BEAVER COLLEGE
IN PREPARING this volume of the Beaver Log, it has been the aim of the staff to present a book the central theme of which should be our alma mater as we have come to know her. The simplicity and beauty of her environment, colored with the sentiment we feel toward her, have been the background for our work. Though now we leave her halls to enter upon a new life, the spirit of Beaver will live on in our hearts, as this, our yearbook, recalls from the past the finest of friendships and the happiest of days.
AS A TOKEN of our esteem and love, we, the class of 1936, dedicate this volume of the Beaver Log to C. Mace Thomas, Ph.D., friend and counsellor, whose sane view of men and things, whose jovial spirit, and whose sympathetic understanding have endeared him to all Beaver students. His years of friendship will be counted among our richest treasures, and his life will ever be an inspiration.
TION

C. MACE THOMAS
Ph.D.

[Handwritten note: "Go on far and do the impossible."
We became good friends at that time and had excellent evenings together.
C. MACE THOMAS"]
THE administration and faculty of Beaver College co-operate with the students in their many activities, encouraging them to aspire to high standards. Their help and inspiration have led us toward a realization of our dreams of college life and friendships.
At a gateway of simple dignity we pause, momentarily, to reflect upon the familiar scenes that we have known.

HISTORY OF BEAVER COLLEGE

IN THE year 1853, Beaver College was founded and granted its first charter by the Court of Beaver County in Western Pennsylvania. Beaver thus became one of the earliest institutions for the higher education of women in Pennsylvania. The college increased in size, and remained open even during the trying period of the Civil War. In 1872 it was granted a second charter by the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

For more than seventy years the little college flourished in the hills of western Pennsylvania. But advantages were few, and keen competition resulted from the establishment of other colleges for women and co-educational institutions in western Pennsylvania. With a vision of higher goals for Beaver College, the administration desired a new location for its growth and development. This was found in Jenkintown, a suburb of historic Philadelphia. During the year 1924-1925, announcement was made that the session of 1925-1926 would open on the new site.

The change of location proved advantageous. New faculty members were added and the enrollment increased so rapidly the Board of Trustees found it desirable to limit the annual enrollment in order to maintain the advantages of a small college. Additional property was needed to provide for the expansion of Beaver. In April 1929, a nearby estate, known as "Grey Towers," was purchased. This provided the college with a campus of great dignity.

The college, originally founded by the Methodist Church, was under the supervision of that body until 1922, when it became an independent institution. In 1928, the Board of Trustees offered the presidency to Walter B. Greenway, D.D., LL.D., a Presbyterian minister of Philadelphia. The offer was accepted on the conditions that the college become affiliated with the Presbyterian Board, that the Bible be taught regularly, and that daily chapel services be required. In October of the same year, the college was taken under the jurisdiction of the Presbyterian Board.
Walter B. Greenway, D.D., LL.D., has served for eight years as President of Beaver College. A graduate of Washington College, and of Princeton Theological Seminary, with honorary degrees from Washington College and Muskingum College, Dr. Greenway served in the Presbyterian ministry until the time of his appointment as President of Beaver. Through his untiring efforts, the college has advanced to its present status.

Synod of Pennsylvania: The charter was amended, requiring two-thirds of the Board of Trustees to be members of the Presbyterian Church, and requiring all teachers to be members of an Evangelical church. Although Beaver College is thus associated with the Presbyterian Church, the By-laws expressly state that the teaching shall not be sectarian in any way.
By charter amendment, the number of the Board of Trustees was increased from seven to eighteen members. Of this number, three are leading ministers representing the eastern, middle, and western sections of the state.
The other members are prominent business men.

Since 1929, Beaver College has expanded to such an extent as to necessitate many changes. Through the generosity of Mrs. Jane M.
Murphy of Philadelphia, one of the buildings on the Grey Towers campus was transformed into a gymnasium, one hundred and twenty-six feet by forty-six feet, with a stage equipment for dramatic productions, and a chapel seating one thousand. Through the kindness of Mr. Robert

Sixteen
Crawford of Philadelphia, and other friends of the college, another wing of Murphy Hall was converted into modern physics, chemistry and biology laboratories.

Even since we, the class of 1936, have been in attendance at Beaver, we have seen significant changes taking place. A new laboratory for the Visual Education students has been equipped with material with which to carry out experiments. The Fine Arts department has been housed in new studios at Brookside. To accommodate the large Psychology classes, a new laboratory, with adequate equipment, has been provided for the department in Beaver Hall. To meet the need of the students for individual conferences with their professors, offices for the Ruth L. Higgins, Ph.D., is completing her second year as Dean of Beaver College. Before assuming her administrative duties here, Dean Higgins was affiliated with Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Alabama. She is a graduate of Ohio State University, and received her degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the same institution.

With best wishes always.

