BEAVER COLLEGE

JENKINTOWN PENNSYLVANIA
MISS MARJORIE DARLING

To introduce our yearbook,
WE SHALL ALWAYS REMEMBER...

From our very first day at Beaver, we've noticed Miss Darling's willingness to donate all her time and effort to the student body as a whole and to each student as an individual. We remember vividly how we first climbed the hill to Beaver College, entered the school, and looked with fearful amazement at the seemingly incomprehensible intricacies of rooms and offices. Miss Darling's perpetual warm smile, her firm handshake, and her friendly voice made us forget our awe and trembling.

Her remarkable ability for remembering first names is the first thing we noticed. As Registrar of the College she thoughtfully took it upon herself to learn to call us by name, to know each one of us, and most important of all, to make us feel immediately at home. We did not know then that Miss Darling was as new to Beaver as we. Later we found out that she had come to Beaver in the same year we had. She stepped into the position of Registrar with a sureness and capability that are worthy of immeasurable credit. It is this point, her newness and at the same time her ability to make a student's first contact with Beaver so pleasurable, that makes us look with deep appreciation at Miss Darling.

Because of her unselfish devotion to Beaver, her primary concern with the college, she has donated evenings, Saturdays, and Sundays to work. Miss Darling has spread the name of Beaver with her speeches at various high schools, sometimes covering as many as three in one day.

As for her personal likes, we know that she is fond of music, of plays, of rising early to hear the morning sounds of birds. Hers is a personality that is keenly sensitive to beauty in nature, thought, and other people. Her friendship is warm and sincere.

As we have gained the position of senior, Miss Darling has risen with us. She now holds the position of Director of Admissions. We hope that she will accept our thanks, our tribute to her, and our earnest wish for her continued stay at Beaver.

our wonderful faculty,
Mr. John Hathaway, Mrs. Elsie McGarvey, Mr. Frederick Geasland, Miss Jean Francksen, Mr. Benton Spruance.

MUSIC: Episodes of sharps and flats, analysis and composition courses, music majors' senior recitals ... fill in practice periods for voice, piano, and organ ... orchestral arrangements drifting up from Huntingdon 10, where Mr. Bless and the ensemble rehearse ... Miss Snyder's wonderful second piano accompaniments ... Dr. Curry to his organ students, "If it sounds wrong, it's right ..."

FINE ARTS: Creative ideas and self-expression combined with paint, brush, and canvas ... wearing blue jeans and working furiously ... friendly, informal atmosphere, plus helpful instructors contribute to satisfaction in the course... frequent phrases issuing from Brookside — "Who took my stool?" "Model, take a rest," "Did you finish your composition?" ... enjoyable course.

Miss Elizabeth Snyder, Mr. W. Lawrence Curry, Miss Evelyn Tyson, Mr. William Bless.
MODERN LANGUAGES AND LITERATURES: Français, Español, Italiano, and Deutsch . . . Molière, Cervantes, Petrarch, and Goethe . . . an insight into world literature, history, and custom . . . reading, writing, and speaking the language of a foreign land . . . valuable aid to all students sojourning in Europe during the summer and to all students with a desire to know and understand world affairs.

CLASSICAL LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE: All literature has its foundations in Greek, all languages are derived from Latin . . . "Take sixty lines tonight, girls" . . . wonderful small classes in original language courses, large ones for Greek and Latin literature in translation . . . those immense exams! . . . classics applied to modern life.

SOCIOLOGY: History and development of groups and races in our country and elsewhere . . . problems of relations among them . . . problems of adjustment in cases of the aged, unemployed, and sick . . . an analysis and history of the family . . . field trips, group and case work . . . going to social agencies . . . all under the guidance of our hard-working, thorough Miss Dillon.
HISTORY AND GOVERNMENT: Seventy-five pages of outside reading a week... Dr. Clarke’s formula for remembering facts, "Tie it up in a bundle"... Dean Higgins’ favorite exam questions starting with "Trace" and "Identity"... "Moldy" and "motley," two of Mr. Hoffman's special adjectives... comparative governments, theories of political science, specific aspects of American government... genially discussed by Mr. Rothwell.

