Editor Joan Cranmer
Copy Editor Shirley Kiefer
Sports Editor Irma Vit
Assistant Sports Editor Debby Fisher
Photography Editor Maritie Polk
Art Editor Rita Pawlikowski
Drama Editor Marilyn Berg

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager Marilyn Moore
Advertising Manager Patricia Lingsh
Circulation Managers Joan Mower, Joan Christopher
Faculty Adviser Mrs. Mary S. Sturgeon

Published Bi-Monthly by members of the Student Body of Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa.

Subscription Rate $4.75

Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa.

The "Beaver News" is a publication by and for Beaver students and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of the administration.

ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE PRESS

MEMBER

1955

1954 Represented for National Advertising by National Advertising Service, Inc.

Campus Leaders Cite Aims of Main Organization

President of Student Government

Suzi Ketz

One of the most important organizations on the Beaver campus is the Student Government Association, of which each student is a member. This group undertakes the task of carrying out the best interests of the student body and forms a link between students and the administration. S. G. A. promotes good will and loyalty throughout the college.

Editors of "Beaver Log"

Rita Pawlikowski

The yearbook is published by the student body under the leadership of the senior class. This publication includes an account of campus activities of the year as well as photographs of the students and organizations. Also in the book are pictures of various spots on campus and photographs of the faculty. This

YWCA

Janet Murray

The Young Women's Christian Association is an active organization on the Beaver campus. Stressing friendship, it is primarily a service group. The "Y" sponsors Religious Emphasis Week each year, as well as one chapel service each week. The Big-Little Sister program is also under the direction of the "Y," a part of its effort to create friendly ties between freshmen and upperclassmen.

President of Nominating Council

Bolyn Ramos

The vice-president of the Student Government Association is the president of Nominating Council. The purpose of this council is to supervise all student elections. The council prepares the ballots with names of all eligible students.

In order for a student to be eligible for nomination she must meet certain standards.

Honor Council

June Bohannon

Honor Council is the governing body for the execution of the Honor System. The Honor System at Beaver applies to the academic fields. It is the responsibility of the council to encourage the highest ideals of honor among the students, but it is up to the students to make the Honor System work.

Beaver is proud to have an Honor System.

Beaver Review

Joan Kovacs

The "Review" is the literary magazine of Beaver. Students' short stories, poems, and art works are published after being edited by a student staff. The "Review" tries to encourage all students with ability who are interested in creative writing to submit their work to the staff so that the highest standard of writing will be achieved.

Forum

Sally Woodward

The Beaver College Forum of Arts and Sciences is an organization which helps to draw together the fields of fine arts, literature, music, drama, science, and world affairs. This unity is achieved partly by bringing outside speakers to address the student body. These speakers are usually authorities in their profession, and often students have the opportunity to ask pertinent questions.

Dorm Council

Barbara Briggs

Dormitory Council is the organization designed to keep all students happy and comfortable in their respective dorms. Quiet hour, maintenance of certain parts of the dorm, and social regulations concerning dorm life are all under the control of the council, which consists of the first and second house presidents of each dorm and corridor representatives.

Beaver News

Jane Cranmer

The "Beaver News," published bi-monthly, is a publication by and for the Beaver students. The "News" brings the students up-to-date on all campus activities. The "News" also tries to print features on sports, college life, and the theatre so as to reach and interest all members of the student body.

Athletic Association

Marlene Lochner

Every student at Beaver is a member of the Athletic Association. The primary purpose of this organization is to create in the students a spirit of good sportsmanship and also to develop an interest in all sports.

The association supervises, sponsors, and supports varsity teams in hockey, basketball, swimming, softball, and lacrosse. The A.A. also furthers intramurals and sponsors the annual A.A. show.

Tradition-Laden Grey Towers Once Again Opens Its Doors To Forty-eight Students

Grey Towers Castle, to most of us, means Junior Prom and all the glamour and excitement that go with it. Different aspects of the castle appeal to different people, but to all of us it has been a show-place, something special, not connected with day-to-day life at Beaver.

This year, of course, all that has changed. Forty-eight girls are living there now. There are an average of three girls to a room, but it seems to us that there is room for at least one more. The prevailing feeling is that of spaciousness — the long windows, the full length mirrors, the French doors, and high ceilings adding to this impression. Each girl has an average of one and one half to two closets, and seven girls share each marble bath.

