These reports were followed by the announcement of the Student Council Scholarships, which were took their places as senior representatives to Student Council, replacing Patricia Israel and Rita Pawlikowski, as did Jean Lenox and Joan Flickinger as junior representatives in place of Patricia Darling and Barbara Daugherty.

Norma Kovacs and Carol Shafer replaced Jean Bankson and Marcia Clist as sophomore representatives, and Maxine Swift and Nancy Barnes left Student Council to be replaced as freshman representatives next fall.

Other members of Student Council who also received their keys were Barbara Butler, June Bohannon, Marlene Lochner, Ann Mower, Janet Goldberger, Ruth Anderson, Janet Murray, Sally Woodward, and Joan Christopher.

The new members of Student Council along with the class representatives and the officers then took the oath and presented the keys to the retiring members of their councils and announced the new members. These girls are Susan Rhodes, replacing June Bohannon as president of Honor Council; Janet Goldberger, replacing Sally Woodward as Forum president; Terry Bizzarri, replacing Marlene Lochner as Athletic Association president; Catherine Gunsalus, replacing Janet Murray as YWCA lications, and appointed committees on campus were replaced by the newly selected ones.

Preceded by a dinner for retiring and incoming officers, the meeting followed regular procedure with processional, singing of the Alma Mater, and chapel devotions led by Dr. Swaim.

Suzi Ketz, president of S.G.A., called the meeting to order, asking for the annual reports of the secretary, Virginia MacQueen; treasurer, Joan Haly; vice-president, Boly-awarded to Jean Bankson and Esther Lou Parker. Suzi then retired from her position and Virginia MacQueen accepted her responsibilities as the new president of S.G.A., presenting Suzi with the Student Council key.

With Ginny presiding, the new student council was installed: Boly Ramos was replaced by Barbara Daugherty as vice-president of S.G.A. and president of Nominating Council; Virginia MacQueen was replaced by Martha Berglund as secretary of S.G.A.; Joan Haly was replaced by Irma Vit as treasurer of S.G.A.

Eileen Meaney replaced Nancy Hess as president of the Day Student Organization and Marlene Dieterichs succeeded herself as Day Student representative to Student Council.

Bolyn Ramos Wins Ohio Wesleyan Graduate Award

Bolyn Ramos, a member of the senior class, has been offered a graduate assistantship at Ohio Wesleyan University, commencing next year.

Entering the university in September 1955, she will do graduate work in psychology. In addition

Bolyn Ramos

Bolyn will be a member of the Dean of Women's staff in her work as a graduate assistant in the dormitory.

Vice-president of the Student Government Association, she has been an active campus leader.

This year she was president of Nominating Council, head of the Student Counselors and freshman class adviser, and last year president of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary fraternity in philosophy.

A native of Davao City, Philippines, Bolyn came to the United States in 1951, and Beaver in the same year. She plans to return to the Philippines to teach and do youth work.

Editors of Campus Publications Announce Staffs for Next Year

New publications staffs have been chosen to publish the "Beaver News," "Review," "Log," and "Handbook" for the coming year.

Next year Jane Cranmer will again be the editor of the "Beaver News." Her staff consists of Lois Brands, makeup editor; Kathleen

Kathleen Gibbons has been chosen to publish the "Handbook" and Guidebook for the coming year.

Students Receive Scholarships

Esther Lou Parker and Jean Bankson will receive the Student Council scholarships of $200 each for next year, it was announced at Move-Up Night, May 10.

This is the first year that two scholarships have been given by Student Council. Student Council scholarships have been awarded to Beaver students for the past three years, on the basis of financial need.

Four other students are recipients of scholarships. Bernice Markin received the Alumnae Scholarship, while Sandra Dart is the recipient of an award given by the Long Island Alumnae Club of Beaver College.

Carol Broadbent was awarded the Philadelphia Alumnae Club Scholarship given annually to a day student.

Only one of the Women's Board Scholarships has been announced and that was given to Virginia Shinn.

