Presented by the Class of
Four years of close association have endeared to us Ruth M. Howells Zurbuchen, Residence Director of Beaver Hall. So it is a joy for the Class of 1958 to dedicate this volume of the Beaver Log to one whose kindly and understanding nature has guided us through our college career. Her first cheery greeting when we entered as freshmen, followed by her willingness to help with our problems and join in our pleasures has left us with many happy memories.
Morning—through the clear new sunshine of another day, students gather to their classrooms, eager for fresh knowledge and broadened horizons, grateful for the inspiring contacts and thoughtful guidance of their faculty.

Afternoon—the warm good fellowship of club meetings, the pooling of individualities working for a common purpose and a common good.

Evening—through the gathering dusk, the gaiety of social functions, music, laughter, and, for the Seniors, the successful closing of their four-year college day.

May the memories gathered here recall through many years the swift and pleasant passing of your days at Beaver.
Alma Mater

Alma Mater dear,
The years have o'er thee swept,
But stainless still through time and tide
Thy splendor thou hast kept.
So hail to Beaver; hail, we say!
Fling high the scarlet and the grey.
And we shall keep irradiant with truth
Thine everlasting youth.

Mother tried and true,
We pledge our life to thee;
We pledge thee all our fullest faith
In loving service free.
So hail to Beaver; hail, we say!
Fling high the scarlet and the grey.
To the finest in the land
We lay down our heart and hand.

Words by Dr. Lynn H. Harris

IN MEMORIAM

BEAVER COLLEGE was founded as a seminary in 1850 and chartered as a college in 1872. In its earliest years it was located just north of Pittsburgh, but in 1925 it was moved to Jenkintown, Pennsylvania. By 1928 the college had grown so large that it needed an enlarged campus and an estate two miles away was obtained, to be known in the future as Grey Towers.

The Beaver Female Seminary was founded to educate female youths in the arts, sciences, and useful literature, under the auspices and patronage of the Pittsburgh Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States.
After moving to Jenkintown, according to the amended charter, Beaver became a college for the education of women in all branches of learning usually taught in the seminaries, colleges, and universities of the United States, and also in such other of the fine arts as may be authorized by the Board of Trustees.

Beaver College is now affiliated with the Presbyterian Church and reports annually to the Synod of Pennsylvania. Under the charter, two-thirds of the members of the Board of Trustees must be members of the Presbyterian Church; the faculty must be connected with an evangelical Christian church.

The college campus is being developed constantly. Just this year two wings were added to Montgomery Hall so that it now contains the Commercial Department in addition to dormitories and the infirmary.
Oh, Lord, the Master of us all
Whate’er our name or sign.
We feel Thy presence every day;
We mold our ways to Thine.
Thy love, a never-ebbing sea.
Flows over us.
We give ourselves as gifts to Thee;
Oh, Lord, in Thee we trust.
Our God, our Father, and our Lord,
How may we worship Thee?
Not with ritual or with sword
But simply following Thee.
The source of wisdom, truth, and grace
Help us to find.
We serve the best when loving most
Our Master and mankind.

Walter B. Greenway, D.D., LL.D., has been president of Beaver College since 1928. Through Dr. Greenway's kindness many students who otherwise could not have done so have been enabled to attend college. He has helped to raise the standards of the College and has put it on a safe financial basis. Dr. Greenway is a graduate of Washington College and of Princeton Theological Seminary, and has received honorary degrees from Washington College and Muskingum College.
Ruth L. Higgins, Ph.D., has served as Dean of Beaver College for four years, and of the Beaver College Summer School for three years. There is evidence of Dean Higgins' influence in our improved curricula and the enthusiastic support which she has given to all our projects. She is a graduate of Ohio State University and received her degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the same institution.

Dean of College

Carmen Rogers, Ph.D., has been Dean of Students for only one year but her understanding attitude has endeared her to us already. Her office supervises off-campus excursions as well as many of the social events of the year. Dean Rogers is a graduate of Meredith College and received her degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Cornell University.

