Equal Rights for Women

Ed. Note: The inclusion of the following speech made by Senator George McGovern (Democrat, South Dakota) before the United States Senate on July 15, 1971, does not represent an endorsement by the News. Rather, it is being printed because of its interest and relevance to Beaver women.

Mr. McGovern: Mr. President, discrimination against women is morally wrong and socially wasteful. We should move now to insure, not just encourage, equal status for women.

There are some facts that we must make known to every American. There are still too many of both sexes whose response is "I don't believe it."

The following figures are a national disgrace:

Women hold 42 percent of the jobs, but the only economic category they lead in is poverty.

A male college graduate earns about $12,000 a year, a woman, about $7,000 — about the same as a man with an 8th grade education. This, even though she may have stood higher in the class than he did.

Of those in the work force, twice as many women as men are unemployed. This figure does not take into account those who are discouraged from ever entering the work force.

For every $100 a man earns, a woman gets $60. Most shocking: compared with men, women are making less today than they did in 1955. The gap is widening.

In 1968 women were:
Nine percent of all full professors.

Seven percent of all physicians.
Three percent of all lawyers.
One percent of Federal judges.

One percent of the United States Senate.

In the face of facts like these, how is it that so many still say "I don't believe it?"

The barrier that restricts a woman's life is invisible, based on unspoken assumptions. It is like a glass wall. First grade readers show boys making things while their sisters watch helplessly but admiringly. Studies of the three major readers show they mention 144 adult careers for a boy to dream of, and only 24 for a girl. By the time a girl reaches the working world, she may accept that it is quite reasonable that a

Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Barnard College must take a typing test to get a job. And it often does not occur to the man who hires her to consider her for the jobs that he is trying to find men to fill.

What can we do?

There are some symbolic actions one can take. For example, the coveted membership in the Gridiron Club is limited to 50 distinguished journalists, all male. It excludes all the distinguished members of the Washington Press Corps who are women. On these grounds, and at the request of many members of the press, I declined to attend their annual dinner.

However, we must take action that is more than symbolic, action that will bring measurable change to women who are not getting an equal chance.

Imagine the desperation Ms. Ida Phillips of Orlando, Florida must feel. She was refused an assembly trainee job by the Martin Marietta Company because she was a woman with young children to support — which, of course, is why she needed a job. Two changes would make cases like Ms. Phillips' obsolete.

Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act forbids discrimination in employment on the basis of race, color, national origin and sex.

The Equal Employment Commission must be empowered to enforce the law. A cease-and-desist order is the only way to make manifest that Title VII is not to be evaded. No one should have to fight for the right to support her children.

A problem related to Ms. Phillips' is the conflict between State laws that permit sex discrimination and the Federal law which prohibits it. Passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution would eliminate this problem. I am a co-sponsor of the amendment, and I will continue to work for its passage in the Senate. We must eliminate the bewilderment of a woman who thinks she is protected by Federal law, only to find herself stymied by her State's legislation.

And we must live up to the Constitution. Women have life.

Racism and Sexism Brought to Light

Tomorrow evening Arthur Wallenstein, a doctoral student at the University of Pennsylvania, will speak on the problem of "Racism in International Politics." The address, which will specifically be focused upon the current situation in South Africa, will commence at 8 p.m. in the Rose Room of the Castle.

Mr. Wallenstein received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the International Relations Institute of Georgetown University in 1967, and his Master's degree from University of Pennsylvania. Upon the confirmation of his doctorate, Mr. Wallenstein will join the Foreign Service Corps of the U.S. State Department. Aside from his formal education, Mr. Wallenstein spent four months in South Africa gathering material for his thesis.

"And a woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

(Rudyard Kipling)

If this makes you fume, you'll be interested in a meeting to be held, Thursday, February 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Boyer Amphitheatre. Two films concerning aspects of the Women's Liberation Movement will be shown as a focus for discussion. Women from various groups in the Philadelphia area, active in women's politics, have been invited to join us. Come if you can.