EDUCATION: Student teaching—naturally... early childhood majors reading books in the Kindergarten room... Miss Shields’ phrase, "Quite nice"... papier-mache animals, units of work, projects... Miss Gilliotte’s shell jewelry... piano tests... secondary student teachers taking special methods... making duplicate lesson plans... being observed by Dr. Dugan... problems and principles course... "What was the major problem you encountered in your student teaching?"... countless application blanks to fill out... we came up smiling, though.

term papers, or homework,...
CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS: Hours and hours of labs . . . those practical exams . . . a maze of test tubes and formulas . . . Mrs. Bassett's "unify, systematize, and classify that knowledge" . . . new vocabulary for unsuspecting freshmen . . . scientific learning gleaned from technical books and practical experiments.

"accent on the ante-penult" . . . sure to make or break nature lovers.

who are more than willing
HOME ECONOMICS: The house . . . "Who is cook first?" . . . "May we have company?" . . . Miss Bull's "Now let's see, was it 1936 or '37—maybe it was 1938" . . . "Never, they say, name the authority" . . . our own dress forms and those yards of brown gummed paper . . . fashion shows . . . meal-planning classes that ran over into chapel . . . a good course that is very practical.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION: Miss Everett, watching those strokes while you're paddling across the pool . . . Mrs. Baier, checking on coordination in Modern Dance . . . Mrs. Conklin, watching the swing of the whole arm in tennis . . . Mrs. Mackinnon, giving lecture courses in physiology and methods . . . aim of department—versatile, well-rounded graduates rating high in bodily health and character growth.

to give extra help, . . .
RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AND PHILOSOPHY: First familiarity, then knowledge of Old and New Testaments... rich, full understanding of the role of religion in our lives... Dr. Scott’s familiar, “You see what I mean”... Miss Crawford’s opening query, “Any observations?”... friendly, interesting courses.

Detailed study of ethics and logic... learning why customs are what they are... term papers on controversial subjects... defining every term used... Dr. Dapp’s misleading, “What is a point?”... emphasis on clear thinking.

COMMERCE AND ECONOMICS: Peppy, progressive department... majors go on field trips galore... get outside training in offices and stores... freeze or suffocate in Montgomery’s classrooms... Mrs. Slotter’s classes in personnel and retailing... Mr. Wallace, sporting flashy argyles as he sits on the desk... his inspection of the girls’ knitting... Miss Giangulio’s cartoons illustrating the perfect stenog... the letterhead on the department’s stationery.
PSYCHOLOGY: Intelligence tests, color wheels, block tests... pages and pages of syllabus... those fifty true and false questions—and us trying to interpret them... "scratch on door, think Sammy"... new words for our vocabulary—retrospective falsification, disorientation, leptosome, and pyknic types... Mr. Fisher's, "This would create a definite problem"... Dr. Buzby's, "Now that you're sophisticated ladies and have had beginning psych..."

MATHEMATICS: Graphs, problems, and slide rules... Miss Vansant's, "... and now we have that particular set up..." calculus, integral and differential... triangles, cones, and spheres... oh, how confused we get with trig and graphing slopes!... trigometric functions and rules of exponents... all fun to work with and solve.

Miss Helen E. Vansant.

DIRECTORS OF RESIDENCE: Signing in, signing out, quiet hour, permissions . . . patient house mothers helping us straighten out the rights and wrongs when we first come to Beaver . . . they still patiently remind us when we forget . . . that familiar phrase, "Don't forget to get your vacation cards in today, girls" . . . their cheerie good morn-inas and kindness—during exams especially.

Familiar faces around Beaver,
LIBRARY: Stacks of books and students searching for some not there ... quiet reading, frantic writing ... students of every field, every interest seeking information ... books taken out and returned under careful supervision ... everything properly classified and easily available ... also serves as a place to study ... about the only quiet place on the campus.