Students To Elect Judicial Board Officers May 18

Elections for Chairman and Secretary of the newly-formed Judicial Board will be held Wednesday, May 18.

Candidates for the office of Chairman are: Mary Lou Adams, Janet Goldberger, Kay Gunsalus, and Joan Roth. Mary Lou Adams, a sociology major, was last year's Chairman of Song Chest and will be Chairman of Song Contest in the fall. Janet Goldberger headed the Student-Parent Organization and was First House President of Montgomery Dorm last year. A history major, she has been voted next year's Forum President.

Elected president of the YWCA for next year, Kay Gunsalus is a history and government major. Majoring in the same field, Joan Roth was on the "Beaver News" staff last year and has been selected next year's "News" editor for government and politics.

Candidates already elected to major positions for next year would resign these if elected chairman of the Board.

Candidates for the office of Secretary of the Judicial Board are: Jean Bankson, Lois Brands, Pat Carthage, Marcia Clist, Pat Darling, Shirley Delmage, Joan Kindervatter, Nancy Malaun, Bernice Markin, Peggy McKee, Lee Olsen, Joan Roth, Carol Shafer, Elaine Schermerhorn, Jean Stout, Althea Trutner, and Grace Warrington.

Home Ec. Students To Give Fashion Show On May 16

The Home Economics Department will present its annual fashion show on May 16. Rather than a presentation in assembly, which has been customary in the past, the show this year will be presented at the Home Economics House for members of the department, the

1955 Summer School to Begin June 20 for 2 Month Session

Each year the Summer School of Beaver College provides a means of graduating in three and a half years for those students who have entered Beaver at mid-year. This can be accomplished by attending two summer sessions. The summer school program also permits students to lighten their winter programs and make up courses which may have been dropped on account of illness.

This year's summer school sessions will begin with registration on June 20 and continue through the month of July. Courses in Bible, business, education, English, fine arts, history and government, music, philosophy, psychology, science, and sociology will be offered by regular members of the faculty.

Students desiring to take summer courses for credit should obtain approval for the selection of courses from their major advisors and Dean Higgins.

A minimum of six students must be enrolled for a course in order that it may be given. Classes are scheduled as much as possible in the mornings, and weekends are free.

Ivy Hall will be the summer dormitory and meals will be served in the Beaver dining room.

In addition to courses offered on the college campus, travel-study courses in Europe provide credits for students taking the tours. The Art Course will be conducted by Mr. John W. Hathaway, assistant professor of fine arts, and will include trips to 8 countries. Four credits will be given provided the student takes a two credit lecture course during the winter.

The Economic Geography course, conducted by Miss Evelyn Giangulio, assistant professor of business administration, will cover 10 countries, and three credits will be granted.

Only 30 students will be accepted on each tour which will involve about 67 days of travel in Western Europe.

Alumnae To Hold Picnic For Sophs, Juniors May 19

The Alumnae picnic for the sophomore and junior classes will be held on Thursday, May 19, at 5:30 in Lorimer Park.

In previous years it had been a tradition for the alumnae to hold a picnic for the sophomores in the fall and one for the juniors in the spring. This year, however, it was decided to combine the two.

Mrs. S. Miller Mack, Executive Secretary of the Alumnae Association, is in charge of the arrangements for the picnic.

The alumnae will be in charge of the cooking, while the sophomore class, headed by Irene Moore and Martha Berglund, will provide the entertainment. This will consist of a flashback through the last two years of their college career called, "This Is Your Life." Leaders of the various activities such as Song Contest and Play Contest will plan and participate in their specific part of the program. Following the meal there will be a softball game.

Mrs. Bettinger Receives Wellsley Fellowship For '55

Mrs. John Bettinger, instructor in health and physical education at Beaver, is one of the recipients of the Amy Morris Homans Fellowship award.

Awarded annually by Wellesley College, the fellowship is given for advanced work or research in physical education.