Dr. Bor Publishes Articles In Various Legal Journals

by Debbie Thorpe

Dr. Fredric Bor, assistant professor of government, has recently published seven articles in various professional journals.

Four of the articles were commissioned by Oceana Press for a study in the "Constitutions of the World."

The studies traced the constitutional development in four countries: Mauritius, Malawi, Mongolia, and Israel. The Israeli paper was recently forwarded to the minister of labor in Israel.

The fifth article was for The Rutgers Law Journal. It examined a recent Supreme Court case, La Bine vs. Vincent, which denied relief to an illegitimate son who attempted to take a share of his father's property. The Supreme Court upheld a Louisiana decision denying relief to illegitimate children. The study traced the application of the Fourteenth Amendment to the statutes against bastards.

The next study which was printed in Spanish in The University of Central Venezuela Journal of Criminology, was based on corporal punishment in the United States. The last article was written for the Journal of Legal Education. The article, "Philosophy and Law," developed the logical relationship between the practical study of law and the scholarly examination of legal philosophy.

Dr. Fredric Bor who has recently had seven articles published in professional journals.

At present, Dr. Bor is working on a new paper, "The Military Activation of Reservists for Unsatisfactory Participation." This study was developed out of his own experience in the reserves and the fundamental unfairness of military regulations regarding standards of conduct. Also this past year he became senior editor of The Rutgers Law Journal.

Student Teaching Program Abroad

by Sue Levitsky

Beginning next fall, first semester seniors may have the opportunity to student teach abroad. Dr. Norman Miller, chairman of the education department, optimistically looks forward to the institution of this program. "The program has been approved by the State Education Department in Harrisburg; however, Dean LeClair must still refer it to the faculty. If they approve it, the program could possibly begin next semester."

The program, which has been arranged through the Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio, will be open to those Beaver students who meet the necessary requirements. Instruction will be in English at international schools throughout the world. Canada,

Dr. Gray Named College Executive Vice President

Dr. David M. Gray, former vice president for administration, has been named executive vice president of Beaver College.

Dr. David M. Gray, vice president for administration of Beaver College, has been named executive vice president, Dr. Edward D. Gates, president of the college, announced today.

The appointment was made by President Gates and confirmed by the board of trustees at their January meeting. Under this structure, the executive vice president shall, at the direction of the president, act on his behalf in the administration of the college and assist him in performing such duties as he may prescribe.

Dr. Gray joined the Beaver faculty in 1964 as assistant professor of government and in 1965 was named director of International Programs, a post he currently holds, and served as resident director of Beaver's London Semester Program established that year in cooperation with the City of London College (now City of London Polytechnic). Other Beaver sponsored study abroad programs developed under his direction include a Vienna Semester, a London Summer Session, and, in cooperation with Franklin and Marshall College, a junior year in Great Britain at the University of Lancaster and four other British universities, and the Hong Kong Semester. In 1967 Dr. Gray was named assistant to the president and in 1969 was promoted to vice president for administration.

In 1968 he was one of 45 educators throughout the country selected by the American Council on Education to participate in the Council's Academic Administration Internship Program established by ACE to develop leadership in the field of educational administration and to provide training for promising individuals in academic administration.

Dr. Gray received his bachelor of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. He was a member of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania from 1956 to 1959 and for three years at Drew University. Dr. Gray serves as secretary-treasurer of the United Colleges for Foreign Study and Exchange. He was named an American delegate to the International Conference of the Council on International Education and Exchange held at International House, Tokyo, Japan in 1968.

Dr. Gray is a Fellow, African Studies Association, and a member of the American Political Science Association, International Political Science Association, and Society for International Development.

A Common Bond

All I can say is — it's about time. It's about time that the Women's Liberation Movement has finally surfaced at Beaver College. On Thursday evening, February 3, the first step is being taken to give structure to feminist feeling on campus at a meeting in Boyer Amphitheatre at 7:30 p.m.

