BEAVER
DEDICATION

Every once in a while someone crosses our path
and leaves an indelible impression.
It matters not if our contact is a short interlude or
a long association.
What qualities leave such a mark?
If it must be expressed in words,
one might say:

GENTLENESS
INTEGRITY
DEVOTION

We have found all this and a certain indefinable spirit in

DALLAS E. BUZBY.

This is a man whose soul has a beauty
rarely found.
This is a man for whom we have admiration
and respect.
More than that, this is a man for whom we have an honest and unashamed love.
To you, Dr. Buzby, the Class of 1959 dedicates this book.
FOREWORD
This you have given us: a desire to seek SPIRITUAL TRUTH, which is the premise and ground upon which all truths rest, and the capacity for DOUBT, which is the creator of human knowledge.

Knowledge and the desire to learn,
The recognition of a basic Spiritual
Truth behind and within all truths,
The requisites of a cultured mind
which should be constantly growing,
The courage to question and to doubt,
thus creating new avenues of thought,
All this has been offered us . . .

To this we aspire: HONESTY, that standard which governs our action toward self and our dealings with others, and LOVE, which is the denial of self that in turn leads to self-giving and to fulfillment.

Honesty toward ourselves as the foundation of our learning,
Recognition of our limitations, acknowledgement of our abilities—
Through the acceptance of these things, we strive to live up to the best that is within us.

A woman’s world is made up of her loves, those loves which enable her to shed tears of compassion and joy for all things and be content therewith. The love of God shines through her; the love of man shines within her; the love of life emanates from her. It is love which makes a woman’s life beautiful. But without communication, love is a mockery; in the sharing of love lies its perfection.

This we deem imperative: A willingness to DREAM.

To pick out the right path to follow,
To look ahead with optimism and walk forward with sure steps,
To be willing to work for a dream and have faith that ahead lies its realization,
This is our aim . . .

These things are life itself.

"I always accept every opportunity to extend greetings to our Beaver girls. It is hard to realize that we are at the end of another college year, and our girls will scatter all over the country, some will go to far-away lands. We will look forward with anticipation to September when we can welcome most of you 'back home!'

DR. RUTH L. HIGGINS
Dean of the College
In the course of history, few truly dedicated people reveal themselves. It is our privilege at Beaver to know one of them. To Dean Ruth L. Higgins, Beaver owes more than it will ever be able to repay. This June will mark Dean Higgins' twenty-fifth year at Beaver. This is our tribute to her.

Nine years after the Beaver Campus was moved to Jenkintown, Miss Higgins was appointed as dean of the college and professor in the department of history and government. She entered upon a scene of turmoil as the school struggled to adjust to a new environment in which the academic worth of the college had to be established. Fired with the ambition so characteristic of her, she set high standards and, as she always insists, with the support of the faculty and administration, gradually raised Beaver to the recognized standards it has today. She played a large part in the accreditation of the college, not only by the Middle Atlantic States Association, but by all of the top accreditation agencies. It is through her efforts that all graduates of Beaver, no matter what degree is earned, are eligible to meet the standards of the American Association of University Women. Of this fact she is justly proud. Dean Higgins has been the driving force behind the academic rise of Beaver College.

Miss Higgins received the degree of bachelor of arts in history, of bachelor of science in education, and of master of arts in history from Ohio State University. She did graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, the summer session of Cambridge University, England, and Ohio State, where she also received her doctorate. Dean Higgins received an honorary LL.D. from Beaver in 1953.

Dean Higgins has written many book reviews and articles for various historical and educational magazines. Among her publications is Beaver College: the First Hundred Years, which was written in collaboration with Mrs. Mary Sturgeon, a member of our English Department.

An avid supporter of women, Miss Higgins believes that they should be given equal opportunity to assume every high position. She says that her vocation is the furtherance of scholarship and that her avocation is her alumnae, their aspirations, and their successes.

Dean Higgins also has a less serious side. She is an authority on football, especially where Ohio State is concerned, and along with having historical facts at her command, she can quote football facts whenever Ohio State makes a splash on the sportspage.

It is with gratitude that Beaver College marks Dean Higgins' twenty-fifth year and salutes her tireless efforts.

HONORARIES
STUDENT COUNCIL

Marjorie Powers, President

Student Council is the coordinating group on campus through which an effective communication system between students, faculty, and administration is achieved. Its executive function consists of controlling and coordinating the various other Student Government groups, and its legislative power lies in formulating or accepting rules and regulations pertaining to the activities and the social life of the students under its jurisdiction.

NOMINATING COUNCIL

Ruth Huss, President

Nominating Council has complete jurisdiction over all election proceedings on campus, including preparing the slates and the ballots, counting the ballots, directing campaign activity, and stimulating interest in voting. The Council also carries out and regulates the extra-curricular activity point system, as well as coordinating all campus clubs and independent organizations by recognizing and assisting them in their elections and allotment of points.

The Judicial Board works in conjunction with the Honor Council and is responsible for considering all cases involving a breach of student conduct. This student-established and student-run board attempts to uphold honor in all aspects of college life and to act as arbitrator between Honor Council and the student body. The principles of Honor Council are honesty and justice, which are vital to the college’s system of self-government.
The purpose of Dormitory Council is to integrate and coordinate dormitory activities and to keep the dormitories orderly, quiet, and attractive. It is responsible for the general decorum of the resident students. Dormitory Council is the sounding board for student criticism and suggestions and is the representative voice of the students to Student Council in this particular aspect of college life.