Mrs. Bettinger, who teaches hygiene, swimming, and modern dance, plans to use the fellowship in England next year. Her project will be to study the role of dance in the school system. At present, she has not decided at which college she will study.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Bettinger has taught at Beaver for three years. She is coach of the swimming team and faculty adviser to the Modern Dance Club.

She plans to reside in or around London, as her husband, Dr. John Bettinger, will be on the staff of London's Middlesex Hospital.

"You have been reported . . ."

Right now the Student Body is very much aware of the Honor System because of the warning about the length of time spent on exams and because of several cases that have occurred within the past month.

Honor is a very delicate subject. Despite all that has been said about it, it has as many shades of meaning as the number of individuals who interpret it. None of us can condemn; all we can possibly do is try to carry out our own sense of honor in accordance with the Honor Council rules.

Lately, however, we have been wondering if there isn't something wrong with the mechanics of a system that causes hurt feelings and humiliation to the extent it has during the past month.

We wish that some method of reporting offenders could be worked out in which there was less personal contact between the accuser and the accused. We understand the reason for asking a person to report herself is in the interest of her self respect and dignity. However, we wonder if this end might not be served as well by a note in the mailbox beginning "You have been reported," thus sparing both the accuser and accused the humiliation of a personal encounter.

Also, we feel that the emphasis should be shifted from the actual reporting of an offense after it is over to the warning of a class as a whole if anything untoward is going on. Much of the unhappiness that was caused in the past could have been avoided this way — we are just as guilty as anyone in neglect.

We think too, that rules should be defined minutely. For instance, does "stopping when the bell rings" mean just that, or does it mean finishing the sentence? (We think it should mean stop; some people write pretty long sentences.) Or, does quiet during an exam mean absolute quiet, or may one ask the time? These may seem petty considerations, but they will be important until every girl here has a sense of absolute integrity, express it however she may.

We feel that these problems are indicative of an effective, growing system. No organization ever expands without them. We have a good Honor System here—one that works.

Musical Version of "Seventh Heaven" Provides Comedy With Occasional Tear

by DIANE DINGEE

The curtain of the Forest Theater rose last week to present a new musical comedy version of the old play, "Seventh Heaven." Those who saw Austin Strong's original drama might have had a difficult time recognizing it in the vivid dress of Broadway spectacle, 1955. Although superficially the Giant Gaither and William Bacher production may have the aura of the typical musical — men and women in colorful costumes singing and dancing in and out of rather obvious situations — there is in it a very definite nostalgia for the days of the first World War and for Paris as one always dreams it should be.

The action of the musical is concerned with the uniting of Diane, a lovely mademoiselle of rather questionable occupation, and Chico, an extremely attractive young man who is associated with the sewers for his livelihood. Hollywood contributed the actors for these roles in the persons of Gloria DeHaven and Ricardo Montalban. Miss DeHaven, although quite adequate by the standards of the average public, is a little bit too Hollywood for this writer's tastes. Her songs at times are a little suggestive of a late floor show in a Reno night club. Montalban seemed to enter into the world of legitimate musical comedy a bit more easily, despite his obvious inadequacies in the vocal department. He portrayed the casually self-confident individual who believes that "it's what's inside that counts" with credibility. Kurt Kaszner as Boule, the taxi driver, serves well as narrator for the story of the street like so many other streets in Paris, which is his. Outstanding for his showmanship and true French flavor is Robert Clary as Chico's pickpocket sidekick, Fleegle. Worthy of merit also were the three "ladies of the boulevard," Gerriane Raphael, Patricia Hammerlee, and Chita Rivera as "Camille, Collette, Fifi." Their dances were athletic extravaganzas. The role of the Madam, Suze, usually portrayed by Fifi D'Orsay, was enacted by Beatrice Arthur on the evening the writer attended "Seventh Heaven" and well expressed the French philosophy which ran throughout the play, that whatever may happen, "C'est la vie."

As is true in a majority of contemporary theater, probably the most praiseworthy aspect of "Seventh Heaven" is the production. The scenery and costumes by Vertes were beautifully done, particularly in the seventh floor flat which was the heaven for Diane and Chico, the train station scene, and the war sequences. The dancers were well trained and Peter Genaro's choreography was quite unusually stylized. Music by Victor Young is another selling point of the show.