Certainly, seniors who have begun to make contacts in the job market have seen firsthand the inequities that we must contend with as women. And, certainly, we can no longer ignore reality and bury our heads in the sand. What was once a pat on the head quickly becomes a slap in the face.

If nothing else, we as Beaver students have in common our womanhood. Our past failure to respond to the thrust of the Women's Liberation Movement indicates our continuing acquiescence to the system as it now stands.

Perhaps it is because we are so far removed from "normal society" (i.e. male-female inter-action on a day-to-day basis) that we dismiss the veracity of sexism.

The failure to acknowledge the existence of sexism is just another reflection of the ease with which we can circumvent reality here at Beaver (see McGovern statement).

As women in the past have been their own worst enemies, it is time now that we become our own best friends.

Library Noise

There has recently been an excess amount of noise in the Atwood Library caused by high school students.

Of late they have been entering the library in increasingly large numbers causing both noise and subsequent distractions. Moreover, with the greater number of people present, there has been a severe limitation in the availability of library facilities, such as microfilm, records, magazines, and even chairs.

Because of these inconveniences and distractions, the library is no longer a quiet and accessible place in which to study. It is therefore suggested that high school students be barred from entering the library. It is also suggested that students from other colleges only be allowed to enter and use the library facilities upon presentation of college identification.

It is hoped that with the barring of an excess amount of young students, the library will approach an atmosphere more conducive to studying.

The Beaver News staff would like to congratulate Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller on the birth of their daughter Katherine Maria, Wednesday, January 19.

Letters to the Editor

Library Hours Explained

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Miss Susan Moyer's "Letter to the Editor" in the January 25, 1972 issue of the Beaver News.

I wish to mention, first, that the decision to close the library from 4:30 to 6 p.m. (Monday through Friday) on an experimental basis was not made arbitrarily. The matter was discussed with a number of persons. Those persons were: Dean LeClair; Dean Plummer; Miss Robyn Dorn, president of the day student association; Dr. Mary O. Holmes, biology department; Dr. Raymond Rose, biology department; and all the members of the faculty library committee.

The Atwood Library does have budget constraints and problems in securing adequate staffing for the 4:30 to 6 p.m. time period. These two factors partially determined the decision to close during the cited hours.

The other factor which determined the decision has been the relatively low frequency of use of the library during the time period in question. The library's "head count" statistics for the last three semesters indicate that this is the time period of lightest use (on the average) of any weekday hours. As an example, the actual number of Beaver College students who were using the library at 5:15 p.m. on December 15, 16, and 17 and on December 20, 21, and 22, 1971 was 1.6 students on the average; i.e., less than 2 students during each day sampled. These days in December were the last three weekdays of the regular fall semester and the first three days of the final examination period. The cited average figure of 1.6 is typical for most of the library's statistics which bear upon this period of time.

What the library wishes to do, basically, is to match empirically the correct pattern of hours and services with the actually demonstrated need for library hours and services. For example, the library now is open until 11:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and now opens at 10 a.m. on Saturdays. The library also now permits reserve books to circulate between 4 p.m. and 6:15 p.m.

I have an appointment to meet with Dean Plummer and Miss Robyn Dorn to discuss further all of these matters.

What I wish to do is to arrange patterns of hours so that all Beaver College students may have the best, library services available — within the constraints of our current budget.

Thank you, sincerely,
 Russell McWhinney,
 College Librarian.

On Selling Yourself

Ed. Note: The following letter was sent to Mrs. Nancy Gilpin, director of Career Guidance and Placement by Gerard Tannone, director of Camp Ballibay.

I have received many applications from students at Beaver College concerning employment here at Ballibay. One is messier than the other; how can I expect that these potential employees are serious about the job and have any respect for their new employer when the torn paper I receive with hasty notes on it are received here?

