DEDICATION

For her natural, unforced grace and gentleness
For her encouragement—her impartial friendliness her personality rich with color and humor her electric, infusing warmth of energy—
For her sincerity
Her patience
   we gratefully address this publication to Miss Marjorie Darling.
Who was my youth?
Neither season nor flesh nor prayer sang to me from the night.
On no wind or no sand was the lean angel—
    behind the tall grass she lay sleeping.
High was the wall of tall grass and spring flowers
    nor came the wild night less sweetly.
Then was my youth's core and the weather dwelt in the thistled woods and the birds' singing and the soft arms.
Always,
    in the lying down of sorrow under the one moon and the one sea,
    love had no home and the dream of the flaming hurried the grave.
It began when the pastel sea began and the clouds crossed.
It had neither a lantern nor a mist,
    and I had but one robin.
Who was my youth?
My youth, drowning with mornings and the salty, moon-anchored boats.
In a room the size of dream-fires,
I shall go blind—searching the sun.

MARGARET SPARE
And for that light?

How find or serve or bless Thee?
With what
but with this song?
With what

but with these—

bone-burnings of an age?
Thine all the joy-seizings of the music,
those purchased wings,
groping for the flight of sky.
Chime now—

all months which were of mildness
Chime now—
Soft was the dawn.
Great was the light of day.
And for that light?
So would the heart hold the worst loneliness unto itself and make its fated loss its madrigal.
How might I sing?

How solve the baffling light of God, or Love,
upon the eyes?

Alone is worked and tossed and strapped this day of youth upon the wheel-made moon.

Now, greater than the tempered dust which binds the wound, sing harp and voice and pipe unto the angle of the waking light.
Drive soft, my God, with nails and garlands through that gold of birth which was my sun and my returning hunger—climbing for the earth.

Thou, my undead God,
Know and forgive me
and the burnt angels who sought to veil, with flame-thrown flowers, the midnight lake.

I was shell-born and fire-born
and hacked from the flat rock of silence
That Thou might hear and shift the desert of the world
Into the new-killed grass or deep within the seventh day of You.

Repel the solemn rest—
I was ordained to youth
And to the heart-fired diving of the song.
High was the wall of tall grass and spring flowers...
COUNCILS, CLUBS, HONORARIES
Student Council

As a link between the student body and College Government, Student Council represents the executive and legislative part of the entire Student Government Association. Pledged to uphold the ideals and traditions of Beaver, each elected member assumes her own responsibility for that task and endeavors to encourage others to realize theirs. Believing that the true development of character lies in the ability to govern oneself, the Council strives toward the proper government of the association and the growth of Beaver College.
Within the composite of responsibilities that live side by side with democratic self-government dwells the right to vote. The many tasks resulting from this right, such as, preparing the slate, tabulating votes, and encouraging the students to participate in this connection are Nominating Council's responsibilities. This plus the additional occupation of regulating the activity point system constitutes the work program which the Council energetically undertakes to accomplish.
Judicial Board

Experimentation in the realm of the ineffable virtue, justice, found solid footing in the nature and character of Beaver’s principles. Thus a regulated system of just dealing with cases involving breaches of honor appeared in the spring of ’55. Today it exists in the form of Judicial Board, a group dedicated to the concepts of Beaver’s integrity in self-government and retributive justice.

LOIS ROEMMELE
Chairman
In retrospect the memory of college often appears in the images of dormitory life. The complexities of communal living—the many friendships as well as antipathies, the extensive and comprehensive rules, the long hours of smoker sessions and room conferences, the roommates, suitemates, housemothers—all remembrances of the youthful pleasures and pains recall the days at Beaver. In the picture emerges the governing symbol of that time, the axis of the revolving experiences, Dormitory Council.
Honor Council

A prevailing system that regulates the life at Beaver is defined in the Honor Code. High standards of social and moral conduct are the characteristics to be desired as well as honor in academic lines. Honor Council serves to impress these ideals upon the student body, to educate all in the specific points implementing the system, and to inspire each girl to consider honor an essential part of successful living.
Forum

As an additional aid in the education of the student body stands the Forum of Arts and Science. In the coordination of the activities program, the Forum strives to present stimulating and diversified programs to entertain as well as inform. The frequent assemblies present a challenge to the organization that is met with serious concern and genuine efforts to appeal to the various preferences of a critical audience.
Y.W.C.A.

"Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity." As the light is passed until each holds a radiant candle, young women bind themselves into an example of belief, often challenged, often remolded, but strongly surviving.

Freshman Advisor
Day Student Organization

An essential part of the entirety of the College, the non-resident students consider their separation in the light of their organization. The breach closes rapidly as they demonstrate interest in unity and co-operative participation in college affairs. Ideas related to the advancement of Beaver College spring forth from the genuine feeling of belonging that is propagated by the day students’ association.