The main criticism of "Seventh Heaven" is that, as with many musical comedies based upon plays, there is not a successful coordination of the more universal qualities which may have existed in the drama and of the more frivolous qualities of the musical comedy. A serious drama set to music which upholds the mood originally intended can be a beautiful experience. By the same token, a musical comedy which does not outstep its primary purpose of providing good music, dancing and colorful entertainment may also please. "Seventh Heaven" belongs, for the most part, in the latter group. However, there are moments when it would seem that an attempt is being made to bring a deeper significance to the fore. The writer found this shift of direction a bit disconcerting. "Seventh Heaven" is thus a comedy with tears. The production provides a casual evening of relaxation without intellectual strain.

by KATHY GIBBONS

Tonight the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy conducting, will present the final free concert sponsored by the city of Philadelphia at Convention Hall. The guest stars will be The Ballet Guild which will present "Sur le Pont d'Avignon." The musical part of the program will include Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suites Nos. 1 and 2.

For the art enthusiasts, the Pennsylvania Academy at Broad and Cherry Streets has a permanent collection of American art. Also the Beaver library has acquired two new books that should be of interest to those interested in art. "The Notebook of Leonardo Da Vinci" by Edward MacCurdy and "American Prize Prints of the 20th Century" by Albert Reese are on display.

Two plays are opening this week. "King of Hearts," the Jean Kerr-Eleanor Brooke comedy, opens tonight at the Bucks County Playhouse. The play features Donald Cook, Kim Hunter, and Biff McGuire.

The Broadway success, "Guys and Dolls" by Jo Swerling, Abe Burrows, and Frank Loesser, opened Monday at the Forrest Theatre. Featured in this musical are Margot Moser and Wilton Clary.

The circus is coming to town! The Barnum and Bailey Circus bows in at Lighthouse Field on May 23.

"The Long Grey Line."

Club Notes

IRC held a meeting on May 5 to nominate candidates for next year's officers. They will be elected by ballot through the post office boxes. Next year, a trip to the UN is planned.

At their last meeting, Epsilon Eta Phi elected its officers for next year. They are: June Brunner, president; Shirley Delmage, vice president; Joy Daubert, secretary; Darilyn Paulus, treasurer; and Kathy Gibbons, scribe. The next meeting will be on May 23.

Next year's officers of the Rendez-vous Francais are: Elinor Towell, president; Marylyn Bergen, vice president; Althea Trutner, secretary; Lee Kass, treasurer. Plans are being made to procure a film, and its showing will be open to the whole college. Also, some graduates will be invited to speak on job opportunities in French.

New officers for Pi Delta Epsilon are Helen Viniarski, president, and Kathleen Gibbons, secretary. A May meeting will be held to initiate Shirley Kiefer.

Brightly dressed modern dance students entertained the Beaver Mothers' Club with a program of dance studies and demonstrations on Wednesday afternoon, May 11, in the Mirror Room of Grey Towers.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Bettinger was the same as that given May Day.

As the last part of the program, one of the modern dance classes gave some short studies and a demonstration of modern dance techniques.

We Need Social Scientists Too

by JOAN ROTH

Dr. Hubert Alyea's lecture Tuesday evening was undoubtedly an eye-opener to many of us. The presentation was beyond comparison and the information which he conveyed about atomic energy was very enlightening. But I was most interested in his closing statements — complete demilitarization and a dollar to the social scientist for every dollar to the scientist. Survival of a bomb blast is possible, but not a particularly pleasant prospect. The logical thing to do is to prevent its explosion. The social scientist could guide us to a better understanding of our neighbors; round table discussions could lead to demilitarization agreements.