BOOK STORE: White-haired, unruffled Miss Benedict ... capably handling crowds of students in their rush to get supplies ... bookstore jam the first day of classes ... familiar question, "Miss Benedict, has my book come yet?"

POST OFFICE: One-cent stamps, checks, personal accounts ... getting letters in the right boxes and packages to the right people ... our unfailing cry, "Is the mail out yet?" ... Mr. Schwartz with at least ten people around him.

extremely helpful and cooperative ...
Dieticians: Count those calories, vitamins, proteins, and the rest... aim — well-balanced, nutritious meals... keep the students healthy for rigorous study hours and active play hours... no easy job to plan meals for hundreds of hungry females.

Infirmary: Dr. John C. Burns... nurses... sore throat, sprained ankle, or toothache? — infirmary is the place to go... green chewing gum, white and yellow pills, beds, bandages, helpful treatment galore... all there and ready for an ailing student.

Who add immeasurably...
MAINTENANCE

to our college life...

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Elsie Bowmar, president

Efficient link between the students and college government ... formulates policies of campus life to be approved by both ... council through which any student can make her requests known ... problems of college life thoroughly discussed and satisfactorily solved ... figures in money-raising drives for worthwhile causes ... the entire student body democratically represented.

Numerous extra-curricular activities
S.G.A. meetings once a month . . . the seniors' chance to wear their caps and gowns . . . proposed motions being defended . . . then, "Speaker against the motion, please" . . . letters read from our adopted Polish boy . . . voting on constitutional changes . . . reports on matters taken before college government . . . "I move the previous question—" . . . parliamentary procedure at its best.

managed to keep us busy . . .
High purpose in this group . . . promote the highest ideals of the honor system, encourage honor in all phases of college life . . . high position, too . . . governing body for the execution of the Honor System . . . vital council in shaping character.

HONOR COUNCIL . . . STUDENT COUNSELLORS

Comparatively new addition to our organizations, but already significant . . . aim — to help bewildered freshmen and transfer students to feel at home in Beaver . . . also, to become active in social programs while gaining academic rewards . . . adjustment by the new student easily achieved through help of the Student Counsellors.
An absolute necessity ... keeps the dormitories quiet, attractive ... sees that law and order in both activity and appearance are carried out ... tries those who violate rules of the dormitory ... assumes officially the responsibility of preserving the peace and neatness accompanying dormitory life.

DORMITORY COUNCIL . . . NOMINATING COUNCIL

A hard-working body that has chief jurisdiction over all student election proceedings ... first, selects or rejects nominees after much consideration ... next, prepares ballots ... counts ballots ... and tells the waiting students who won.

as well as certain privileges ...
Sees that students do not exceed a limited number of points in extra-curricular activities... checking on points leaves the field of activities open to all... a good and worth-while plan.

POINT COMMITTEE...SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Freshman Orientation, socials, teas, informal refreshments... exam teas twice a year... welcome-back teas for returning students... week-end activities... working with other organizations... AND... the Permanent Ushering Group, as a branch, to serve at any event... social graces certainly well handled.

all of which made our days
Organized to make the day students an integral part of college life... furthered interest by presenting guest speakers at some meetings... in December sponsors one of the most popular dances of the year... holds meetings monthly in the Day Students' Room... shows promise of becoming more and more successful as an active organization.

DAY STUDENTS COUNCIL... UNITED WORLD FEDERALISTS

New organization on campus springing from a desire to promote an effective world government... started by a few serious-minded students with a concern for the betterment of existing world conditions... shows promise of becoming increasingly active and important... meetings, discussions, speakers, and national affiliation... indicative of Beaver's expansion of interest beyond the campus.

more varied and more memorable...
Honorary fraternity in philosophy... informal monthly meetings... discussions and reports on philosophers ranging from Aristotle to Sartre... aim—to develop clear thought and understanding and a sincere interest in philosophy... concerned with the best that has been thought and said in the world.