Probably the most interesting rooms are the singles. Joyce DeRose has one and Helen Starling the other. Both rooms are round. Helen's room is like something out of "Jane Eyre." At the foot of her bed is a small spiral staircase that winds up to a locked room at the top of the turret. Helen is certainly to be congratulated for being so calm and matter of fact about living there. We, being slightly more imaginative, would be able to see distinctly weird and ghostly creatures at all hours of the night. Joyce's room put us in a different frame of mind. The pink walls have pictures of happy cherubs pasted on them.

Some girls on the second floor have enough room for a study adjoining the bedrooms. We saw one study with an elaborate but non-working chandelier. These rooms seemed to be even larger than those on the first floor. All the girls have done magnificent jobs decorating.

Meals at Grey Towers are the same as those on Jenkintown campus. For those of you who haven't yet had a chance to investigate, the castle has its own smoker and soda fountain. Hidden away under the stairs is a tiny chapel which will be used on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Monday nights everyone attends chapel on this campus.

People have told us that walking into the castle is like walking into another world, like eavesdropping on another era. How will this affect these girls? Will they change any? Or will they change the castle? The outcome will be interesting because it suggests a similar question which erecting modern buildings over there would raise. This first year is a trial, and the forty-eight are lucky to be so tied up with tradition.

Ministers' Dinner To Be Held Oct. 7

Clergymen from neighboring churches have been invited to attend the annual student-minister dinner on October 7 at 6 p.m. in the Beaver dining room.

Sponsored by the Faith and Heritage Commission of the YWCA, the purpose of the dinner is to acquaint all new students with the churches and the clergy in the surrounding areas. Represented will be Catholic, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Lutheran, Methodist, Friends, Baptist, and Christian Science clergy.

After the dinner students will have a chance to enter discussion groups with representatives of their own church.

Catherine Gunsalus '56, chairman of this annual event, announces that invitations have been extended to the Reverends John Magill, Abington Presbyterian; Cecil Jones, Grace Presbyterian, Jenkintown; J. E. Mecouch, Carmel Presbyterian, North Hills; Lewis A. Briner, Calvary Presbyterian, Wyncote; Charles W. Griffin, First Baptist Church of Glenside-Wyncote; T. L. Rich, Jenkintown Baptist; and Anthony J. Flynn, Church of the Immaculate Conception, Jenkintown.

Also invited are Mrs. Marion R. Randolph, Christian Science Church, the Reverends Louis E. Fifer III, All Hallows Episcopal, Wyncote; Reginald Davis, Church of Our Savior, Jenkintown; Alvin H. Butz, Jr., St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran, Glenside; and B. H. Barnes, Jenkintown Methodist.

Dean Names 17 To 1954 Honor List

Dr. Ruth L. Higgins, dean of the college, has announced that ten seniors and seven juniors have been named to the Dean's Honor List on the basis of their work during the second semester of last year.

Seniors included on the list are: Evelyn Haver, Suzi Ketz, Shirley Kiefer, Marlene Lochner, Marilyn Moore, Janet Murray, Rita Pawlikowski, Bolyn Ramos, Dolores Russo, and Nobuko Yabuno.

Juniors named to this academic honor list include: Mary Louise Adams, Helen Condodina, Marion Davis, Janet Goldberger, Margery Griffith, Susan Rhodes, and Toni Robin. The present sophomore class had no honor students.

To be named to the Dean's list, a student must have a ratio of 2.5 for a semester. A ratio of 2.5 for two consecutive semesters merits inclusion.

Vogue Magazine's Contest Presents Jobs To Winners

Vogue Magazine's annual competition for senior college women, which awards jobs and prizes to winners, is accepting enrollments now through October 15.

First prize in the 20th Prix de Paris is $1,000 or two weeks in Paris. The winner has her choice of going to Paris on an all-expense paid tour, or receiving $1,000. Second prize is $500 in cash.

Sixty more college women will be helped with their careers. Ten Honorable Mention winners will receive $25 and first consideration for jobs on Vogue and other Conde Nast publications, while the next fifty top-ranking contestants will be introduced to stores, advertising agencies, and other magazines.

Writing ability, grasp of subject matter, general intelligence, originality, and demonstration of special talents are the points on which contestants are judged.

Enrollment blanks are available upon request from the Prix de Paris Director, Vogue, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, New York.

Induction Service To Close YWCA Membership Drive

The Beaver College YWCA officially began its membership drive Thursday, September 30, and will close it Wednesday, October 6, with a candlelight induction service in the chapel.

Purpose

The purpose of the YWCA, according to the president, Janet Murray, is to integrate the spiritual life of the students with the academic and social life of the campus and to help each student find a stronger and more creative faith which will help to become a more well-adjusted member of society.

