Lisa has been a joy since the day she was born. It was great watching her grow up for you never knew what she was going to do or say for she has a great sense of humor and friendly disposition. Being the youngest of four children was quite a challenge for her. She had a lot to live up to but I think she is doing a great job. I know she will continue to grow in spirit and achieve what she set out to do in life.
Love Mom and Dad.

We wish that God may guide and safely keep this beautiful woman she has become, change not, only grow. May you be successful and receive all of the best life has to offer. Love ya, Mom and Dad.

Calvin E. Uzelmeier

Dear Cal: who would ever have thought you might be responsible for leading the world in a new direction. It’s sure different from the four year old, holding on to the steering wheel and coasting across the circle in neutral. We will always be proud of you. Congratulations on all your accomplishments, past, present and future. Love Mom and Dad.

Christine Sirkowski

It is during the precious moments of your graduation that I am reminded of earlier times when dreams were yet to be realized and horizons yet to be conquered. When bittersweet stages of adolescence, and the search for meaning and truth, seemed to be your greatest struggle.

It is during this joyous occasion that my minds eye reflects on a bright, wide-eyed, and determined young lady beginning her journey through the challenge we call life. Sometimes afraid, occasionally stumbling, but always forward. In realizing your accomplishments on your graduation day, the love and pride I hold for you is not easy to contain and yet is difficult to express. Somehow knowing your dreams will come true, if you truly wish them to, is enough. Congratulations! With all my love, Gram.
Congratulations Ken Wagner