I don't claim to be the neatest person in the world or the best typist, but I'm not looking for employment. Is this the best that Beaver can produce?

I hope that you can take this as constructive criticism and not become defensive; I'm not interested in further dialogue — I'm taking my time and a stamp to let you know about this poor showing which I see.

I receive about 700 applications for jobs from my Times ad and other employment guides in which I'm listed. If someone wants a job they have to sell a little; I know that I do when I am trying to sell a customer!

Sincerely,
 Gerard J. Jannone

Student Referral Service

To the Editor:

The Student Referral Service seems to be dying. Last semester, the drug service and programs on human sexuality were merged together to offer the students of the Beaver community reliable information concerning drugs and sexuality. Room C in the basement of Heinz was secured and outfitted with accurate information on drug usage, abortion, venereal disease, birth control, and sexual intimacy. Guest lecturers came on campus to discuss these topics which, with the exception of one, were very poorly attended. At a recent meeting of the people involved with the service, only five people attended.

If this service is to continue, help is needed to plan programs, maintain the referral information in the room, and arrange for its continuation next year. As of now, the room in Heinz is always open for anyone to browse around or find information. It is up to the people who will be here next year to show some interest. Contact Jan Marks extension 282 or Nancy Malkin, extension 269 if you want to help.

Sincerely,
 Nancy Malkin

Campus Parking Spaces

Members of the Car Committee try to assign Beaver's limited parking space as fairly and equally as possible. Sometimes mistakes are made, or there are errors in judgment, but every effort is made to keep such instances at a minimum. The committee would like to give the college community their rationale on some decisions and also make some requests of those who park on campus.

Day students and student teachers comprise a large portion of those with parking permits. Therefore, the largest single area must be used for them. As this is a mobile group, the lot to which they are assigned can be over subscribed. This last fall about 75% more cars were assigned there than the number of spaces. Thus lot number 3 was entirely free for the students whose cars are on campus more often.

To accommodate students in an emergency, permission has been given to put an explanatory note on an unregistered, or illegally parked car so it will not be towed. Unfortunately this privilege has been abused by some. There have been instances of a note left on a car for weeks — there is a limit.

On occasion a student is granted permission to park a car on campus and then does not register the car, or does not continue to use the privilege. If such a student does not notify the Car Committee that she is not using her permission, some other student may be denied the privilege of parking on campus. So, if any student ceases to use her parking privilege, please notify the Dean of Student's Office.

Students who are assigned to lot number 3 and come in late at night may ask the Security Patrol to escort them back to the residence hall after the car is parked. This would avoid the necessity of students walking alone on campus, or returning their car to lot number 3 early in the morning.

Profile: Mr. Anthony Gronowicz

by Debbie Thorpe

This semester, Mr. Anthony Gronowicz, an instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, has become a member of Beaver's history department and is currently teaching American history.

Obtaining his undergraduate degree at Columbia University where he was active in radio and theatre production, he continued his education at the University of Pennsylvania graduate school. On the side he has taught school at John Bartram High School in Philadelphia, Copiague High School in Long Island, and Wagner Junior High School in New York City. Presently, he is planning two course proposals for the upcoming fall term at the University of Pennsylvania, teaching night school in general education at the University of Pennsylvania, and going back to New York frequently to proof-read an upcoming novel on a well-known actress. In addition, he is working on a project on Jacksonian politics for Professor Lee Benson of the University of Pennsylvania history department.

Mr. Gronowicz has an extremely positive attitude about the Beaver students. He feels that they are both appealing and intellectually stimulating. When asked about his plans for the future, he expressed some interesting proposals. "I am in American history primarily because I am interested in the social and political alternatives as they have arisen in the American experience. I would like to play a role in developing a perspective suitable for America today." He continued to state that he wants "to communicate these alternatives in as many ways as possible to encompass the different aspects of society." He does not want to commit himself to one specific field but to many that would help people in general.