President Eisenhower's foreign trade bill to extend the 21-year-old reciprocal trade law for three more years is a step in the right direction. If this bill is passed it would also give the chief executive the authority to cut tariffs another fifteen percent in exchange for trade concessions from other nations. So many foreign nations are in such bad financial straits that our best weapon against Communism is economic help for them, and what better way than trade. True, some home industry may suffer, but the long-range effect will certainly justify the temporary loss. Once these nations are back on their feet, they will be clamoring for American goods.

Mr. Bohlen, our Ambassador to Russia, on a routine trip to Washington several months ago, remarked about the Soviets' worry over their youth. It seems the Soviet is concerned about the "I don't care" attitude among its young people. The gang reaction to the Blankenship murder in the Bronx last week would indicate that our nation faces the same problem. Juvenile delinquency has increased 42% in the last five years, and the types of crimes committed have been of a severer nature. The social scientist certainly needs his dollar both for external affairs and internal problems.

The strong hitting power and the air-tight defense supplied by the male members of the team were overwhelming factors in the faculty's 11-2 defeat of Beaver's Varsity in the Clean-Up Day softball game.

The pitching and catching for the faculty were well taken care of by Dr. Cutright, Mrs. Mackinnon, and Mr. Barlow.

Shirley Radcliff and Judy McMoran made up the Varsity's opening battery. Relief pitcher Ruth Herrlich came into the game for the last two innings.

Mrs. Mary Conklin umpired behind the pitcher's box. Dr. Hinton and Miss Brown were umpires at first and second bases.

The lineup was as follows:

Faculty	Varsity
Vandling	Perrine
Green	Bopp
Hassler	Swain
Disbrow	Snyder
Swaim	Renninger
Goll	White
Lindemann	Gregory
Sturgeon	Williams

Eleanore Perrine, first baseman on the softball team, is manager of the intraclass softball tournament. In the first game, held on May 5, the Juniors defeated the Freshmen by a score of 10-7. Barbara Daugherty is captain for the Juniors and Anne Gregory and Joan Ottoway co-captains for the Frosh. On Wednesday, May 11, the seniors, with Janet Murray as captain, by a score of 9-2 lost to the Sophomore team. Edith Hall and Jean Lenox are co-captains for the Sophomores.

Beaver Lacrosse Team Tops Penn For Third Win

Rosemary Deniken and Barbara Heylman paced Beaver's lacrosse team to its third victory when the squad defeated Penn 11-2 on May 5. Playing on the opponents' field, our girls scored five points in the first half and then six more in the second.

Rosemary Deniken and Barbara Heylman scored four points each. Minoo Sartip accounted for two more. Jean Lenox also scored once.

Our team seemed to be slow in starting, but at the end of the first five minutes it was Beaver's game.

The offense was beginning to use shorter and more accurate passes, and the combination of a fast offense with a strong defense proved to be unbeatable.

The scoring for Penn was done by Irene Kikieta, right attack wing.

Beaver's lineup is as follows:

Name	Position
Felver	First Home
Deniken	Second Home
Lenox	Third Home
Heylman	Left Attack Wing
Sartip	Right Attack Wing

Music Instructors Present Recital

Miss Florence Oeters, instructor in music at Beaver, and Miss Jane Kesson, music instructor at the junior and senior high schools in Ambler, presented a duo-piano recital on May 8, at 2:30 p.m. The recital was held in the music studio at Murphy Hall.

Included in the program were "Fantasia on Themes" by Telemann, Schumann's "Andante and Variations," and a duo-piano arrangement of the Rosenkavalier waltzes by Richard Strauss. Following these were Benjamin Britten's "Introduction and Rondo alla Bulerca" and the "Waltz from the Masquerade Suite" by Khatchaturian. The program was concluded with the "Scaramouche Suite" by Milhaud.

Lacrosse Team Defeats Long Island Club 10-5

The members of the Beaver lacrosse team and Mrs. Mary Conklin, coach, traveled to New York Saturday, April 31, for a weekend in Long Island as guests of the Long Island Women's Lacrosse Association.

The girls arrived at Nassau County Park, Long Island, the site of the playing field, at 5:30 p.m. After a brief warm-up period, the two teams began the game with fast action from both sides.