OVER two hundred freshmen surged into the halls of Beaver College on September 20, an unrelated group, to be known to posterity as the Class of '41.

Observing the "wearing of the green," they tipped dinks and opened doors, sang laundry lists to the tune of Home, Sweet Home and obligingly trucked at ungodly hours, all for the benefit of their worthy upperclassmen.

At the Founders’ Day Program on September 27, they learned much of the history and traditions of Beaver, and acquired an early admiration for Dr. Greenway because of his inspiring address.

As a gesture of friendliness the staff of the Beaver News dedicated the first issue to the Class of '41. The paper was filled with welcome and helpful tips.

Under the leadership of Sally Smith, '38, freshman adviser, the class organized on October 6, at the first class meeting, and elected Josephine Querns chairman of the Freshman Play, and Georgie Magargal chairman of the Freshman Hallowe’en Party to be given for the upperclassmen. Because of the eager cooperation of several excellent committees, both of these affairs were enjoyed by all who participated and were a credit to the class. Ethel Gaynor, '41, further added to its fame by winning honorable mention for her outstanding acting in the Freshman Play, One of Those Days.

The first Beaver Review appeared with the announcement that Georgie Magargal, freshman, had won the magazine’s literary contest and had been awarded a position as a result.

Just before the Thanksgiving Recess, the class sacrificed their dinks with mingled emotions of joy and sorrow, never to be truly green again.

To the surprise of the entire group, midyear examinations passed with no major casualties, and they found themselves deep in rehearsals for the annual Song Contest, which venture was enthusiastically received by other classes. May Day came—the year had slipped by with uncanny rapidity—and several of the freshmen had distinguished themselves academically.

The Class of '41, now thoroughly organized and no longer to be addressed with the scornful word, "Freshmen," finishes its first year with hopes to spend three others as well and happily, and its members mean, through worthwhile contributions, to leave Beaver College to those who come after them, even finer and more beautiful than it was given to them.

CLASS OF
ON THE appointed day the Sophomore Class returned to college eager for new adventures and triumphs. After the usual excitement of seeing old cronies and meeting new classmates, the girls settled down to work on both academic and extra-curricular activities. However, their industry did not prevent them from participating in the freshman initiation and they thoroughly enjoyed their newly acquired prestige.

As early as the first week in October, the Sophomore play had been chosen for the Play Contest and not long afterward most of the dramatis personae were selected. The production, A Woman of Judgment, definitely showed that diligence has its own reward. What with vacations and exams, rushing the first semester to a close, there seemed little time for work on the Song Contest, but again the Sophs were found preparing early. There was much going into huddles in music rooms and mysterious humming. The result was an example of what real talent and team-work can do with a united chorus.

The class of '40 seems to be predominantly athletic. We were proud to contribute several members to the Hockey, Basketball, and Riflery Teams, and those training for Physical Education have continuously shone forth as future stars in that field.

Despite the usual difficulties encountered in raising funds in the second college year, the Sophomores tried earnestly to get a good foundation for their Junior Prom and are looking forward to that event next year.

Several very enjoyable picnic outings brought the social year to a close, just when final exams were haunting us. And the Sophomores scattered “Back to Mother and Father, Back to somebody’s bro——.”

NINETEEN FORTY
We are the Junior Class.

Here you see our faces as we sit one moment briefly, out of our varied life. Look closely—you will never see us just this way again! These are our faces, and these are our hearts: one thinks of happy days well-filled with laughter and with love; another thinks of lessons to be done; an athlete, looking backward, thinks of the hush and the roar of a crowd in tense moments of the game; a student worries inwardly about this time thus lost. These and many other thoughts—but most of us merely smile: our picture is being taken.

