Dr. Horace Mann Bond

Forum To Present School Integration Speaker Oct. 30

"School Integration" will be the subject of the October 30 Assembly program to be presented by Forum in Murphy Chapel. Dr. Horace Mann Bond, President of Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, will be the speaker.

Dr. Bond, winner of the Prize of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, has written several books. Among his publications are "The Education of the Negro in the American Social Order," "Education in America, a Study in Cotton and Steel"; and "Education for Product." He has also written articles for encyclopedias and various popular and learned magazines.

Dr. Bond's interest in this problem is reflected by some of the organizations with which he is now affiliated. He holds membership in the Pennsylvania State Negro Council, and he is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Institute of African-American Relations. He was originally a member of the editorial staff of the "Journal of Negro Education," and in 1944-45 was also President of the Conference of Presidents of Negro Land Grant Colleges.

Dr. Bond has attended Lincoln University, the University of Chicago, and Temple University.

The Administration of the college and the Committee on Honors deeply regret that the speaker at the Honors Day convocation was unable to present his address in the manner expected of one of his ability and reputation.

With an anticipated 100% participation from resident and day students, the goal has been set at $2,000. This money is to come from the student body only.

Assisting Barbara is her committee, which consists of Barbara Jones and Elizabeth Schwacke, treasurers; and Barbara Jacobson, publicity.

Social Honor Goes Into Effect

Further expansion of social honor as an integral part of the honor system at Beaver College was formally confirmed in discussion at the Student Government Association meeting held in Murphy Chapel on October 16. Irma Vit, president of the Judicial Board, explained that housemothers would no longer ask students who are late in returning from their permission to report themselves. Rather, students will be on their honor to report themselves.

The system will be explained in greater detail at the next S.G.A. meeting. "Late Minutes" also will be discussed.

Diane Barry, president of Nominating Council, postponed presentation of the February to February voting proposal until the November meeting. Martha Berglund, president of SGA, presided at the meeting.

College Announces Plans For Fund Drive; Bank President To Head Local One

Plans for a campaign to secure funds for faculty salaries, scholarships, endowments, and buildings of Beaver College have been announced by Mr. Karl Weger, director of expansion.

A $150,000 drive in the local area will launch the second phase of the long-range expansion program, begun in 1953. With the opening of Thomas Hall this fall, the first phase was completed.

Mr. Richard W. Havens, president and director of the Jenkintown Bank and Trust Company, has been named general chairman of the campaign. A door-to-door drive will be carried on during January in Cheltenham and Abington townships and Jenkintown Borough.

"Be a good neighbor" is the slogan of this expansion program drive in which emphasis will be placed on the service rendered by Beaver College to the community, state, and nation.

Mr. Havens, a graduate of Episcopal Academy and the University of Pennsylvania, is secretary and director of G. A. Bisler, Inc.

Mr. Haven is a member of the Rotary Club of Jenkintown and is an honorary member of the Old York Road Junior Chamber of Commerce. He has served as general chairman of the Capital Funds Politically speaking, there will be much activity on the Beaver Campus from now until election day, November 6.

As has been its custom in previous years, the International Relations Club will hold a mock election on campus. Most students are not old enough to vote in the national election, but they will have an opportunity to express their choice at the Beaver polls.

Registration will be held on Thursday, October 25. As in all local and national elections, one must register to vote on November 6.

Booths will be open in Grey Towers and Beaver Parlors from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Girls from Thomas and Grey Towers will register at Towers. Day students, faculty members, and resident students from Montgomery, Ivy, and Beaver Halls will register in Beaver Parlors. All resident students must register on October 25. Day students and faculty members who will not be on campus Thursday may register in Beaver Parlors from 12:30 to 1:30 on Monday, October 29.

When registering each person must supply the following information:

1. name
2. college year
3. party choice (Democratic, Republican, Independent)
4. district in which voting

Since the campus has been divided into five districts, the voting procedure will be somewhat different from that used when registering. Voting will be held on November 6 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The polling places are as follows:

People Involved	Polling Place
Beaver Hall	Beaver Parlors
Ivy Hall	Beaver Parlors
Montgomery Hall	Montgomery Parlors
Day Students	Beaver Parlors
Faculty	Beaver Parlors
Thomas Hall	Grey Towers
Grey Towers	Grey Towers

As part of their campaigning, the Republican and Democratic clubs on campus are holding a debate here on October 31. Mr. Joseph Peters, assistant professor of history, and Dr. William McKenna, from Temple University, will debate in accordance with the policy of their respective parties. Opportunity will be given for the audience to challenge the men on any phase of party politics.

Guests To See Thomas Hall Nov. 4 At Open House

Guests will be welcomed at Thomas Hall from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 4, when open house will be held.