Coach Conklin's girls emerged victorious for the second win of the season by a score of 10-5. Jean Lenox and Barbara Heylman managed to shoot in three pointers each, while Rose Deniken skillfully scored two. Both Marva Morgan Felver and Marlene Lochner scored one each.

The girls who made the trip included: Marva Morgan Felver, Rose Deniken, Jean Lenox, Barbara Heylman, Minoo Sartip, Marlene Lochner, Peggy Peirce, Lois Storlazzi, Maxine Swift, Pat Fletcher, Terry Bizzarri, Irma Friesenborg, Jackie Stewart, and Paula Dinkelacker.

The girls spent the night at the home of members of the Association. They left the next morning to return to Beaver.

Fashion Students Model Costumes

Authentic and original period costumes were displayed in a fashion show in assembly on Tuesday, May 10. Mrs. Elsie McGarvey, instructor in art, described the costumes, which are part of her private collection.

The collection includes a range of fashions from the 1920's through the pre-Civil War period. Both the costumes and the accessories have been personally restored by Mrs. McGarvey. While girls from the fashion department modelled the clothes, Mrs. McGarvey discussed and showed trends in the fashion cycle.

Before Mrs. McGarvey came to Beaver 15 years ago, she was with "Vogue." At present she also teaches in the Design Department of the Philadelphia Museum School of Art. She has participated as costume adviser for all the programs presented by Theatre Playshop since she came to Beaver.

The fashion show will be repeated today at Grey Towers for members of the Faculty Club. Again, girls from the fashion department will exhibit about 50 costumes.

Sunbathing 100 In Courtyard Assures Good Tan, No Tests To Enrolled Students

by NANCY BURNETT

Recently a new course has been added to the curriculum offered here at Beaver College. During the second semester of every term, Sunbathing 100 will be offered for those interested in acquiring a good tan for the coming summer months.

Prerequisites for the course include: an adept ability in fire escape climbing, a sufficient number of class cuts which can be taken any time, an ample supply of Noxzema or some similar product for over-exposure, and the ability to while away hours without worrying about all the work that is beginning to pile up.

The course will consist of laboratory hours only, held in the courtyard behind Ivy Hall. Students may attend the class any time between the hours of nine and five and dress regulations will be dropped. Anything from bikini bathing suits to deep sea diving outfits are permissible as long as the student is comfortable and the desired sun-tanning areas are exposed.

Aluminum cots will be provided for each member of the class. Stationed beside each cot will be some member of the faculty or administration with a palm branch to keep everyone cool and to discourage any bees and flies. Also accompanying each cot will be a good supply of suntan oil for those who turn lobster red. Men from the nearby universities will be hired to sell cigarettes and wind-proof matches.

Every half hour a gong will sound to signify turn-over time. This insures the student of an even tan on both sides.

Lemonade and iced tea will be served every hour by the housemothers. At noon time a picnic lunch will be available to all the students, provided they have their special orders in the dietitian's office by eleven o'clock.

While the class is in session, the busses will no longer stop at Beaver Hall to discharge and pick up passengers. Instead, they will stop at the courtyard for the convenience of the students.

In the case of rainy or cloudy weather, sun lamps will be set up in the library in order that the students may catch up on their assignments without endangering their tans.

Each student will be required to wear a bandage on her arm from the time she enters the class until the end of the semester. At that time she will be graded on the degree of her tan in comparison with her classmates of the same coloring. Throughout the entire semester, no quizzes or exams will be given.

The home economics majors will exhibit the clothes they made during the year in Clothing, Tailoring, and Drafting and Draping. Ellen Halstead, president of the Home Economics Club, will describe the clothes as they are shown. Members of the Meal Planning and Table Service class will provide refreshments.

The program is under the direction of Sue Stringer and Toni Robin. Miss Bull and Miss Houston are the faculty advisors.

Ursinus Downs Maroon and Grey Softball Team

Beaver's softball team suffered a resounding defeat on May 4 at the hands of Ursinus College who defeated us by a score of 28-2.