So we sit for your inspection and we smile—but there is more than this. We give you freely of our happiness, our fine assurance in the midst of a well-loved life among familiar things. Humility we give you, too, and we say: the more you know, the more there is to know. We bring you fall days, bright with blowing leaves, crisp mornings in December, white with snow and frosted window-panes, and fresh, green spring which fills our souls with wanderlust. Days to come we represent, and days now past: class memories, our victory in the play contest, beer jackets, Junior breakfasts, prom, songs and fantasies—long moments spent together in willing work. Our smiles bring bright memories for you alone of classes, friendships, tears, battles hard-won, books, and little nameless joys. The days ride past us with a singing speed: look closely, for they will not come again. Three years of college life look through our faces—and we have paused one moment out of them that you may share this life.

We are the Junior Class.

Student Government

Many years ago the students of Beaver College, believing that the true development of character and responsibility lay in the ability to govern themselves, established a student government association. Every student of the college is a member of the association and invests the eleven Student Council members with legislative, executive, and judicial authority.

The Student Council helps greet the freshmen early in the year. Under the sponsorship of the Council the Hallowee’en party, Pop-In Night, the Dormitory Christmas party, the Easter egg hunt, the weekly teas, the informal dances, and the May Day Fete, are given. The Council is the controlling board for the Dormitory Council.

The Council has as its advisers Dr. Fenton, Mr. Curry, and Mrs. Henry, who have no power to vote at the Council meetings but are present to aid with their suggestions.

This year the Council belongs to two national confederations, the National Student Federation of America and the Women’s Intercollegiate Association of Student Government. This past fall we sent two representatives to the W. I. A. S. G. conference, which was held at West Hampton College of the University of Richmond.

The Student Council has tried particularly hard this year to maintain a high standard of honor and to promote a feeling of unity among the students of Beaver College.

ONE of the most important bodies in the Student Government Association is the Nominating Committee. Its purpose is to insure fair election of candidates for various offices connected with student activity in the college. This committee was organized seven years ago, having as its members those who represent the leading organizations of the college; they include: the Presidents of Student Government, Y. W. C. A., Athletic Association, Honor Council, and the four classes, May Day Chairman, Editor-in-Chief of the Beaver News, Editor-in-Chief of the Beaver College Review, Chairman of the Point Committee, President of Day Student Council, another day student, one member from each class, and the three advisers of the Student Council.

To the best of its ability, the committee, with the help of its advisers, nomintates for office those girls who have the necessary qualifications for leadership. Following this action, the nominees chosen are presented to the members of the student body and voted upon. By this plan the committee finds those girls who are best suited to carry out the duties assigned to them.
The purpose of the Honor Council, which is composed of a president, a day student representative, and two members from each class, is to encourage high ideals of honor in all college activities. It is not organized to expel students or to penalize them severely; instead, its aim is to aid those students who feel some help necessary. Although the honor system is a comparatively young one, it is progressing rapidly. Last year the constitution was revised and this year finds new rules and ideas eager to be tried. The students of the college have developed a personal sense of responsibility for the effectiveness of the honor system.

THE Y. W. C. A. attempts to keep the ideals of Christian living in the minds of the students of Beaver College. Active membership is limited to those who affiliate themselves with the work of the organization, with Dean Higgins and Mrs. Henry as advisers.

The Y. W. C. A. sponsors the Big and Little Sister Movement for the freshmen. At Thanksgiving the Y. W. C. A. helps fill baskets which are given to needy families. Christmas time finds it sponsoring the making of scrapbooks, the dressing of dolls, a Yuletide party for underprivileged children, and the Carol Service.

Throughout the year the Y. W. C. A. interests its members in social welfare work, discussion groups, peace work, religious work, and social activities.
Dormitory Council

The Dormitory Council, a branch of the Student Government Association, takes care of the general conduct of the students on campus. This council strives to create an atmosphere conducive to both work and recreation at Beaver. Enforcing quiet hour as an ideal atmosphere in which to study and stimulating a feeling of pride concerning neatness of the girls' rooms are the chief duties of the council. This organization is composed of the presidents of the dormitories and the Vice-President of Student Government as adviser.
AN IRISH MAY DAY enlivened our campus this year with its colorful costumes, its lilting music, its gay dances, and its fantastic Druid pageantry.