Beaver Log

"Do you recall when...?" And here you hold the proof—or perhaps the inspiration—of these exclamations. A word, a phrase, a simple picture are keys to jumbled closets of memories ready to provoke a sigh, a gasp, or gales of laughter.

So learned the pulse of honeysuckle and willow-world...
So learned the pulse of honeysuckle and willow-world
and all the hills—that flood of landscape bright with rain
So laughed—
So handled shell and shell-water, roaming into the wreck of foam and sudden splashing shallowness of tide.
By many bells' proud ringing to the air and all the lark-lush din of time and sun and motion
So knew the wordless prayer of wonder
So found the sacred heresy of song.
Soph Hop

Ghosts and goblins in the “Sixty Shuffle” started the social season with the eerie music of Ron Gruber as Charles Addams prevailed in theme. Gremlins from Lehigh, Penn, and Drexel, refreshed by cider, candies, and cookies, danced till the witching hour, spelling success for the Sophomores.
Song Contest
Excitement and suspense rise with the flags—Freshman, Junior, Sophomore, Senior—as classes vie for honors. The dining room vibrates in a sea of blazers, blue blouses, grey crew-necks and bobbing green dinks, promising little consumption of turkey and trimmings. Marching begins. The sudden panic turns to confidence as all eyes fix on leaders—Ginna and Donna “Dynamite” to victory—Bobbi and Ellen throw away “The Freshman Class Blues” to win second place—Juniors “jump” with Janice and Carol as Ann, Joan, and the stately seniors bid farewell. Dinks fly, wildly tipped for the last time in an endless rush of green and white—upper and lower classes releasing pent-up spirit to cheers and shouts—chapel bells—parties—the jazz concert and the few singing far into the morning culminate a successful Song Contest 1957.
Fall Production

Lights dim, the curtain shudders and opens . . . the magic begins with the provocative fall production of Maeterlinck’s Sister Beatrice . . . the apt direction of Miss Elder . . . the sensitive acting of Yvonne and Lois, expertly backed by Jessie and Janice . . . the poetic choral speeches . . . the ballet of lights and the symbolic, romantic setting . . . resulting in a consistently good production.
Spring Production

"The Skin of Our Teeth," a comic play involving the ice age, the Atlantic City boardwalk, dinosaurs, mammoths and students presented the material for a delightfully entertaining Spring Production. Able assistance from Sara and Lynne... a cast assembled from the classroom to the maintenance office... weeks of rehearsals resulted in grand climax for Beaver's theatrical season.
Play Contest

Spirits rode high as student directed plays climaxed weeks of preparation. Backstage whispers and apprehensions filled the air. Forgotten lines—the girls holding the curtain that failed to close—the measles and sudden cast changes—the photographer loose in the make-up—Chris's last encouraging words before, "ring up." The excited freshmen and The Will, the timely Fall of the City of the sophomores, the comic Dear Departed with the juniors and Rouge Atomique winning bows for the seniors and Carole and Jessie with the announcement breaking hushed expectancy after the judge’s case history of a successful Play Contest.
Junior Prom

Sweethearts, sandals, and snow composed the unique L'Aventure de Coeur. Stranded cars and marooned couples—a rescue by the yellow bus—and a bewildered Stan Rubin and Buddy Morrow. Cinderellas suffered flying formals in the blizzard night. Hearty congratulations were given at the receiving line to all survivors. Finally, the magic Promenade and the stately tumble on the stair, a Bal d'Amour concluded by the coronation of Queen Rosaleen. The last dance and the sleigh-ride with the beau in tux before curfew—the end of '59's most memorable Junior Prom.
May Queen

JOYCE EDWARDS
May Day

And finally Spring . . . magnolia blossoms, daffodils and diamonds officially ushered in by the May Day pageant and picnic. Castle towers reaching above light green tapestries . . . endless yellows, pinks, and blues scattered in the scene . . . the stately Laurel and Honor Chains . . . Queen Joyce upon her throne with her radiant ladies-in-waiting . . . dancers and jesters who gayly “Trip on a Note” . . . and the evening dance, flowing white dresses, passing in the night.

Acknowledgment

As evidence of an effort at creativity, resulting in uniqueness, the Beaver LOG presents itself to the College. The special emphasis on the qualities of imagination and originality demanded the employment of many inspired and helpful people. To those individuals—

Mr. Benton Spruance, Adviser to the Yearbook
Dr. Doris Fenton, Literary Adviser to the Yearbook
Mr. Thomas Barlow, Financial Adviser to the Yearbook
Mr. Nicholas Ickes of Ickes Annuals
Mr. Milton Techner of Zamsky Studios
Miss Frances Lewis, Director of Public Relations
The Department of Fine Arts and to the entire Yearbook staff—the Editor gives proud recognition.
