Arcadia University has undergone a plethora of changes since it was founded back in 1853 as Beaver Female Seminary. Few perhaps, as large and as controversial as the official grant of university status and the changing of the name from Beaver College. November 19, 2000 marked the unveiling of the new title to the community with decided mixed results. To those that were in attendance, the atmosphere was one of both shock and surprise, especially considering the rumors that spread through the campus. Everything from "Glenside University" to "Grey Towers University" was said to have been considered.

As to the ceremonial change on July 16, 2001, the response was much more than anyone could have anticipated. With nearly every radio station in the Philadelphia area adding to the fervor and commentary by the likes of Jay Leno and David Letterman fueling the comedy circuit for months afterward, the official change was both a heartfelt good-bye to the past and a refreshing welcome for the new spirit.

President Betty Landman explains what was considered when deciding what name would be worthy of replacing Beaver College.
Beaver College students anxiously await the announcement of their new school name.

Rich Smith reacts as Kerry Ann Braunstein and Corrine Royer reveal the school's new title.

The Mr. Beaver competition is the showcase of the often under represented men of the campus. Most of us who have participated have many fond memories of the contest. Mr. Beaver has always been about having fun with (and sometimes at the expense of) stars. Favorites of the past have been RuPaul, Gilligan, Tom Hanks, and everyone’s favorite chef, Mr. Benny. The contest gives people who have not met an excellent chance to bond for the sake of a good time. Although the originating title of the college that created the contest has passed on, we say Long Live Mr. BEAVER!!!
Joe Carey wins Mr. Beaver 2002 with his impersonation of Dr. Frankenfurter.

"History never looks like history when you are living through it."

A yearbook can be many things. It is certainly a way to look back at the previous year and to remember the people, places and events that were a part of it. It is, for the graduating senior, a means of reflecting on a journey that is nearing completion. For the first-year student, it is a promise of things to come as you realize the diverse opportunities that an institution such as Arcadia offers you, many of which you have yet to take advantage. For everyone, including the faculty and staff, it is a history book. This is very important to recognize as we have entered our 150th year and have begun to celebrate our collective history. As we have prepared for the celebration of our Sesquicentennial, resources such as yearbooks have been an integral part of our research and planning. You are at Arcadia during a historic time and this book will document that time forever.

As I noted above, a yearbook is for everyone but it is especially important for those who are graduating this year. You have completed a journey that has, I hope, challenged you both in and out of the classroom. A journey without challenges does not take you anywhere; it only leaves you tired. However, when you are challenged in your journey, you are energized and ready to begin the next one. The challenges you have faced here have enabled you to understand who you are and how you fit into society. They have prepared you for whatever path you choose when you graduate so that you can work with others, critically examine questions that arise and communicate to others your ideas and opinions. I wish you luck on your next journey and hope that you have found this one rewarding.

For those who will return next year, it is important that you face up to the challenges that lay in your path. As you go through the next year, I hope that you remember the words of John Gardner and understand that you are living the history of the future. You have the opportunity to shape both your personal history and the history of Arcadia University by facing your challenges and taking the opportunity to learn from them.

Finally, I would like to congratulate the staff of the yearbook for their hard work and dedication. Your efforts allow us to remember this year and to have a record of it.

Dear Arcadia University Class of 2003:

Congratulations! Your accomplishments are many and the potential for your future is outstanding. Consider the past few years and how you have developed and achieved your goals. If you think about it, it was not long ago that you made your first venture to campus on your own, or you called a prospective roommate to find out who was bringing the refrigerator. Now years later those challenges seem like the easiest things you ever had to do...instead you have worked through your thesis, decided about graduate school or are looking for meaningful employment and a place to live.

As you look through the memories in this book, enjoy the nostalgia that the yearbook staff has helped to create. Take time to look at the photographs and to read the various entries. Keep the memories fresh in your mind as you move to the next phase of your life. The following list is intended as a reminder of how you built your success at Arcadia University and is adapted from a list of things successful students have done. Take time to create ways to continue that success in the rest of your life and in your community. I urge you to consider the following suggestions in your future as Arcadia alumni:

1) Take Responsibility Seriously: You have tremendous responsibility. Take it seriously and recognize that your decisions and actions are not only important for you, but your decisions and actions have consequences for others.