There were the traditional Queen of the May and her two attendants. The queen was accompanied by the Honor Court of juniors and seniors outstanding for their scholarship, character, attitude, cooperation, and service to Beaver College; and the Laurel Chain consisting of freshmen and sophomores chosen for their appearance, scholarship, attitude, cooperation, and character.
The 1958 Beaver Log is now a reality. The staff presents a yearbook of Beaver College, published by the Senior Class. We sincerely hope you will find here many memories of the year which has gone by and that you will derive as much pleasure from this book as the staff has had in preparing it for you.

As usual there are changes, and while the book is not perfect we believe that it is a step forward. We have tried to portray life at Beaver in conjunction with our theme of Morning, Afternoon, and Evening, a day, and yet four years of college. While we have put the Seniors in the last part of the book, this does not mean they are not important, but they are the climax of the evening of four years of Beaver.

Heretofore, only the Heads of Departments have been placed in the yearbook. While we realize their importance, many of us would like to see all our professors in the book. We have tried to portray our Departmental groups. Do you like it?
LOG

The cover has been one of our great surprises. We have returned to the colors of our Alma Mater, for it is a class production for the college. We have given you a linen cover which in its modern simplicity adds a feminine touch to a yearbook of a woman’s college.

And you have certainly noticed our unique camera shots about campus, proving that Life holds few mysteries for us. We have tried to make the Beaver Log as good-looking a year book as possible and an exponent of all the latest tricks known to publishers. We are especially proud of the photomontage which we have introduced on the end sheets. By the way, they are also new.

We wish to thank Dr. Fenton, our adviser, who has aided us in our enthusiastic enterprise. In addition, there are the girls who so kindly assisted us in typing and in selling books.

All we hope is that you are as thrilled with the Beaver Log as we are.

BEAVER NEWS, the student weekly newspaper, has progressed in such a way that it is now a valuable medium for the expression of all college activities.

The News, in its fourth year of publication, is a four page paper of tabloid size. This year's staff endeavored to make the paper more attractive by using a number of pictures, block prints, and cartoons. Every two weeks the News distributed the Collegiate Digest, a rotogravure section, to its readers. The paper also joined the Associated Collegiate Press, and the Intercollegiate Press Association.

Throughout the year the Beaver News printed an accurate account of all campus happenings, sports, class and club news, alumnae and faculty news, theatre reviews, editorials of campus and world affairs, and many interesting feature stories. A number of new “chatter” columns were introduced, several of which gave voice to student opinions. All in all, the Beaver News has become a paper of which the student body may well be proud.
THE BEAVER REVIEW, the quarterly magazine of Beaver College, was instituted in 1931. Since then it has grown through the ministering of devoted hands into something which the college is justified in admiring. This year we made two innovations, a colored cover and prints, which, we feel, have been one more step towards a better magazine. Words are weak as an expression of our appreciation of Dr. Brill whose tact and assistance have never failed us in any difficulties.

The Beaver Review has brought three renowned speakers to the college this year: George Lyman Kittredge, Roy Chapman Andrews, and Philip Guedalla. It has also given prizes as rewards for a literary contest which is held every year within the college. In these ways we have tried to develop the cultural interests of the students of Beaver College and to bring them in contact with some of the greatest minds of this generation.
Handbook

THE HANDBOOK is published annually by the Student Government Association under the supervision of the Faculty Committee on Publications. Beaver's oldest publication, the Handbook is perhaps her most indispensable. It may be converted into a veritable "library of knowledge"; within its covers, clearly and briefly stated, is information about Beaver's traditions, history, and social code. It also explains Beaver's student government policy, point system, and honor system. One of the most important functions of the Handbook is that of guide for new students.

For the year 1937-1938, Roberta Cleaver was Editor-in-Chief of the Handbook, assisted by Eleanore Baar and Prudence Hall. Dr. Doris Fenton acted as faculty adviser to the staff.
Lambda Delta Alpha, the Honor Society of Beaver College, celebrated its fifth anniversary this September. Organized by the Faculty Committee on Honors, it exists today as the highest scholastic honor attainable by any student in Beaver College.

