

The Journal of International Relations, Peace Studies, and Development

---

Volume 6
Issue 2 *The Journal of International Relations,
Peace Studies, and Development*

Article 1

---

2021

The Journal of International Relations, Peace and Development Studies 6th Edition, Issue 2 Introduction

The AGS Conference Team

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.arcadia.edu/agsjournal>

Part of the International and Area Studies Commons, and the International Relations Commons

---

Recommended Citation

The AGS Conference Team (2021) "The Journal of International Relations, Peace and Development Studies 6th Edition, Issue 2 Introduction," The Journal of International Relations, Peace Studies, and Development: Vol. 6 : Iss. 2 , Article 1.

Available at: <https://scholarworks.arcadia.edu/agsjournal/vol6/iss2/1>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by ScholarWorks@Arcadia. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Journal of International Relations, Peace Studies, and Development by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@Arcadia. For more information, please contact hessa@arcadia.edu, correllm@arcadia.edu.

The Journal of International Relations, Peace and Development Studies
6th Edition, Issue 2 Introduction

The AGS Conference Team

This second issue of the journal is special publication to exhibit the works that were present at the 2021 AGS International Graduate Student Conference, on April 30th, which discussed the various causes, consequences and solutions of statelessness.

Theme and objectives

A stateless person, according to Article 1 of the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons “is not considered a citizen by any state under its laws.” Most of us around the globe may take for granted our “jus soli” (right of soil,) but there are over 10 million stateless people around the world who have no guarantee of rights, liberties or belonging. Moreover, their children will likely inherit the same condition of living without legal identity and access to everyday socioeconomic basics further perpetuating a vicious cycle which will inevitably lead to a global crisis.

Statelessness, “a profound violation of an individual’s human rights,” can occur for several reasons including discrimination against a particular ethnic or religious group, on the basis of gender, due to the emergence of new States, as a result of territory-transfers between existing States, gaps in nationality laws. Whatever the cause may be, statelessness has serious consequences for people affected by it in almost every region of the world.

Earl Warren, late US Supreme Court Justice called Statelessness “a form of punishment more primitive than torture.” Created in a moment in history, statelessness can affect generations to follow if action is not taken for these disenfranchised people. Statelessness, however, can also be resolved in a single moment.

The #IBelong Campaign of the UNHCR seeks to end statelessness by 2024 although solutions to this daunting issue of marginalization and invisibility remain complex and far from fulfilment. The painful politics of “non-belonging” continues.

In an attempt to discuss the various causes, consequences and solutions of statelessness, the one-day conference brought together inquisitive minds - graduate, postgraduate, senior undergraduate students, practitioners (from NGOs, government agencies and IGOs) and concerned citizens of the world to brainstorm the issue from multiple angles - political, economic, social, cultural, legal and philosophical.

The virtual conference is available for viewing via the following link below.

YOUTUBE-15th AGS International Graduate Student Conference:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cBkBeMxELwg&t=10653s>