2) Be Intentional: Take control of the things you want to have happen. Remember that you can make a difference in your life and the lives of others. Make a commitment to do both – often.

3) Maintain Friendships: Maintaining good friendships requires being intentional. If you want to be able to connect regularly with friends, make sure you make the effort to know how to reach them and share with them how to reach you.

4) Appreciate Technology: The common use of e-mail and cell phones should make it easier to stay in touch. Be meaningful in your communications and make the commitment to stay in touch.

5) Appreciate Differences: Recognize that broadening our horizons makes us stronger individually and collectively. You have had exposure to different individuals, ways of thinking, ways of taking action and lifestyles. Learn from the differences and find ways to build appreciation of difference into your daily routine.

6) Live Civility and Encourage Others to Do the Same: A friendly atmosphere is the most common answer when people are asked about what is striking about Arcadia. As that friendliness extends across campus we also define it as respect and civility within our community. Do what you can to be an active member of civil communities wherever you are, and encourage those around you to do the same.

7) Think About Your Image: What do you want to be remembered for? How have you lived up to that expectation? As you take on the challenges of each day, be sure you remember what your personal goals are and what you want your experiences to actually mean to others.

You have contributed to our environment at Arcadia University in many ways. Your participation in classes, in student leadership roles, in theater productions, in athletics, and as a friend to others, all have made a difference to this very special place. Take all of that with you as you take your next steps and be sure to value your learning opportunities and be a positive influence on others. I wish each of you much success as you pursue your life goals.

Heinz Hall is one of our more lively halls on campus. Though Heinz has an immense population of first year students, we are also lucky enough to have a fair share of upperclassmen accounted for. Heinz Hall has a variety of living arrangements, yet maintains its “traditional hall” mode.

With residents living in rooms ranging from singles to triples, the RAs often have their hands full. Heinz Hall fosters a brilliant sense of community through various hall programs, such as decorating the walls and bathrooms, adding unique touches to the building.

Dilworth and Thomas Halls are the smaller of the residence halls, which affords it a great sense of community. Dilworth/Thomas residents are very connected to one another and are receptive to the various elements involved in campus life.

The coveted elevator and washing machines are what separate Knight from all other on-campus residence buildings.
Knight Hall, aka “the suites” is one of our more popular areas to reside. Knight Hall residents have not only the option of who they want to live with for the year, but also have the opportunity to decide who to pair up with in the various rooms within the suite. Knight Hall has a wonderful atmosphere of upperclassmen students who have the chance to bond, “family style” by living together in a suite and figuring out what it takes to make it all work. Between the bathrooms in each suite and the cooking and laundry facilities on each floor, residents of Knight Hall make truly make it a home away from home.

3rd Knight and 3rd South get groovy with Austin Powers (Ryan Hudson) at Mr. Beaver.
The newly renovated Manor Apartments made it through their first year (2001-2002) with a touch of TLC from the residents; the students living them this year continue in that tradition. While the Manor is located across the way from campus, residents still make it a priority to maintain campus involvement, often risking their lives to cross Easton Rd. at rush hour to make a meeting or attend an event. What more can one ask for? Independant bathrooms, full kitchens, and carpeted bedrooms make the manor a privileged style of campus living; it truly becomes a home for many of the residents. This year again, the residents have added their own unique style and finesse to the building.

Students Against Drunk Driving

SADD was formed to inform and educate the Arcadia University community on the harmful effects of drinking and driving. Through annual events such as Drink, Drive, Die, and sidewalk chalk messages, the club combines prevention, education and information with practical solutions to the drinking and driving situation. For all of its efforts, SADD was voted the 2001-2002 Educational Club of the Year.