Formal announcement of those Juniors who have been elected into the society is made on Scholarship Night and initiation of these girls takes place on commencement morning just before the former members leave the campus. Pins in the shape of torches, with the Greek letters of the society, signify the purpose and intent of the organization—to uphold scholarship, knowledge, and wisdom. After the initiation, a breakfast is held for the Faculty Committee on Honors, faculty heads of departments from which the students have been selected, old and new members of Lambda Delta Alpha, and alumnae members.

In 1936 the custom of receiving at tea those girls who were on the Dean’s Honor List was started by the Honor Society, and will be continued henceforth.

Of the many organizations on the Beaver College Campus the Athletic Association is one of the most outstanding. It sponsors not only the various seasonal varsity sports, but also an extensive intramural program including swimming, track and field activities, archery, golf, paddle tennis, ping-pong, volleyball, baseball, and badminton.

In addition to the regular intramural program this year, the Athletic Association has sponsored Play Days for the girls at the college on Saturday afternoons, of which the bicycling parties were a big feature.

As in previous years, the Athletic Association had as its guests students from local high schools to participate in Hockey and Basketball Play Days.

The Sports year was closed by the annual banquet with the presentation of awards to those who had helped us make our program a success.
PENTATHLON, the honorary athletic society of Beaver, is one of her oldest clubs. The organization endeavors to create and sustain an active interest in athletics and to make clear their connection with complete and healthy living. Qualifications for membership include good scholastic rating, varsity team membership, points in athletic achievement, and a high standard of sportsmanship.

The name Pentathlon, which originally referred to a contest of five exercises between participants in ancient Grecian games, now refers to a society of students able in scholarship and active in sports.

For the student body Pentathlon planned roller skating parties, and a Fun Night for all students who had participated in any athletic activity during the year. The annual Faculty-Pentathlon basketball game was another successful venture.
WITH a rush and a roar the mighty Beaver hockey team swung into their first two games and emerged with decisive and overwhelming victories. The first game, with Mt. St. Joseph's College resulted in an 18-0 victory. The second, a hard fought battle with Bryn Mawr, ended with Beaver on the right side of a 5-0 score.

And then—up popped the Swarthmore jinx! Although every member of the team played her finest game, the Maroon and Gray lassies went down to a 4-3 defeat.

The loss of this one game seemed to act as an incentive for the remainder of the season, for in the remaining three games the Beaver goal line was crossed only once. Ursinus, Rhode Island, and Drexel, all went down before this team, the scores being 2-0, 5-0, and 7-1 respectively. And so—due credit to every girl who participated, congratulations to Miss Hill and Miss Orr, and a hearty cheer to Miss Edwards and Miss Armstrong who both received national recognition for their excellent playing, Marion Edwards having made Squad B on the All-American Hockey Team.

The girls who represented Beaver this year on the hockey field were:

Marion Edwards, Captain
Rowena Thomas

Olive Wortman
Virginia Junkin
Betty Snyder
Anne Armstrong
Dorothy Potts
Peg Nicholls
Anne Jeffer
Ethel Cunningham
Roberta Cleaver

A NOTHER basketball season came to a close with Beaver at the successful end of the score. Although the team dropped two games during the season, the hardest and most important games were either won or tied.

The first game, played at Beaver against Swarthmore, was an exciting opener for the year. There was never more than four points difference in the score until the last quarter of play. This victory made the fifth consecutive year that Beaver has beaten Swarthmore.

Elsie Rogers, destined to become a first team player, received injuries in a practice after the Swarthmore game which put an end to her playing this year. Beaver then traveled to New York and Trenton, only to suffer two defeats, one from New College and the other from Rider College. Beaver toured the south in March and returned with three thrilling victories, one from Sweet Briar, one from Westhampton College, and the other from the University of Baltimore. Upon returning from the southern trip, Beaver played Panzer, the only team to defeat Beaver last year, and won by a score of 57-19.