The guests will include residents of the community who have made the building possible through their contributions to the centennial building fund.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymon Kistler and the chairmen of the various departments of the college will greet the arriving guests. Residents of Thomas Hall will conduct guided tours through the dormitory.

The board of trustees felt that the best way to express Beaver's gratitude to Dr. Morgan Thomas, president of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Thomas, of Bethayres, Pennsylvania, for the service and support which they have so generously given for many years was to name the new dormitory Thomas Hall.

The dormitory's lounge has been named Duff Lounge by the board of trustees in honor of Doctor John Duff, a trustee from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, for his generous support of the centennial building fund drive.

YWCA Sponsors Sunday "Bull" Sessions

A series of Sunday night "bull" sessions have been planned for the coming weeks under the sponsorship of the Y.W.C.A. The first of these discussions was held on Sunday, October 21, at 8:30 P.M., and was entitled "To Drink or Not to Drink." The session was held in the conference room, as will be all of the future meetings.

Future meetings of this kind will be held at 8:30 p.m. on October 28 and November 1. Students are urged to participate in these events.

"We're Sorry, But It's Gone"

Although for the past two years magazines could not be taken out of the library, this year the policy has been changed so that magazines can be taken out of the library on the same basis as reserve books. This makes more work for the librarians, but they believe the magazines will be of more use to more students if they can be taken out.

Just about everybody will agree.

For the first couple of weeks the magazines were being taken out quite frequently and the system appeared to be working very smoothly. Then the librarians discovered that several magazines were missing. After checking the "out" box at the desk, they discovered that no one had signed out for the magazines. And in the past couple of weeks magazines have continued to disappear.

What will happen when a student needs to use one of these magazines? She will have to do without it. What will happen if magazines continue to disappear? You can answer that. L. B.

Give Your Vote To Ike

by INA DOLFMAN

On Tuesday, November 6, 1956, the American people will cast their ballots for a President of these United States. The question which they must resolve is: Shall Dwight D. Eisenhower continue in the office of President for the next four years? My answer to this question is an unqualified "Yes," for the following reasons:

Under the leadership of President Eisenhower, no American soldier has been killed in war since his Administration fulfilled its promise and ended the Korean conflict in July of 1953. This absence of war makes it possible for our brothers and loved ones to serve out their military obligations without fear of enemy bombardment. Today the chances of lasting peace are the best they have been in a generation.

An equally important reason for re-electing Dwight Eisenhower is that under his sound and humane policies, this Nation enjoys a prosperity unmatched in the history of all mankind. Employment has passed the 66,000,000 mark, and our economy is stabilized.

Honesty and integrity have been restored to our Federal Government. Gone are the days of mink coat scandals, deep freezes, and government by cronyism. The Eisenhower administration has been true to the ideals of America in its honesty, its integrity, and in its basic human decency. The President has given us a government of principle, rather than party or partisanship — a government dedicated to opportunity for all Americans, regardless of race, color, or creed.

Eisenhower is a President who is liberal in dealing with people and conservative in dealing with people's money.

All the achievements of the last four years are too numerous to be included here. I could enumerate the advances made in social security, reduced taxes, balanced budget, in labor management relationship, the advances made toward solution of the farmer's problems, and many other noteworthy achievements, but the record is clear, it is available to all, and it speaks for itself.

I invite all of you to join with me in continuing this administration now in office. Together, under the leadership of President Eisenhower we shall see America safe, secure and confident in her future.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The progress of our age is seen in many institutions. College buildings sport low, sleek lines, wide windows, and stone no longer dug by hand from the deep quarries of yesteryear. Vast improvements have been made in many directions. Washing machines complete with automatic dryers fill the bottom floors of new dormitories. Lavish recreation rooms, decorated in the latest functional modes, are scattered throughout college buildings, providing a convenient place to spend leisure time. There are compact kitchen units, coke and cigarette machines, water-fountains, and even electric garbage disposals.

Here at Beaver College we are graced with a new dormitory similar to the pattern described. Comfortable living is arriving complete with all the gadgets. There is, however, one aspect that seems to have been ignored. Where are the studying facilities?

Abraham Lincoln in his day found it necessary to pursue learning in a candlelit room. We have improved upon his condition, for we have electricity. However, just as we must bow to the esteemed man's superior intellect, so must we also bow to his studying conditions. He could smoke in his candle-lit room!

The seriousness of our situation is certainly not to be ignored, for there are students who find smoking and studying interdependent activities. The amount of time wasted separating the two is a deplorable thing. Our present need for brightly-lit smoking-study rooms is pressing and vital. The pursuit of knowledge should not be hindered by such an embarrassing physical handicap. The first thought of the college as an institution of

Beaver Voters Don't Care

We were wrong.

In the October 10 issue of the "News" we stated that we believed young voters do care about the coming presidential election. To support our belief we asked all eligible voters on campus to fill out a seven question form and return it to us. The results were disheartening — both in number and content.