Yearbook

This year’s yearbook is undergoing a rejuvenation. With a new name and a new attitude, this year’s book is the first (of what will hopefully be many) to live up to the name Enthymion, which is Greek for memories, nostalgia or keepsake. This year’s staff, through many hours of dedication, loyalty and hard work has tried to capture the past four years, one page at a time.

Head Coach: Tom Carlin.

The Arcadia University Knights Men’s Soccer team had an excellent season, advancing to the NCAA Elite 8. Arcadia won the second round of the NCAA match-up against Keene State College(NH).
This year the Men's Soccer Coach, Tom Carlin, won Coach of the Year honors for the third straight year. Tom DeGeorge '03 took Player of the Year honors for the second straight year and five Knights made the all-PAC team. Also on the first team were Rob White '03, Anthony Boyle '03, John Barry '04 and Steve Houghton '04.

Field Hockey

"We entered 2002 knowing it was going to be an exciting season. Bringing back all 11 starters, including Reginal All American Lindsay Offt, gave us the confidence that we needed to contend for the PAC title. The first obstacle we overcame was beating previously undefeated and regionally ranked College Misericordia 1-0 in OT. We played each game with the intensity and heart of true champions. Being the coach of this team was the best experience I have ever had here at Arcadia."

Coach Laura-Ann Lane

"Thanks for a great season and for making our last year the best! It's great to be able to say that you girls are our best friends here at Arcadia, on and off the field. This year we really pulled it together to show what being a team is all about. Great Season, ladies! We love you and will miss you next year.

Kick some butt next season!"

Coach Hayes characterizes this year as "a year full of change, growth and growing pains." She said that it was a rough year but this is a good team and they're not done yet.

Coach Hayes says "Jean [Corrigan] wears the team on her socks and always gives a hundred percent."
“Under the exceptional leadership of Captain Alexandra Almaguer, the Women’s Cross Country team ran very competitively all season. Alex’s commitment to training, along with that of fellow senior Sue Campos, positively influenced the performance of the younger runners. Completing this year’s Top 5 Runners were: Christina Rhoads (Jr), Colleen Goodwin (So), and Zoe Bujak (Fr). The Men’s Cross Country still struggled to place a full team on the starting line. Sophomores Josh Pearlstein and Scott Gafford were the only returning runners from last year.”

“Our women’s team has a solid group of returning runners plus exciting newcomers, I’m anticipating a good year from them.”

“While they are small in number, our men’s team is a dedicated group who work very hard.”

~Coach Karen Orr
A look back over the past four years:

“In the last four years, the AU women’s soccer team has enjoyed three play-off births, two PAC championship titles, and two trips to the NCAA tournament. There were emotional highs, as well as disappointments, but nothing was more plentiful than the fun times the team had together. Walking into the locker room before a big game and experiencing the nervous energy and excitement that filled the room was always thrilling, dressing in crazy outfits for Clash Day is a memory that will never be forgotten, playing Dirt or Dash, team dinners at Olive Garden, training camps, the list could go on and on. None of these things would have been as special as they were if it had not been for the tight bond the team had! Anyone who was part of this team was fortunate; there’s nothing quite like being a member of AU Women’s Soccer!”

~Julia Bergson-Shilcock, Captain

“The past four years have been amazing and I know I’ll cherish the memories I have of all the great times we had! From PAC Championships, to team OG dinners, to Clash Day, to training camps, you girls were there each step of the way, and that’s what made it so incredibly special! Thanks for all the hard work, heart, and passion each one of you put into this team! I’ll greatly miss being a part of this team, but I’m taking with me so many wonderful memories! I love you girls!"

Men's Basketball

“This year has been very rewarding as we have started the rebuilding process. With the strong leadership of our senior captains, Jeff Lippincott, Jeff Siti, and Justin Baxter, and our returning lettermen, Jeff Bilinsky, Vince Clark, Josh Etheridge, Mike Wilson and Ryan Cenac, the team took positive steps in that direction. With the addition of first-year players Robert DuBose and Justin McCuen, and freshmen Derek Cornish, Magen McNeil, and Ty Wallace, a strong foundation has been set for the coming years at Arcadia. “ ~Head Coach Mike Doyle

...OR HANG OUT
PHILADELPHIA
Events and Activities
Every once in a while it is important to kick back and forget about our responsibilities, at least for a night. We are able to do that with the special visitors that come to campus. Every visitor, whether comedic or informative, gave us a good time and more memories to share.