Mr. Anthony Gronowicz, new member of the history department.

Career Opportunities

by Irene Heffran

The Career Center for Social Services in New York City is now taking applications for their 1972 Summer Experience in Social Work program (SESW). The program is designed to give the college student who is seriously considering a career in social work an opportunity to test her interest by being employed for 8 to 10 weeks in one of the public or private agencies serving the New York metropolitan area. The agencies are concerned with child welfare, family services, health care, institutions, public welfare, resident camps, and services to the aged.

The student is assigned social work related talks under the supervision of a trained social worker. The program provides a paid summer job through which one is able to become acquainted with the operations of agencies and the people involved.

To be eligible, you must be a junior this semester and live in the greater New York area. The deadline for applications is Wednesday, March 1, 1972. For applications and more information, see Miss Nancy Gilpin in the Career Planning and Placement Office.

The Merchant's Council of the Institute of Retail Management has invited Miss Nancy Gilpin, director of Career Placement and Guidance, and two interested Beaver students to be guests at the 24 Annual College Conference of Careers in Retailing at the New York Hilton Hotel on Friday, March 17, 1972. The aim of the conference is to expand both faculty and student understanding of the field of retail management. Experts and guests will meet in discussion groups to explore relevant problems. Students will be exposed to different methods of how to "get in and get ahead." The program will last from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. If you are interested in attending, see Miss Gilpin. Means of transportation have not yet been decided upon.

Attention: all seniors who missed yesterday's class meeting, please see Doris Persicketti or Nancy Malkin immediately. If this is not done, you will not have a cap and gown for graduation.

Anyone interested in working on the Presidential campaign of Senator George McGovern should contact Tobi Steinberg immediately. The Philadelphia headquarters are located at 2212 Locust Street. Also, all-expense paid campaign week-ends in New Hampshire are scheduled from now until the March 7 primary. Contact Tobi if interested.

Equal Rights for Women

but they do not truly have freedom, and their pursuit of happiness is blocked at every turn, if they do not concede happiness to be limited to the "little woman" role.

I am concerned about another double squeeze a working woman feels. Even though she may be paid less than a man with the same job, she knows she may claim only partial tax deductions for the care of her children while she is at work. Anyone male or female, who must pay for child care in order to work, should be able to deduct from gross income the full cost of a housekeeper or school for preschool children. If taxis and martinis are legitimate expenses, so is the care of children.

And when a woman goes to work, she wants to know her children will get the finest care, the most enriching experience possible. I am a co-sponsor of the Comprehensive Child Development Act of 1971. This bill maintains Headstart's priority on economically disadvantaged children, but expands its health, education, nutritional, and social services to include children from families of other economic levels, especially the children of working mothers and single parents of either sex.

And how many people realize that a woman's social security benefits are 80 percent of a man's, though she has paid the same premiums? She may come out better taking benefits as a widow than as a worker. If she does that she gets nothing at all back from all the premiums she herself has paid over the years. And her family gets far less than a man's in death or disablement compensation, if something happens to her. These inequities must go.

In the middle of April, when college acceptances were mailed out, many girls were turned down. And perhaps this was the first time they had run against the glass wall. Perhaps they did not even realize how much better their chances would have been if they had been boys. And imagine the frustration of well-qualified women, who find themselves bypassed for promotion. I believe that Federal funds should not go to any institution that discriminates against women; not in admissions, not in hiring, not in promotion, not in salary.

When President Nixon took office, he commissioned the Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities. Its report, rightly called "A Matter of Simple Justice," has been ignored. I am pleased to co-sponsor S. 2185, the Women's Equality Act, which would implement many of the task force recommendations.

Mr. Nixon claims he is proud of his record of bringing women into his administration. In 1968, women held 1.03 percent of the Federal jobs paying over $30,000. Now they occupy 1.04 percent. It is obvious that the President has no concept of the seriousness of this problem.