Senior honorary society... membership achieved according to very high academic standing... generally a small group, restricted to those of outstanding scholarship... ability and general qualities of character also considered... pin of a flaming torch proudly worn by members.
Honorary national journalism fraternity . . . general purpose to promote higher quality of journalistic writing in subject matter and in adherence to accuracy . . . journalistic ethics strongly stressed . . . specific aim—bigger and better Beaver publications.

Honorary society for psychology majors and minors who meet the requirements . . . worked for new equipment this year by giving a fashion show . . . sponsored a field trip to the Penn Clinic . . . showed films to psychology students . . . remember—the "funny man" at the initiation dinner?, the delay of the arrival of the keys?, those five o'clock meetings?

PSI CHI
National honor society in education . . . informal discussions of teaching methods and current trends of education . . . just organized this past year at Beaver with the hope of furthering a keen interest in education among all students . . . open only to those of high standing in the field . . . valuable to future teachers and future mothers who will have to decide which type of school Junior will attend.

Organized this year . . . speakers from the social work field telling of the needs of the community and the action taken by various groups . . . furthering better group relationships among the students at Beaver . . . intended project—start a library where pertinent information concerning sociological topics can be easily made available to those interested.

THEATRICAL

Dramatic group putting on wonderful productions... chance for all students to get on the stage and act... also, a place for those who like to design sets, handle stage properties, create costumes... all the work needed to put on a play capably done by the group... favorite location is the Little Theatre, where there is nearly always a rehearsal going on... staged a one act fantasy in December called “The Princess Comes of Age”... spring and fall productions are annual affairs... plays also presented at holidays.

Mary Redmile, director of Junior Class play.
GROUPS

"The Land of Heart's Desire"—winning class play.

"The Princess Comes of Age"—in rehearsal.

RADIO WORKSHOP

For anyone interested in drama and broadcasting ..., original programs directed and produced by students over W.I.B.G. ..., excitement of standing before the mike ..., remember those rush rehearsals? ..., watching for the announcer's signal ..., thrill of producing a successful performance ..., a new organization with much promise.

shared with outside audiences ...
Record-breaking membership this year... Dr. Curry’s famous line, "That sounds terrible, kids. What’d you have for dinner tonight?"—the deafening response, “Fish!”... in spite of the fish and other obstacles, however, the notes were finally learned... and it was worth it, wasn’t it girls?... concerts with Franklin and Marshall and Lafayette... the time the Lehigh men made a day of it with a football game, dinner, and dance.

The wonderful tradition of "Beaver Night," started last year... Town Hall, one hundred and twenty beautifully-arrayed but nervous girls, and a terrific, confidence-inspiring conductor... everyone agreed that it was a huge success, and not one Glee Club member regretted the many hours spent addressing hundreds—nay, thousands—of letters to patrons... the biggest and most active musical organization on campus, and the one with the most fun and good times packed into it.

Musical groups whose performances
CHOIR . . . ENSEMBLE

Hymnals and "angel robes" . . . Monday rehearsals . . . the scramble to pair off when we line up . . . dim lights, poinsettias—the Christmas service in Murphy Chapel . . . eyes on Fran for the signal to rise . . . "If you must breathe, don't all breathe at once" . . . Palm Sunday and another program of choir music . . . the delicious choir dinner in the faculty dining room.

Three violins, a flute, a piano . . . sometimes, the added harmony of a viola and two 'cellos . . . music sheets . . . strains of Haydn quartets, Beethoven trios, Mozart sonatas . . . and Mr. Bless's latest numbers not even off the press as yet . . . aims at furthering whatever hidden talent in the field of music lurks within a Beaver student.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Organized athletic activities on campus . . . keeps track of varsity and intramural sports . . . handles financial goings-on for athletics . . . partially financed by annual A.A. Show . . . governs and supports the varsity teams . . . induces both frail and ruddy-cheeked students to try their hand at sports.

MANAGERIAL BOARD

Works in cooperation with the Athletic Association . . . composed of managers of all intramural and varsity sports and publicity chairman of the Association . . . headed by a general manager . . . endeavors to create interest in beneficial sports activities . . . helps to instill in students the idea that better living is achieved through activity.