The most thrilling game of the season took place when Beaver played Ursinus this year on Beaver's floor. Both teams had suffered occasional defeats from different schools and now met to fight for supremacy. The score was very close all through the game and finally ended in a tie, before a very much excited audience.

This year's team showed a great deal of spirit and cooperation and should be congratulated on the wonderful work displayed throughout the season. May people always remember Beaver by the sportsmanship shown by our girls.

THE interest in rifflery at Beaver has increased to such an extent that a new rifle range was installed in Huntingdon Hall during the past summer. Nearly two hundred girls took rifflery as a regular part of their curriculum this year, and the varsity squad was chosen from these girls. This year marks the second in which the rifle team has been active in intercollegiate competition. Since rifflery is an all-season sport, the varsity team had plenty of practice matches with rifle teams in and near Philadelphia. Of those matches, the Beaver team won seven, tied one, and lost one.

The first match on the intercollegiate schedule, was the Louisiana State University; Beaver won by a score of 497 X 500 to 492 X 500. The next match was with Kansas State University; Beaver won by the close score of 492 X 500 to 490 X 500. The third match was with the University of Georgia; Beaver topped their 482 X 500 by a good 494 X 500.

Mr. Linford D. Schober, instructor of rifflery and coach of the varsity team, is responsible for the excellent record which the varsity team has made. The 100 Club, in which membership is open to any girl who has shot a perfect score, is one of Mr. Schober's latest ways to promote interest and encourage those who have proved their ability to make a perfect score. Mr. Schober is a member of the well-known Frankford Arsenal Rifle team. The team is also planning to shoot postal matches with Nebraska State University, Connecticut State College, Drexel Institute of Technology, the University of Nevada, and the University of Illinois.
EVERY good athletic team needs some form of support and that support comes from a lusty group of girls who lead the spectators on the sidelines in songs and cheers. Many teams at Beaver have come and gone, but the spirit lingers on.
This year three freshmen were added to the five veteran cheerleaders. This squad has helped Beaver gain victory after victory through its pep and enthusiasm. We are glad the entire student body supported the teams with its peppy and hearty cheering.

UNDER the able leadership of Mr. W. Lawrence Curry, the head of the Music Department, the Glee Club has maintained the high standard it had last year.

Membership in the Glee Club is limited to fifty picked voices. Five girls in the Club comprise the quintet which adds variety to the performances.

A new repertoire of sacred and secular numbers was studied. Some of the favorites include: The Traveller by W. Lawrence Curry, The Sleigh by Kountz, I Couldn’t Hear Nobody Pray by Carpenter, Hallelujah by Schubert, and Nightingale by W. Lawrence Curry.

Outstanding concerts were presented at Haddon Hall and the Hotel Dennis in Atlantic City, at the Wanamaker Store in Philadelphia, and at the Annual Spring Music Festival.

Mr. Curry’s fine direction and unusual sense of humor, together with the cooperation of each girl, have made this year a notable success for the Glee Club.
Perhaps the most dependable organization in the entire school is the choir. Cooperating with the college pastor and the Y. W. C. A., the choir is always on hand at every Sunday night chapel service and any special service throughout the week.

The responsibility of preparing this group to sing different music each Sunday rests upon Miss Ruth Bampton, the director. Two hours are given weekly to practice.

The selection of members is based on the same requirements demanded of any choral organization, plus a real interest in and desire to sing sacred music.

In the beauty and worship of the annual Christmas service, the choir presents its greatest offering of the year. The entire story of the birth of Christ is unfolded by song and scripture.

The choir occasionally represents the college by singing at various churches in Philadelphia and its vicinity.
ONCE again Beclex, under the direction of Mrs. Eloise Manthorne MacLean, has completed a successful year, gaining in momentum with each new attempt. The first event of the season was the Interclass Play Contest, better than ever before, if we are to judge by the comments around us.