Just in time for Halloween, Jack Levin came and shared his knowledge of serial killers. While a little disturbing, it was very interesting.

Steven Lynch blew his way into The Chat on October 8th. While far from politically correct, he kept many entertained and laughing with his songs and stand-up routine.

On November 22nd, Pete and Jeff of the Badlees gave a performance in The Chat. They entertained with their unique and mellow singing style.

Hypnotist Mike Lee caused quite a stir when he came and took hold of many Arcadia students.
We will never look at turkey the same way again.

Comedian Mark Curry of "Hanging with Mr. Cooper" fame entertained many in Stiteler Auditorium on October 5th. Sporting his Arcadia t-shirt, he put on quite a performance. He worked a lot from improvisation, taking topic suggestions from the crowd. From this a lot of sexually oriented material was discussed, including a little bit about a turkey. Curry performed for about one and a half hours, surpassing expectations and to the delight of many. He even hung around afterward for autographs.
Special Events

It is usually not hard to find something to do on campus. A lot of different organizations work to bring us entertainment. Everything from coffeehouses to promotional events can be found. Anyone attending these special events is sure to have a blast.

In the beginning of the semester, Y100 and CaseyBoy came to visit us with “Pancakes and Panties.” Dining services provided the pancakes, Y100 - the panties, and students - the laughs.

Numerous dances were held this semester, each with their own flair and fun. The Hawaiian dance was held on November 16th and sponsored by SPB.

On November 1st, the Student Alumni Association hosted a coffeehouse where many students and faculty showcased their talent.

SPB Presents

Fall Semester Movies

Every semester SPB offers a unique treat to Arcadia students that is seldom offered at other colleges. They bring us first run movies, very often before they are available on video and some that may still be in theaters. This semester’s line-up included:

- Spiderman (2002)
- Borne Identity (2002)
- 40 Days, 40 Nights (2002)
- Sum of All Fears (2002)
- Halloween Freight Fest Friday the 13th (1984)
- Signs (2002)
- 8 Legged Freaks (2002)
- Men in Black II (2002)
- A Christmas Story (1983)
Family Weekend invites family and friends to come and see both Arcadia and loved ones. It is a nice time to show off the campus and share how we are getting along without mom and dad. Some great activities were planned including a performance by the choir, the Psychic Madman Show, a trip into Philly, and Casino Night.

The Walk of Pride was turned into a virtual circus with the all club-sponsored tables offering a variety of activities. One could do anything from getting a henna tattoo to making a candy apple. Free popcorn and pretzels were offered by the Alumni Association making the morning complete and a great time for all who turned out.

A Day Trip into Historic Philadelphia

Students and family had the option of spending Saturday morning getting a tour of Philadelphia. It was great fun and informative for all who went.

Casino Night was a big hit for all those who attended. Thanks to the Arcadia students and faculty who served as dealers. Many turned out to gamble away their chips and try their luck in the raffle.

The Walk of Pride was the place to be on Saturday Morning.

The Balloon man entertained many with his skill and original balloon animals.
One of the most anticipated events planned by SPB, Mr. Beaver is a long standing tradition. As always, it was accompanied by the expected frenzy of dance practices, assembling of colorful costumes, a race to get it all together, and the spirit of competition. This year's six competitors ranged from the characters of the Stone Age to contemporary music and media figures. Anyone connected with the conception of a Mr. Beaver can tell you that a lot of work goes into it. This year's contestants were no exception.

RHC transformed the castle into delightful and festive quarters to hold all the Arcadia students masquerading on the chilly November night. Everyone from medieval ladies to Marilyn Monroe to devils to angels to men disguised ladies were there. You name it, and it graced the dancing floor of the castle. This year was a clear success for those who planned it and fun for all who attended.
Multi-Cultural Day is a time for students and faculty to broaden their horizons and minds by way of the taste palate and experience. Attendants are able to sample the cultures from a plethora of different countries. It was sponsored by the American Language Academy and several other organizations.