But he has instructed his staff "to give me any recommendations they possibly can that will bring qualified women into government."

This reiteration of the phrase "qualified women" shows how far behind the times he is. It implies that a qualified woman is hard to find, an assumption that is not only offensive, but wrong. And it further implies that if no woman is appointed, it is because none is qualified. Certainly no one is suggesting he hire unqualified women.

There should be no glass walls in America. There should be women in the Cabinet. I see no reason why the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Interior must be male. Never again should our affairs of state be an all male concern.

There should be women in the National Security Council. Never again should the question of war or peace be an all male decision. There should be women on the Supreme Court. Perhaps one of you has a daughter graduating at the top of her law school class this month. It must no longer be true that she cannot rise to the top of her profession. If justice is a woman, let some of the nine Justices be women.

And beyond our Nation's boundaries, America must be represented by more women. More Ambassadors to major countries should be female. And the Ambassador to the United Nations should be a woman. We must make it clear that we are not so far behind Israel and India in recognizing what a woman can do for world peace.

All of this is not mere lip service. I had the honor of serving as chairman of the Democratic Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection. Under my direction, the commission has specified that a delegation must reflect the population of the State. Obviously, this means about half should be women. In 1968, as you know, 13 percent were women. Only one of the 55 delegations had a woman as chairman.

America needs every brain, every talent, every energy. And an enormous fund of that energy is lying behind the glass wall unused. Discrimination has kept women who should be executives as clerks, who should be lawyers and judges, as legal aide volunteers, and has kept many out of the work force entirely.

America needs women to make our cities safe for the unprotected, exciting for the young and curious, beautiful for us all.

America needs women to bring justice to the poor, health to the sick, learning to every eager mind.

America needs women to clean up the politics as well as the rivers, to make the system respond, so that every American can take full part in the riches of the nation.

7 wrong reasons for having a baby:

1. "You're married a year now. When are you going to give us grandchildren?"

2. "You want to have a kid, Evelyn? All right, we'll have a kid. Maybe that'll patch things up."

3. "Why knock myself out working when I can have a baby?"

4. "I bet my parents would send us money if we had a baby..."

5. "Heh-heh, hey Frankie, what are you and Margie waiting for?"

6. "We only want two kids. But if we don't have a boy we'll keep trying!"

7. "Sure I want babies. What else is a woman for?"

Photos by Leonard Nones

These are just seven of the many wrong reasons for having a baby. There's only one right reason: because you really want one. And the right time is when you want one. When the baby can be a welcome addition, not an accidental burden. Unfortunately lots of people who think they know how to go about birth planning don't. (Research statistics show that more than half the pregnancies each year are accidental!) That's not having babies for wrong reasons. That's just being wrong.

Sherry Ward Morgan to Present Paper To Psychological Association

Sherry Ward Morgan, presently a graduate student at Harvard University and a 1971 graduate in psychology of Beaver, will present and read her senior research paper to the Eastern Psychological Association in Boston. The topic of her paper is the problem of women fearing success in competition with men in the academic and business world. Her research was done at Beaver, Lehigh University, Ursinus College, and Cheltenham High School, with the end results of her research proving that women were not afraid of attaining success any more than men. An example of the type of research she did was at Cheltenham High School where a boy and girl were given a design problem, the girl was more intelligent than the boy was. The girl is watched and studied to see if she will help the boy out or will remain silent revealing her lack of competence. Sherry's paper was done in conjunction with Dr. Bernard Mausner, chairman of the psychology department, who will accompany Sherry when she reads her paper in Boston this April 22.

Sherry Ward Morgan, 1971 graduate of Beaver, will present her senior paper to the Eastern Psychological Association in Boston.

Election of class officers will be the topic of discussion at the sophomore class meeting to be held this Wednesday, February 2, in the Amphitheatre of Boyer Hall. The meeting will be held at 4:30 p.m. and all sophomores are urged to attend.