On December 10, the fall production, Death Takes a Holiday, was presented, and here we have an innovation—Men! Yes, indeed, members of the faculty were only too glad to be in our play, and were a big factor in drawing the interest of the school and the surrounding countryside.

Tryouts for membership this year were as tense, exciting, and revealing as usual, adding to the club talent in acting and production. They were held before Christmas, and the pledges were initiated in January.

Then came the final triumph of the year! Much Ado About Nothing, which caused much ado and ended our year with a bang.

THE INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB, affiliated with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was organized four years ago in answer to a demand for deeper understanding of world affairs.

Dr. William Ryland, head of the Department of Social Science, who helped to established this organization, has also been largely instrumental in its rapid growth. Miss Elsie Stryker, assistant professor in social science, has been most helpful in carrying out the club program.

This year Mr. Alley lectured on the topic Is America Going Fascist? Every two weeks, club members receive summaries of current international topics for that period.

It is hoped that in years to come the entire student body will take an active part in this attempt to further an attitude so vital to world peace, that is, one of friendliness founded upon real understanding among nations.
Spanish Club

OFFICERS

- President: Virginia Cochran
- Vice-President: Virginia Francis
- Secretary: Rita Gilligan
- Treasurer: Helen Blanchard

The Spanish Club endeavors to obtain a clearer knowledge of the social and political life in the Spanish speaking countries through discussions and reports of current news topics.

A fitting climax for our club year is reached at the gala Fiesta, and later the Spanish Club banquet.

German Club

OFFICERS

- President: Helen Peters

The subject for our meetings this year was German culture: Goethe and Wagner. We had also German movies. In April we gave a play entitled Einer Muss Heiraten, the proceeds of which were contributed to a fund for a movable stage and books.
CLASSICAL Associations of Places in Italy was the subject discussed at the meetings this year. Lectures were sponsored at Beaver and in Philadelphia, and in May the alumnae joined with the active members at a banquet.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS is organized to initiate the student into a re-creation of French life. Under the lively guidance of Mrs. Wright, head of the French Department, a scholarship fund has been established to enable us to send students to France.

Commercial and Business Education Clubs

Commercial Club

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB was formed to give the Commercial students an intimate knowledge of the business world. We have speakers who have practical experience in the business world, and make trips to various business and manufacturing concerns. A picnic and banquet conclude our year.

Beaver Business Education Association

THE Beaver Business Education Association endeavors to encourage professional relationship between various colleges and universities having similar organizations, and to promote personal advancement in the Commercial Education field. Mr. Charles Wayte, its faculty adviser, has done much in guiding the club activities this year.

Philomusan and Junto

PHILOMUSAN is a club for lovers of music and its allied arts. It has sponsored intercollegiate affairs, contributing real enjoyment to Beaver's students. Under the guidance of Miss Bampton and Mr. Nagle, the monthly programs are often humorous, never pedantic, always interesting and worthwhile.

JUNTO was organized after the plan of the original club which met first in Philadelphia in 1726, under the leadership of Benjamin Franklin. Today it exists for the discussion of current national and international problems. Special meetings include an annual banquet, a lecture, and a costume party.

THE MODERN DANCE CLUB was formed under the direction of Miss Hill with the purpose of introducing the dance into Beaver College. The girls offered their compositions at the Temple Symposium and Beaver's Spring Art Festival.
URING this year we have had buyers, food experts, and dietitians, as lecturers at our meetings. They have not only proved interesting but they have broadened the general knowledge of the girls in Home Economics as well as in its allied subjects. At the annual banquet the new members were initiated into the club. In the spring a tea is given to the Faculty and Seniors and is planned and carried out by the whole department.

The club has use of the practice house, where the seniors spend six weeks in residence. An interesting phase of this work is the complete care of a baby. This year it was "Donald Beaver," who readily won the hearts of all.

"DONALD BEAVER"
IT HAS been four long years since first we entered Beaver's halls, timidly and anxiously, with green caps on our heads. But we were not too timid to join in all the activities then in progress—the Hallowe'en Party, the Interclass Play Contest, the Freshman-Junior Picnic, the Big Sister-Little Sister Picnic, and anything else that was going on. And, if you remember, we won honorable mention in the Song Contest that year for our pep song.