Several activities were offered for Multi-Cultural day. One of the many was a fashion show, highlighting fashions from all over the globe. Another portion of the program celebrated music and dance from different cultures. All participants were Arcadia students.

This year's Empty Bowl Dinner was held on November 18th in the Castle. It was a great success, raising over $5000 for the Northwest Philadelphia Interfaith Hospitality Network and Heifer Project International. Both organizations help to feed the hungry. It was hard to choose from the many bowls made by Arcadia students, Cedarbrook residents, Abington Community Center, and local high school students. It was even harder to choose from the soups and breads donated by local restaurants and students.

How it all works . . .

First, you must pick a bowl among the dozens available.

Then fill your bowl up with your choice of soups.

Finally, enjoy your soup and bowl in the company of friends.

Student coordinator Carin Piccirilli and Community Service Advisor Cindy Rubino. Thanks to all those who helped to make this Dinner possible and a success!
Arcadia University

In 1853, on the banks of the Ohio River, the Beaver Female Seminary was born. In 2003, we have the exciting opportunity, and responsibility, to celebrate our Sesquicentennial as Arcadia University. It is a celebration of 150 years of pursuing our educational mission and of the people and places that have been involved in this effort.

-Bette E. Landman, President

Although it may have started as a small college in Western Pennsylvania ...

Arcadia has grown to be one of the most comprehensive universities of its kind-

Not only is it recognizable for its one of a kind education but also for its historical significance. That is why throughout the entire year of 2003, we will be celebrating what our school has become and what it can grow to be.
An exciting kick off event was held on Thursday, January 23rd to start off the Sesquicentennial Celebration. Bette Landman ran the festivities which included a live web broadcast, a special conversation with our London staff, an anniversary video that highlighted the University's 150-year journey, Arcadia's oldest alumni, and cake. Those who attended received an anniversary T-shirt and a lot of interesting facts pertaining to Arcadia's history as an institution of higher learning.

All who attended had a great time. We received a special musical treat by "The Mummers" (pictured right).

The T-shirt given away commemorated milestones in Arcadia's history.

 Spotlight On... DR. LISA HOLDERM AN

As a member of the Pluralism teaching team, Dr. Lisa Holderman introduces students to race, class, and gender—but this is far from her only appearance on the Arcadia University campus. As an Assistant Professor of Communications and an advisor for the Communications Department, Dr. Holderman not only enjoys forming relationships with students, but also thinks that it is important. She describes herself as supportive and enjoys assisting students. She also encourages students to get involved on campus in clubs, activities, internships, or anything that could provide a valuable experience.

Spotlight On... Ana Maria Garcia
In the field of sociology, understanding and analyzing contemporary social problems are the order of the day. Dr. Ana Maria Garcia deals specifically with ideas and concepts of diversity not only on campus, but also worldwide. As she says, "social justice is my passion" and it's definitely indicated in her work. Her focal work surrounds being what she calls a "social irritant" or a facilitator in continuing the efforts of deconstructing stereotypes of race, class, gender, sexuality, both in and outside of the classroom. Truly, though, the love of her work derives mainly from her students and the ideas that they bring.

Spotlight On... Ellen Sitron

As the Director of Student Health Services, Ellen Sitron provides a friendly, open environment for students who are seeking medical advice. Aside from dispensing this invaluable information to the Arcadia University community, Ellen feels that one of her biggest contributions to the campus is in her work to demystify all of the ideas behind healthcare. Doing this helps the campus community learn to take control of their own health and to effectively care for themselves.

When it comes to Community Service, everyone knows where to go to find out about it.