Beaver students as athletes
LACROSSE . . . BASEBALL

Class of '49, as sophs, started this varsity sport . . . Betty Nawrath—streaking in to cage one . . . the stick checks used by Bryn Mawr . . . Blink Woodworth dashing out "cradling" the ball . . . the aching shins and fingers . . . Lorry's legs going like pistons . . . the many lumps and bruises . . . Bolus' red face . . . Mrs. C's stamina and patience.

"Take me out to the ball game" . . . Steenson throwing those curves (pitches, that is!) . . . the sluggers from Ursinus . . . Chots putting them where they aren't . . . on television— who's rear view was that? . . . the slaughter are certainly to be commended . . .

FROM BASE TO BASE . . .

at Penn . . . running for first base . . . the Temple players . . . that umpire at Swarthmore! . . . Mrs. Mac and her signals . . . such laughter! . . . and harmony?? . . . that's softball!?
HOCKEY

WHO COULD FORGET?

Third floor Beaver at hockey camp ... that alumnae game "ouch!" ... Mawrath's quadruple tally at Bryn Mawr ... the "victory" over Penn ... the slump at Swarthmore ... the greyhounds from Ursinus ... the football game with Temple ... Chots finesse ... Steenson scoring that beauty ... Blink——just plain playing hockey ... Mrs. C and her fine coaching ... such a wonderful gang!

Mrs. Baier's grace and our wondering why we can't be like her . . . exercises, fast and hard . . . dance steps, old and new . . . tom-tom keeping time throughout . . . results—graceful artists of the dance.

ANNIE OAKLEY'S

GOLF ... SWIMMING

ON THE GREEN
Smallest varsity at Beaver . . . this season out to regain their championship . . . Jane, teeing off with a long, lofty drive . . . Betty, invariably scoring at least a "birdie" . . . Dotty, coming out of the rough with a beautiful slice . . . Sue, the Philadelphia junior champ of a few years back, making pretty shots from difficult angles . . . Miss Everett, waiting to see a hole-in-one.

SPASH!!!
Bev Peterson rips off the yardage in the freestyle . . . a reasonable facsimile of a whirlpool and Dink wins again . . . Bertolet wins the backstroke, per usual, oh, that turn! . . . those beautiful dives by lil' Rae Guerber . . . Miss Everett's loss of finger nails over the line-up . . . the dates after practice.

participants and spectators...
Worthy of our terrific big sister class, we think ... started off with that hilarious Freshman Hallowe’en Party that displayed our talents ... followed up with receiving honorable mention the night of Song Contest ... sponsored something new at Beaver in the spring—the Cotton Ball, an informal dance where cotton dresses reigned ... back again as sophomores ... kept class spirit at an all time high, which culminated in a most successful Soph Hop in April ... managed to get our class represented in all phases of college life—musical, theatrical, and athletic ... looking back on two enjoyable years at Beaver, looking forward to two more just as enjoyable.

We won't forget our little sisters ...

Those sophomores and their original idea for a dance... an underwater theme, of all things... on April 9th, here on campus... an octopus in the center of the dance floor... masses of sea weed scattered around the edge of the floor... innumerable shells of all sizes and shapes brought from every beach within a radius of one hundred miles... and that program in the shape of a shell... chaperones—Mr. Fisher, Dr. and Mrs. Sturgeon, and Miss Crawford for the obvious reason... tactfully spared us the display of fish, but complete in every other detail... one Soph Hop we'll never forget.