Next year we were back again—proud to be Big Sisters now, although as Sophomores we were the proverbial butts of all school jokes. It was too unjust, we thought, the way Sophomores were treated! We were just angry enough to show you how good we really were. That was the year Pink and Patches won the Interclass Play Contest, with Jeanne Eggleton getting the individual award.

As Juniors we had our biggest year: under Dodo Nisbet we won the Song Contest; the Missionary Box was acclaimed in the Interclass play contest; and Clyde McCoy and his "Sugar Blues" made our Junior Prom one to be remembered. On our own initiative we began the "Fake Fair" that year—featuring that ill-famed animal, the swoose, the fat lady, the Siamese Twins, and the Artful Dodger. A somewhat sad, withal proud, note was struck when at Junior-Senior breakfast we received our class rings. The time was growing shorter—graduation was looming in the distance.

And so we came back in September, 1957, dignified Seniors now, yet not apart from the activities of the school. We participated in the Interclass Play Contest and the Song Contest. We were guests at the Sophomore-Senior Picnic, and hosts of the Senior-Faculty Breakfast. As usual we gave our Fake Fair, bigger, better, and more hilarious than ever. This year we originated a new, informal Sweater Dance, which we all enjoyed and hope to see continued. Some of us even made "Who's Who." Then followed in swift succession the events that rang us out of student life at Beaver—the Junior-Senior Breakfast, only now we watched new Seniors take our places; Lambda Delta Alpha breakfast, a new group in the Honor Society; Baccalaureate sermon; and finally—Commencement!

We've a new world before us now, Beaver: but we are certain we are better women—mentally, morally, and physically, because of you.

We'll miss you, Beaver, but certain it is that your time-honored walls and halls of learning, that impetus you gave us to study and to learn, will live forever with us and bring to our minds ever and anon the debt of gratitude we owe to you.

Printing today is a far cry from the days when it was just a matter of "Pot Luck." Through the years, craftsmen have always striven to achieve better printing.

Although the day of fine, but laborious, hand printing is over, the spirit of the craftsmen does not die. If, with the increasing demand for speed, fine books can no longer be printed by hand, it does not mean that fine printing will stop. It means, rather, that artisans and craftsmen will find another way to maintain the standards of their guild.

The solution does not lie solely in machines that can cast more lines of type per hour, nor in presses that can print more pages per minute. The solution lies in machines in combination with skilled workers.

Lyon and Armor were among the first to recognize this fact. And Lyon and Armor have supplied their personnel, all of them weaned on printer's ink, with the latest, most efficient, printing equipment. The result is printing of the finer sort . . . at a speed in tempo with present day production.

Who is he?

You and I. Our friends. Our neighbors. In other words, Mr. Average Citizen.

The only trouble is, he frequently fails to realize his own strength. He allows himself to be bullied, led, and tricked, and when he realizes it, is inclined to say: "But what can I do about it?"

Take, for instance, this absurd business of war. He doesn't want war. He doesn't want to give up his job, leave his wife and youngsters, live like an animal in trenches, and be shot at like an animal by Average Citizens of another country.

Yet he does all this. He fights wars created by Far-from-Average Citizens who do not give up their jobs, do not leave their wives and youngsters, do not get shot at.

Peace is something to fight for: war is something to fight against. So, Mr. Average Citizen, wield that tremendous power of yours! Let jingoistic politicians, big-navy lobbies, war-fomenting papers, feel the might of your wrath.

What To Do About It

Today with talk of another war heard everywhere, millions of Americans stand firm in their determination that the folly of 1914-1918 shall not occur again. WORLD PEACEWAYS is a non-profit organization for public enlightenment on international affairs. Your cooperation is needed to extend its campaign, of which this advertisement is a part, into every corner of the world. Send your inquiry today to WORLD PEACEWAYS, 103 Park Avenue, New York City.