Sarah,
Recognizing that my precious baby has grown into a young woman with bright intelligence, boundless energy, and a brave spirit has added a new dimension of respect and friendship to our relationship. Your accomplishments thrill me like nothing else can. No parent could love a child as I do you. You are a loving, sensitive and caring individual. I am proud of the person you have become and I look forward to sharing your future.
Thank you for the wonderful memories you have given me. Love, Mom

From the first day..................................to the very end.

Dear Sarah,
Congratulations! You've done it!!! Always remember how lucky you are to have a dream and see it through. Good luck in all that you may endure. Stand for something Big!! Love, Seth

Congratulations Sarah. We're very proud of our granddaughter. Keep up the good work as you continue with your studies. Your ambition and common sense will be your guide. Set your goals in life, and we are confident you will achieve them. Love, Grandpa and Gram

Dear Sarah,
You have made me proud and honored to say well done, you did it! So far you've traveled the world and experienced much - at this point its time to experience even more and you are prepared. You have the knowledge and confidence to go as far as you desire and beyond. Congratulations Sarah you've made us all especially proud!! Love Bradd

As you have the rest of your life ahead of you, build upon the strong foundation we have endeavoured to provide. Love, Dad and Barb Congratulations!

"Expect the best from yourself and you will meet your expectations!"

To your future Steve, wherever life leads you, your family will be there, if you ever should need us! We are very proud of you and all you have accomplished!

Love Mom, Dad, Nick and your family

Aimee Drumheller

Lots of new friends, four years of memories and a lifetime ahead of you, I hope you are as excited and proud as we are.

Love and BK,
Mom, Dad & Jeff

Deirdre Regan

Our Dearest Deirdre,

Didn't we just send you off to you first day of kindergarten? Your hard work and effort have paid off; you have achieved your first goal.

We love you and are so proud of you, as always.

On to the next challenge!

Love and Stuff Always,
Dad, Mom and Timothy

Congratulations to the Class of 2003!

GO BEAVER!
Stephanie K. String

Our family is so very proud of you for your accomplishments at Arcadia University. We all love you very much and our love will be with you as you continue your education.

Love and Best Wishes,
Mom, Dad, Jeff and Grams

Some men see things as they are and say why? I dream things that never were and say "Why not?"
-Robert Kennedy

It has been an honor to be a part of this yearbook and to be included as a freshman was particularly rewarding. A lot of tears and sweat went into this yearbook. It is not easy to write something that others have let die but I hope we succeeded in breathing new life into what was lost. I hope we succeeded in creating something worthy enough to hold your memories. I can only hope that this yearbook will continue to grow and expand.
- Megan Corcoran

"There's no point in being grown up if you can't be childish sometimes."
- Doctor Who
The weather started getting rough,
The tiny ship was tossed,
If not for the courage of the fearless crew,
The minnow would be lost, the minnow would be lost.
~ George Wyle and Sherwood Schwartz

"Journalism is the ability to meet the challenge of filling space."
~ Rebecca West

"We do not know the true value of our moments until they have undergone the test of memory."
~ Georges Duhamel

This yearbook would not be possible, however, without a great deal of support, especially from our fabulous advisor Kristen
Hyman, and our amazing photographer Jenn Chance.

Confucius once said "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step." It has been both a pleasure and an honor to take the first steps in the long journey of rebuilding and revitalizing the Enthymion. It is through a great deal of hardwork and dedication that we present this yearbook to you and hope that it is serves as a worthy reminder of your time here at Arcadia. ~ Lauren Murray

In My Life

There are places I’ll remember
All my life, though some have changed
Some forever, not for better
Some have gone and some remain
All this places have their moments
With lovers and friends I still can recall
Some are dead and some are living
In my life, I’ve loved them all

But of all these friends and lovers
There is no one compares with you
And these memories lose their meaning
When I think of love as something new
Though I know I’ll never lose affection
For people and things that went before
I know I’ll often stop and think about them
In my life, I love you more

Though I know I’ll never lose affection
For people and things that went before
I know I’ll often stop and think about them
In my life, I love you more
In my life— I love you more

~ The Beatles

“What we call the beginning is often the end. And to make an end is to make a beginning. The end is where we start from.”
~ T.S. Eliot