SOPH HOP
Arrived in 1946 as two hundred freshmen—but not so green! ... provided much fun at our first public appearance, the Freshman Hallowe'en Party ... claimed honorable mention in Song Contest that year ... added our own style of glamor to the Freshman Blind Date dance ... as sophomores captured interclass hockey honors ... conducted a most spectacular Soph Hop ... organized Tradition, our class "pet," though for the whole school ... at last, proud juniors! ... another honorable mention award in Song Contest ... also the cup for the most original song ... sponsored an auction sale and "Sweetheart of Beaver" contest for the benefit of W. S. S. F. ... responsible for that terrific Junior Prom week-end ... Gay Nineties theme with rollicking floor show Friday night ... Jack Leonard Saturday afternoon ... Sam Donahue and his orchestra Saturday night at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel ... that long-awaited day—Ring Breakfast! ... seeing the whole class at breakfast, for a change ... the thrill when our rings were put on ... three happy, successful years at Beaver completed.

JUNIOR ACTIVITIES

Tradition leaders.

Junior Prom Co-chairmen.
An entire weekend planned by the juniors... heavenly pale green, blue, and pink decorations on Friday night, February 11... music by The Glen Dale Sextet and a floor-show performed by Beaver College Co-eds... Jack Leonard's dreamy renditions on Saturday afternoon... at night, the formal dance at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia... Sam Donahue's music to dance to and dream to... highlight of the evening—the choosing of Prom Queen... the juniors promenading and the thoughtful expressions on the faces of the judges... four chosen, and then someone spotting that girl in green velvet... Natalie Brooks walking off with the prize... sleepy farewells at one a.m.
Arrived last September more than two hundred strong ... been here only a year but already indispensible to Beaver ... tipped hats, wore pigtails, carried baskets, made beds, and smiled through it all ... recovered to introduce ourselves at a wonderful Hallowe’en Party ... quickly learned what Tradition, Song Contest, and Play Contest mean ... the “babes of Beaver C,” but we’re growing up fast.

and we’ll miss the freshmen ...

1949 May Queen
POLLY CADWALLADER SMITH

Attendants: Charlotte Freihofer, Emily Heizer, Margaret Callaway, Annette Schaffer.
Small May Day this year, but terrific . . . began with traditional Junior-Senior Ring breakfast . . . Babes in Toyland theme reminiscent of Friday night’s Key and Cue show . . . spectacular procession of Laurel Chain and Honor Court . . . our lovely queen and her court . . . Victor Herbert’s familiar tunes sung by the Glee Club . . . true spirit of May in May Pole dances . . . fascinating Modern Dance group . . . original and appropriate sets illustrating children’s fantasies . . . at night, the formal dance in honor of the May Queen . . . again, imaginative decorations indicating a dream world . . . sweet music to match the prevailing mood . . . the end of a wonderful May Day we’ll always remember.

The queen and her court in an informal pose.
The first formal dance of the school year... intriguingly titled "The Cotillion"... Southern hospitality throughout... complete with mint-julep punch... models dressed in Civil War costumes... here and there, iron benches and tables reminiscent of those seen on the rolling acres of any Alabama plantation... hanging lanterns and Spanish moss... amazing to see our own Murphy Gym so completely transformed... music enchantingly provided by the Harmony Kings... danced on and on until twelve o'clock... didn't even notice the freezing December weather outside... were completely carried away by decorations and atmosphere into the warm, lazy days and genial hospitality of the Old South.

We Would Like to Thank...

Mr. Benton Spruance, our faculty advisor, who encouraged us so much in our undertaking and who kindly posed the Mirror and faculty pictures.

Miss Doris Fenton, our literary advisor, who waited patiently to proof read copy and who offered so many helpful suggestions.

Mr. Thomas Barlow for his invaluable aid with glossies, cuts, and records from the business office.

Mr. John Ursprung, Jr., of Campus Publishing Company, for his very helpful advice and his patient understanding.

Mr. Harry Baliban and Mr. N. Francis Rubin of Sarony Studios who were more than obliging and considerate in working with us.

A personal thank you from the editor to the cooperative and indispensible members of her staff, who rescued her more than once from the depths and made possible the publication of this LOG.

The staff wishes to extend a special thank you to the business concerns whose advertising helped make this yearbook possible and a request to the reader not to shut our book until he has read to the very last page of the ads.
CONGRATULATIONS
TO THE CLASS OF 1949