One of our two runs was unearned. With a girl on third base, the Ursinus pitcher threw an illegal pitch, and the base-runner was advanced to home plate. The second run came when freshman Shirley Renninger blasted out a solid double, bringing home a girl on second base. Martha Snyder and Barbara Bopp also got a hit apiece.

Shirley Radcliff did as well as she could on the pitching mound and performed excellent fielding. Substitute Ruth Herrlich came in for relief and did a commendable job both in pitching and in fielding.

Catcher Judy McMoran lived up to expectations, but unfortunately hurt her leg sliding into a base, and Kay Kidd took over the catching responsibilities. Judy's leg is healing, and she will be able to resume her duties for the Temple game on May 12.

Ursinus is definitely out of our class in every respect. All of their players are varsity girls who are back for their second or third year on the team. Because of this, the team has much more experience.

There is no doubt that we do have the material for a good team. The girls just have to have more practice and learn to be able to settle down in the tight spots. Our line-up included:

president; Margaret Hockmuth, replacing Barbara Butler as Dormitory Council president.

Ann Mower and Barbara James were replaced by Ruth Denker and Mary Lou Adams as first and second house presidents of Beaver Hall. Elaine Schermerhorn, Rita Ellix, and Jane Geayer assumed their duties as first house presidents of Montgomery Hall, Grey Towers, and Ivy Hall, replacing Janet Goldberger, Joan Christopher, and Ruth Anderson, respectively.

Class presidents were replaced as follows: Joan Haly became senior class president, replacing Joan Kovacs; Emma Jane Murphy became junior class president, replacing Joan Sweiger; Gertrude Ramsey became sophomore class president, replacing Martha Berglund. Norma Kovacs, freshman class president, will be replaced at the time of freshman elections.

In the field of publications, Jane Cranmer succeeded herself as editor of the "Beaver News," presented keys to the retiring news staff, and read a list of next year's staff. Emily Parkinson and Rita Pawlikowski were replaced by Edith Sittig and Barbara Kymer as co-editors of the Beaver Log.

Joan Kovacs was replaced by Helen Viniarski as editor-in-chief of the Beaver Review. Helen read the names of the new staff and presented this year's Orchid Awards. Emily Parkinson won the award in prose for "the Jesus man." Helen Starling was awarded an orchid for her poem, "The Mind in Exile" and in the field of art, Rita Pawlikowski was presented with an orchid.

Kathy Gibbons was installed as new editor of the "Handbook," replacing Edith Sittig.

In the field of music, Joan Sweiger received the Presidents' pin from Winifred Wesner, replacing Winifred as Glee Club president; Ruth Kolb was replaced as president of Choir by Nancy Walters.

Joan Haly became advisor to the freshman class, replacing Bolyn Ramos. Catherine Gunsalus was replaced by Diane Barry and Verna Lou Banks who become co-chairmen of the Social Committee.

Sandra Henoch and Joan Sweiger were replaced by Nancy Maresca and Shirley Delmage as co-chairmen of May Day. Jane Geayer became president of Theatre Playshop, taking over the duties of Joan Leaman. Joyce De Rose succeeded herself as Red Cross representative.

Nancy Williams replaced Janet Goldberger as chairman of the Student-Parent Organization. Mary Lou Adams was replaced by Eleanor Perrine as Campus Chest chairman.

Ginny thanked the members of the Student Government Association, particularly the seniors, for their contributions and inspiration to the rest of the student body. She then presented Suzi Ketz with a gift from the student body in appreciation for the leadership she has given them throughout the year.

After the adjournment of the meeting, a reception for the new officers was held in Green Parlors.

Campus Chest Helps Support Korean Orphan

Under the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Beaver's Campus Chest has donated part of the student body's contributions towards maintaining a Korean orphan, Won Chong Soo.