From more than fifty students who are eligible to vote November 6 only sixteen returned the form. This alone is indicative of a kind of apathy, or at least preoccupation. If so many students couldn't find time to return these questionnaires, will they be able to find time to vote?

We want to thank those students who did return the forms.

In answering the question "Whom do you plan to vote for?" ten said Eisenhower, one Stevenson, and three "undecided." One student failed to register and another could not vote because Pennsylvania does not have absentee ballots.

Six students said that their parents' political views most influenced them. Five answered the question, "Whose political views most influence you?" by stating no one in particular. Three said Ike's views most influenced them and two Stevenson's. We didn't know that any students personally knew these men! But the brevity of the original question did sacrifice clarity.

In reply to the question "Would a candidate's appearance or personality influence you?" seven said no, three yes, and four somewhat. Two are influenced by personality only.

Eleven students stated that they were Republican, one Democrat, and four Independent.

The question "Do you think either party will split?" was answered in assorted ways. Eleven believe it will not and two think it will. Two students didn't know what the question was about and one girl believes there will be a split in the state senate. We would like to know what that means.

"What do you consider to be the most important issue?" also was answered in several different ways. Eight believe the foreign policy, three the farm policy, three civil rights, and one atomic power. One believes the draft and civil rights are equally important issues.

Seven students answered the question, "Do television and radio influence you?" with no. Four stated they do. One student said she is influenced by candidate's speeches on television and radio and another stated that the question was not worth answering. One student replied that she is willing to watch and listen to them.

From these results we are tempted to go along with the conclusion reached in the "Look" magazine survey of college first-voters, "The sobering fact of the matter is that a very large number of our young voters plainly don't care one way or another about the coming presidential election, or are so confused that it amounts almost to the same thing."

Give Your Vote To Stevenson

by IRMA VIT

When Adlai Stevenson was offered his party's nomination for president in 1952, he made the following statement: "What counts now is not just what we are against but what we are for."

I should like to use the same approach in telling you why I am supporting Adlai E. Stevenson in the 1956 presidential election.

In choosing a president we naturally want to know what political background he has. A lawyer since 1926, Mr. Stevenson has been close to various parts of government on a national or international level for many years, as is demonstrated by his work in the Foreign Economy Administration and in his appointment as a special deputy to work on the organization of the United Nations.

In 1948 he was elected Governor of Illinois by the largest majority in history. His term of office is a brilliant record of reform, economy, and efficiency.

A look at Stevenson's program will show any thoughtful person that he has considered the problems in our country today and has come up with ways of solving these problems.

The issue of civil rights is a vital one at the moment. Instead of "playing politics" with the question of segregation, Mr. Stevenson has stated that the Supreme Court decision must be obeyed and has also suggested that the President use the influence of his office to bring Southern leaders to discuss a method of quieting the tensions present in the South today.

Mr. Stevenson favors changing the many unfair provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act which have proved injurious to the American worker. To prevent partisan administration of labor laws he would re-establish the NLRB.

Another point of dissension between the present administration and Mr. Stevenson arises over the question of price supports for the farmers.

Contrary to the present policy, Mr. Stevenson would return to price supports of 90 per cent of parity on all basic crops. In addition to these supports, he would further a program which offers production payments and incentives to use unneeded grain acreage for conservation crops.

I have mentioned only a few of the points in Adlai Stevenson's program. It is not his past record, nor his present program alone which makes me believe that he is the best man for the arduous job of President, but also his integrity and honesty of purpose which he has shown in the conducting of his campaign.

Sincerely,

Carol Shafer

Terence Rattigan's Modern Fairy Tale Magically Unfolds At Walnut Theater

by HELEN VINIARSKI

An "occasional fairy tale" is now being told at the Walnut Theatre with Michael Redgrave as "the sleeping prince" and Barbara Bel Geddes as the beauty who awakens him to the land of make-believe — the land of love.

"The Sleeping Prince" will be classified as comedy and it is a comedy in situation and in dialogue, but Terence Rattigan is not merely a surface-painter and thus he looks beyond the bright colors to a latent, and somewhat poignant light.

The situation is the planned seduction of a young, rather lovely American "actress" by the Regent of Carpathia, who is on a special visit to London; the royalty falls in love with the commoner and a transformation occurs.

With a glittering laugh, a winning air, and an uncontrolled vivacity, Barbara Bel Geddes skips through her role with a charm that is perhaps too emphatic. Michael Redgrave captures all aspects of his part as contriving Regent, as an unloving father, as a trite seducer, and finally as a lover.

Cathleen Nesbitt plays the part of the Regent's wife who is "a little vague" with a bubbling, comic genius. The son of the Regent, enacted by Ronald Welsh, is a precocious lad, too sad for his years; there is an element of pathos in the relationship (or perhaps lack of relationship) between the father and son.