The Honor Council was formed by the student body to encourage the highest ideals of honor throughout the college community. Serving as an initial board for all matters concerning the honor system, the Council also is responsible for the execution of the system. Each council member is expected to interpret the Honor Code to all students, faculty, and administration, stressing individual and collective responsibility according to the principles and standards adopted by the group.

FORUM OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Yvonne Zea, President

The Forum of Arts and Sciences was created by the faculty and the students of the college in order to provide a stimulating, informative, and entertaining program as an additional aid in the cultural and intellectual life of the college community. As an additional service to the college, Forum strives to coordinate an activities program in order to promote possibilities for creative effort and for personal activity in every field of academic study.

YWCA

Mary Lou Pickell, President

The purpose of the Young Women's Christian Association is to encourage the desire for and the realization of a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. The association feels that this is best accomplished through a realistic and purposeful program of work designed to improve community harmony.

The purpose of the Athletic Association is to initiate interest in all sports on the Beaver Campus and to promote good sportsmanship among students participating in these activities. Athletic activity is one of the primary methods for encouraging school spirit and loyalty, and this association is responsible for uniting the students through constructive enthusiasm.
It is the responsibility of each Student Counselor to help in giving direction, meaning, and depth to the new students' college experience. The student can feel free to seek either personal, social, or academic help from her counselor. The administration selects the Student Counselors from the junior and senior classes, on the basis of leadership, service, and potential guidance ability.
DAY STUDENT COUNCIL

Patricia Thompson, President

The Day Student Council is the organization through which the opinions and ideas of non-resident students are carried to Student Government. The purpose of this council is to unite the day students among themselves and to promote better relationships with the resident students and the other organizations on campus. It is concerned with the problems peculiar to the day student and her adjustment to college life.

Collected within the pages of the Beaver Log is a selective record of the major events of the year. The Log is an annual publication which captures through the medium of pictures and paragraphs the ideals of our college living. But it is also a stimulant to memory: it suggests; we respond . . . with smiles or perhaps a bit of nostalgia.

The life of the college is recorded in the Beaver News, which is the central voice on campus of the students, faculty, and administration: their opinions, ideas, and reports. This bi-weekly newspaper is put out by students with the help of Mrs. Mary E. Sturgeon, faculty advisor. The staff is trained in accuracy, discipline, and journalistic responsibility by participation in a medium of communication which produces an average of nine-hundred issues that circulate on and off campus.
The literary magazine provides opportunity for personal and intellectual satisfaction through expression in fiction, non-fiction, poetry, and art. The Review is a quarterly composite of material selected by the Review Board and organized into autumn, winter, early and late spring issues.

BASEBALL

With the usual excitement of a traditional event, Song Contest was held in Huntingdon Gym, Abington, on November twenty-fifth. The Sophomore Class sang their way to victory and ownership of the coveted trophy, while the Freshmen won honorable mention and lost their “dinks” at last! After winning recognition for the best serenade, the Seniors dedicated their hymn to Janice Eckert, their former leader, and with her recalled songs from past contests.
SONG CONTEST
FALL PRODUCTION

The newly renovated Little Theatre was the site of an ambitious Fall Production in which Christopher Fry's A Phoenix Too Frequent and Eugene Ionesco's The Bald Soprano were presented. Under the able direction of Miss Elder, both comedies provided an entertaining and worthwhile evening.
"THE CAT WALK"

"LAMPLIGHT AND EBONY"
FINE ARTS WEEKEND

This was the first observance of Fine Arts Weekend at Beaver, combining in one weekend both the traditional Glee Club Contest and Play Contest, which in previous years had been held on separate weekends during the school year. The classes competed through the presentation of four plays on Friday night. The seniors were awarded the prize for their presentation of Lord Dun-sany’s The Glittering Gate, and Sue Silver was voted best actress for her performance in this play. A coffee hour followed. On Saturday night the Glee Club concert with Lafayette was followed by an informal dance at Grey Towers. An exhibition of work done by underclassmen in the Fine Arts Department was on display in Green Par-lors during the entire weekend.
JUNIOR PROM

The “Hunt of the Unicorn” began on Friday, April tenth, with an informal dance at Murphy gymnasium (“Cafe Unicorn”). Duke Ellington “held court” at the jazz concert on Saturday afternoon, and Saturday night Glenn Miller’s Orchestra, directed by Ray McKinley, highlighted “Millefleurs,” the formal dance held in Grey Towers. Queen Marcella Broderick was crowned at midnight, and the most successful and glamorous of Junior Proms drew to a close.
Spring came ... and to celebrate the occasion, parents, faculty, administration, and students merged their enthusiasm in Beaver's annual Parent Day-May Day festivities. Ring breakfast, the procession of the Honor and Laurel Chains, the coronation of the May Queen, an innovation—the presentation of Giraudoux's The Mad Woman of Chaillot in honor of the Queen and her Court, a formal dance also in honor of Queen Marjorie: all proved a fitting tribute to spring.