Washington Post

Ben Bradlee, slim, attractive, but complex, executive editor of the Washington Post is 49 years old today, but he doesn't look it.

How does he manage to combine a successful career with the happy home life he has created in his gracious Georgian home?

In an interview today, pert, vivacious Mr. Bradlee revealed his secret: he relaxes after a day of whirlwind activity in the newspaper world by whomping up a batch of his favorite pecan sauerbraten cookies for his thriving family.

Father of seven, youthful-looking Mr. Bradlee quips, "I enjoy working for the Post, but every family needs a strong home life."

"Sometimes," he sighs, "I almost wish I could work part-time. After all, the public's trust in the newspaper is great, but all my azaleas are dying."

What does Ms. Bradlee think of her debonair husband's flair for journalism?

"I think it is great," she said. "Every wife should let her husband work. It makes him so well rounded. . . Now he has something to talk about at the dinner table."

Sports News

by Susan Smith

The Beaver basketball team is looking forward to a successful season. There are 15 active members on the team, including several girls from last year's team which gives the coach, Miss Ruth Lauver, chairman of the physical education department, something to build with. Beaver defeated Chestnut Hill in a pre-season scrimmage, 38-19, with Iris Berman scoring 17 points. Miss Lauver is very optimistic about this year's team and invites everyone to come and support the girls. Their schedule is as follows:

- February 1 — Eastern Baptist College
- February 3 — Manor Junior College
- February 10 — Villanova University
- February 15 — La Salle College
- February 17 — Bucks Community College
- February 22 — Penn State University (Ogontz Campus)
- February 24 — Montgomery Community County College
- March 1 — Holy Family College

The physical education department would also like to remind everyone that Thursday nights are Open Gym Nights. The gym is open from 7 to 9 p.m. for anyone wishing to use the equipment.

Free Course On Peace and Justice

A 13-session study of "peace and justice" is being offered at the University of Pennsylvania, Newman Hall, 3720 Chestnut Street. The sessions are held weekly on Tuesdays at 7 p.m.

The newly formed program consists of simulations, lectures, and group discussions. Its threefold purpose is to (1) assist the individual in his commitment to peacemaking through non-violent resolution of conflict, (2) develop cultural awareness and internalization, (3) affect major global issues through expert sources and aide.

STUDENT TEACHING

Ceylon, Germany, Japan, Sweden, Spain, Tanzania, are but a few of the countries in which student teachers may choose to spend the semester. In addition to teaching, the student will be required to make an independent study related to the educational system of the country in which she is living.

For further information contact Dr. Miller.

Dr. Swain To Supervise Summer Travel Seminar

A European Seminar will be held this summer under the supervision of Dr. Robert L. Swain, professor of religion and chairman of the department of religion and philosophy. The theme of this seminar is the introduction to the British Isles. The students accepted into this program will leave on June 19, 1972 and will return on July 14, 1972.

The trip will start in Shannon, Ireland. From Ireland, students will go on to Wales, Scotland and last to England, visiting London, as well as other points of interest, such as Stratford-upon-Avon. This trip will encompass all cultural and social spheres of interest found on the British Isles.

This general itinerary for the summer of 1972 is still subject to minor change. The cost is approximately $1,055, which will include air passage, private coach travel on land, hotels, all tips, two meals per day, luggage transfers, and many entrance fees. Due to the recent devaluation of the dollar in foreign markets, the cost may be advanced slightly. Applications are now being accepted. This group will be limited to 15 persons. The application should be accompanied by an initial payment of $100. A more detailed itinerary will be provided for every participant when it is completed.

DORMITORY COMMITTEE ELECTIONS

All self-nominations for dormitory committee can be deposited in Sue Jones' mailbox #178 from today to Monday, February 7. The self-nominations slip should include name, class, cumulative ratio, telephone extension, and desired office, plus other offices held. The only requirement is a 1.25 cum ratio.

Elections will take place February 8 at dormitory meetings.