The supporting cast is notable with the talents of Felix Diebank as Northbrook — the diplomat who is not always diplomatic in his entrances — and Elwin Stock, as the "bad-seed" princess, being particularly outstanding.

There is artistry in the playwright's mocking of the slick plays of the 20's when seducers were the rage; and the ridiculous becomes humorous with the addition of irony and wit.

The theme of the work is the need and fear of love, both embodied in the Regent, for whom matrimony is the cementing of political relations, and love an inconvenience.

A note of pathos, almost tragedy, is sounded in the inevitability that causes love to be of secondary importance to the supposed duties of life.

The transformation of the Regent, caused by love, is treated with gentle satire underlined by Rattigan

Thomas Hall Elects House Presidents

Minoo Sartip and Carol Schoch were elected first and second house presidents, respectively, at the Thomas Hall elections on October 9, 1956.

Corridor representatives are Joann Mintz, Sonja Schaefer, and Suzanne Skidmore. Sonja was selected also to be the corridor representative to dormitory council.

with a sympathy which pervades all the sparkling wit.

The costuming and setting, under the direction of Alvin Colt and Norris Houghton, respectively, give a picture of the Europe of 1911 with shining gold-trimmed colors, emphasizing a superficial gaiety.

Michael Redgrave, Barbara Bel Geddes, and Cathleen Nesbitt enact a tale that is set in fairyland but based in reality. The comic aspects assure popular approval; the artistry of "The Sleeping Prince" confirms Terence Rattigan's reputation as a dramatist.

Hockey Play Day, held at Beaver, on Saturday, October 13, proved to be fun for both participants and spectators. The six high schools participating were Cheltenham, Upper Moreland, Ambler, Plymouth-Whitemarsh, Jenkintown, and Abington.

Each school was divided according to the forward line and the defense line. Then the forwards of one school played with the defense of another school, forming six teams which played in competition for six minute periods.

Officials were Irma Friesenborg and Minoo Sartip. Gwen Reich and Sue Dudderar handled the refreshments. The time was Barbara Bentzinger, and Julie Craig and Eleanor Lueders were scorers. Credit for the successful event goes to co-chairmen Norma Kovacs and Martha Snyder.

Following the Hockey Play Day the participants remained to see the Beaver Varsity wallop Gettysburg 12-2. Captain Rosemary Deniken was high scorer with six points. Sue Douglass and Maxine Swift added two points apiece, while Barbara Heylman and Peggy Pierce each scored one goal.

The hockey team will next play three away games — with Bryn Mawr, Chestnut Hill, and Temple University. Let's welcome them back with a big turn-out on Thursday, November 6, when they meet the University of Pennsylvania on the home field.

The annual All-College Tournament this year will be held on Saturday, October 27, and Sunday, October 28, at Swarthmore College.

Hockey Varsity Loses To Ursinus In Tense Game By Close Score 3-2

The Beaver varsity hockey squad bowed to Ursinus 3-2 October 17 as the result of tension which affected both teams.

Ursinus took the opening bully and her left inner scored a quick goal only to face Beaver retaliation and a point by Rosemary Deniken.

The stellar play of the game was Julie Craig's clearing of the ball after three Ursinus forwards broke through the backfield to the striking circle.

In the second half, however, the one goal by Jean Lenox West, Beaver's left inner, was not enough, for Ursinus was able to score two points to win the game.

The Little Girls will be Gilberte, Honey Solliday; Daisy, Lois Osko; Lucy, Jill Goldberg; Viola, Marcia Monashkin; Denise, Barbara Kobrowsky; Irene, Sandy Ebersole; and Marie-Louise, Eta Roseman.

Nancy Malaun Wakeley portrays the Supervisor; Judy Witbeck, the Inspector; and Sandra Dart, Armande Mangebois. Creating the part of Leonide Mangebois is Anne Berkowitz and the Ghost, Yvonne Zea. First Executioner and Second Executioner are Janice Eckert and Lois Montelius, respectively. Concluding the cast are Julie Thiesen as Monsieur Adrian and Lynne Smith as Papa Tellier.

Stage Manager for the production is Dwaine Fry and assisting her are Helen Herrick and Barbara Francis.

English Faculty Attend Poetry Conference

Five members of the English department attended a conference on the teaching of poetry at the Hill School in Pottstown on October 13.

The morning session was addressed by Cleanth Brooks of Yale University, John Crowe Ransom of Kenyon College, and I. A. Richards of Harvard — all authors and critics as well as teachers.

In the afternoon these speakers acted as a panel to receive questions from many of the more than five hundred guests assembled. Of further interest was an exhibition from various sources of manuscripts and first editions from Chaucer to W. H. Auden.