Commissions

To accomplish this goal more effectively, the YWCA has four functioning commissions. The Faith and Heritage Commission, whose chairman is Catherine Gunsalus '56, is responsible for interpreting the Christian faith and providing worship experience for the members. The Personal and Campus Affairs Commission, whose chairman is Ruth Denker '56, deals with the problems students face as individuals on the campus and attempts to develop enriched personal relationships.

A third commission, Social Responsibility, with Nancy Walters '57 as chairman, relates the student to civic and welfare activities and considers problems of community living. The commission on World Relatedness, Nora Hegedus '56, chairman, aims to increase understanding among peoples and nations of the world.

Speaker

The Reverend Gayraud Wilmore, staff member of the Student Christian Movement for the Middle Atlantic Region, will speak at the Wednesday night chapel service, following which all old and new members will be formally inducted. Day students planning to join the YWCA are invited to dinner that evening and to the chapel service. Towers residents will also attend the service since there will be no separate chapel for them on that date.

During the drive a book will be placed in Beaver Lobby for all members to sign and indicate the commission of their choice.

Cabinet

The cabinet members in addition to the commission chairmen include: Sally Conover '57 and Eleanor Perrine '57 as publicity chairmen; June Bohannon '55 as grace chairman; Jean Stull '56 as conference chairman, Jackie Phillips '56 as SVM president, Kay Harris Wurst '55 as day student representative, Carol Ulley '56 as day student publicity chairman, and Joan Sweiger '56 as drama and art consultant. The officers are Janet Murray '55, president; Shirley Kiefer '55, vice-president; Barbara Daugherty '56, secretary; and Susan Rhodes '56, treasurer.

Miss Edna Bockstein, Concert Pianist, To Perform at Beaver, Friday, October 8

Miss Edna Bockstein, talented pianist and concert artist, will appear in a recital on Friday, October 8, at 7:30 p.m. in Taylor Chapel.

A graduate of the Julliard School of Music, Miss Bockstein has studied principally with James Friskin, noted Bach exponent. She made her debut in 1941 at Town Hall, and since that time has achieved wide recognition.

Having appeared with the N.B.C. Symphony and the Philadelphia Orchestra, Miss Bockstein was also soloist for two successive seasons with the New York Philharmonic Symphony in its Carnegie "Pops" Series.

Her next New York City appearance at Town Hall will be on October 31. While Miss Bockstein is in the Philadelphia area, she will also present recitals at the University of Pennsylvania, Harcum Junior College, Temple University, and Swarthmore College.

Miss Bockstein's recitals have met with both critical and popular success. She has also reached the ears and the eyes of many thousands through a number of television appearances as a guest artist.

All Beaver students are cordially invited to attend Miss Bockstein's performance. This invitation is also extended to the dates of the students. This is one of many occasions that Beaver College has been privileged to have as a guest an outstanding artist.

ACP Hi Lites

From the Daily Nebraskan, University of Nebraska, come these suggestions on what you can do if you fall on the dance floor during a fast number:

1. Just lie there — they'll think you've fainted.
2. Start singing — they'll think you're part of the act.
3. Start mopping the floor with your handkerchief — they'll think you work there.

At Oklahoma City University a coed placed a want ad in the school paper to recover some lost articles. Among the items she advertised were two mechanical pencils, a purple formal, a $3 check, one shoe, a pajama bottom, a suit of long underwear, and a white shirt.

"It's normal for a girl to lose these things," she said.

Sister Matilda Mary, in charge of casting for "The Young and Fair" at Holy Names College, Spokane, Wash., was quick to explain her criteria.

"When I give a girl a part it is because I think she can do it well," she said, "not because I think it fits her own personality."

Characters in the play include a bully, a liar, two women who value material security more than a clear conscience, and a kleptomaniac.

At Albany, New York, State College held its first dawn dance recently. Called the "Bunny Hop," the dance began at 5 a.m.

From International ACP:

At Cambridge University, England, the student newspaper has called for the abolition of the "medieval institution" of curfews. Present Cambridge policy locks college gates and lodging house doors at 10 a.m., and fines must be paid for late entry.

The student parliament at the University of Helsinki, Finland, drew fire from the student newspaper recently. The paper charged that nearly half the delegates were absent from the last meeting, many of them without leave.

The parliament blamed the poor turnout on "spring fever" and declared the meeting void. The names of the absent members were to be published in the newspaper as punishment.

When you pause... make it count... have a Coke

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark.

© 1953, The Coca-Cola Company