Won Chong Soo, a ten year old Korean girl, is living in a crowded refugee camp in Pusan with her mother, brother, and sister. Her father owned a prosperous textile business in Seoul prior to the invasion of the Communists. Tragedy struck Won Chong Soo's family when her father succumbed to illness.

The grief-stricken family soon met with more misery when their home was demolished by an enemy bombardment in December, 1950. When the U.N. forces retreated from Seoul, Won Chong Soo's family fled with the rest of the population.

The camp leader at Pusan called Won Chong Soo's case to the attention of the Foster Parents' Plan, and Beaver received Won Chong Soo as a replacement for Nadia Thonet, who became old enough to earn her own living.

Won Chong Soo has been described as a highly intelligent, friendly child who enjoys her school work. She is now in the third grade and has hopes of becoming a teacher some day.

Around the Campus

Two Beaver girls have recently been selected to reign over festivities at neighboring colleges.

Toni De Prospero was chosen queen of the sophomore dance at the University of Pennsylvania, while Martha Berglund reigned as Crescent Girl, Queen of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at Gettysburg College during that college's spring houseparty weekend.

Miss Juanita Downes, assistant professor of classical languages, was recently honored at the 11th Annual Temple University Press Tournament. She was given a plaque in recognition of her "commendable journalistic standards and high quality of her instruction as adviser of the 'Cheltonian' during the past 25 years."

The event attracted more than 400 high school students and publication advisers from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, and New Jersey.

Several girls announced their engagement recently. Marjorie Cass of Darlington, Maryland, became engaged to Mr. John Reuyl of Havre de Grace, Maryland. Mr. Reuyl is a student at Johns Hopkins University where he is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. No definite wedding plans have been made.

Barbara Kymer of Roselle Park, New Jersey, became affianced to Mr. Matthew Park of Newport, Rhode Island. Mr. Park has served two years in the Army and is now a student at Bryant College, Providence, Rhode Island. Wedding plans will be announced at a future date.

Lois McConemy of Philadelphia and Lt. Earle Weider of Allentown announced their engagement recently. A graduate of Pennsylvania State University, Lt. Weider is presently stationed in Philadelphia.

Alice Vail of Forest Hills, New York, is engaged to Mr. John Boyer of Chestnut Hill. Mr. Boyer attended Lehigh University and is now in the army. A June wedding is planned.

Profile

by LOIS BRANDS

"I never realized that college would differ so greatly from nursing school," said Christine Nordstrom, who entered Beaver this year as a freshman after completing a year of nurse's training at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City.

The slender brunette left nursing school because she wanted a more liberal education than she could get there. However, Chris, as she is more generally known, does miss living in New York where, she says, the "social life was just great!"

Theatre Major

This freshman's extra-curricular activities are indicative of her interest in her major, theatre-English. Chris directed the freshman play for interclass play contest and acted in the Theatre Playshop production of "Blood Wedding" by Lorca. For the fall Theatre Playshop production Chris, who is secretary of that organization, helped with the sets and make-up. Two weeks ago Chris appeared on the WPTV television program "Operation Blackboard" in the play "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde. "That was the first time I have ever been on television, and I liked it so very much!" Chris exclaimed.

Summer Plans

This summer Chris plans to direct dramatics at a girls' camp in the Pocono Mountains. "Camp counseling will be a new experience for me," Chris said, "for last summer I worked as a doctor's receptionist in Philadelphia. This summer job should help me," she continued, "for I would like to do some sort of play directing when I graduate, unless I decide to become an airline hostess."

The energetic day student went to Friends' Select School in Philadelphia where she has always lived. Chris, like many other college students, enjoys playing tennis and bridge. "These last two weeks of warm weather have been wonderful for playing tennis," Chris said. "I finish playing tennis just in time to get in a couple of hands of bridge before I have to hurry home."

Animal Lover

Chris's love of animals made her take the mother cat and her two kittens born here at school to her home. "When I first took them home, my mother wasn't too pleased," Chris said, "but when she saw them she said I could keep them temporarily." I've had them for six weeks now, and my mother wants to know how long is 'temporarily'."