Florence Benedict, Dean of Students, is a graduate of Vassar College. She performs a valuable service as adviser to students.
heads of departments have been provided in the main corridor of Beaver Hall.

While Beaver College is primarily a Liberal Arts College, it also gives training in technical courses, and prepares students to teach in the public schools. These courses are approved by the State Council on Education for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and certificates to teach are granted without examination to graduates of Beaver College. Graduates are given the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Beaver has had phenomenal history and growth, yet the trustees and administration feel that there are even larger things in store in the near future for the college. Beaver progresses, changes.
Directors of Residence

FROM the first day we enter college until the very day we leave, the directors of our halls of residence play an important role in helping us to live a well-rounded college life. From morning until night, their offices are busy centers, where arrangements are made for dances, week-end visits, room adjustments and special permissions.

The Directors of Residence perform an invaluable service to all Beaver students. Many parents are grateful to them for the interest they take in their daughters.

Mrs. Ruth Howells Zurbuchen is chairman of Directors of Residence and a Director of Residence in Beaver Hall. She is ably assisted by Miss Alma Ledig, Assistant Director at Beaver Hall; Mrs. Roberta Paulhamus, Director at Montgomery Hall; and Miss Ruth Freihofer, Director at Grey Towers.

Twenty
THE faculty of Beaver College are well qualified for their educational duties through excellent preparation and training. We students also feel that they have more than an academic interest in us, because of their participation in our college organizations. Faculty members are sponsors in the musical groups, in dramatics, in the several publications, and in the clubs. They also act as advisers to the members of the freshman class.

A representative of the faculty to the Student Government Board acts as adviser to the Council in student affairs. The College Government Committee permits a member of the Student Council to present the student point of view and to discuss problems.

The faculty have cooperated with the student body in maintaining the honor system, in which we take pride. Without their support of the principles it upholds, the honor system could not be a success.

Committees, made up of the faculty, are in charge of various phases of the college organization. For the year 1935-1936, they are:

Committee on Admissions—Dr. Higgins, Dr. Sturgeon, Mr. Curry, Miss Paulhamus.

FACULTY

Twenty-five
A MID visions and plans for the future, we, as a class, pause a moment to record the past. The last pages of our history have been written, but we look with pride at the classes which follow, recognizing in them that spirit which will perpetuate the traditions and uphold the ideals of Beaver College.
Happy associations are strengthened into friendships that will never be forgotten.
HE time is swiftly drawing near when we shall enter the chapel for the last time as a class, receive our degrees, and then go forth to follow the highways or byways of life. Before we go, we look back on those four pleasant years spent at Beaver and find there are many things to remember.

As freshmen we must have been enthusiastic; most freshmen are, and we were no exception. The Baby Party, which we attended with our "Big Sisters," was quite an event. We were also highly elated when one of our songs won second place in the Song Contest.

We felt a bit overlooked during our sophomore year, for a new freshman class had usurped our place and were busy becoming acclimated. The juniors were working hard on their prom and the seniors were very busy with many important activities. Left to our own devices, we contemplated the value of a college education and the prospects of matrimony in 1936.

During our junior year we were raised once more to a state of importance. No matter that we never won a song or a play contest; we still had faith that our own peculiar genius would bloom even though a bit late. Our Roof-Garden Prom was one of the most attractive and successful dances ever given, and our Junior-Senior Breakfast, where we received our rings, was a thoroughly enjoyable occasion.

Our senior year brought the fulfillment of at least one of our many hopes, for we won the Song Contest. In December, we entertained the faculty at a blue and white breakfast; in February, we started to wear caps and gowns to chapel; and now we are deep in our plans for Senior Week. So have our college days been spent in congenial activity. It is with a feeling of both happiness and regret that we turn and utter the last of all words, "Farewell."

HERETOFORE, the Mirror section of the BEAVER LOG has included pictures of the May Queen, and the Valedictorian, and of seniors who, by class vote, have been chosen the most popular, the most athletic, the best all-around, and the most attractive.

This year, however, it was suggested to the staff that the Mirror section of the book be enlarged to make possible the inclusion of other girls, who, throughout their college life, have performed valuable service both for the class and for the college. The suggestion was met with the approval of the entire staff, who saw in it an opportunity for recognizing a greater number of worthy seniors.

To avoid partiality in the selection of these additional girls, it was decided to use the point system as a basis of selection. The girls whose pictures appear in addition to the regular six, then, are those who according to the point system hold nine, ten, or eleven points for any one position.

The staff wishes to congratulate these seniors whose pictures appear in the Mirror, and to express the hope that the enlarging of this section will stimulate those who follow to attain to higher standards of service for their class and their Alma Mater.

Verses by Dr. Lynn H. Harris

Chorus and Music by Bernice Goldsmith, Class of '33

Verse I
Alma Mater dear,
   The years have o'er thee swept,
But stainless still through time and tide
   Thy splendor thou has kept.
So hail to Beaver; hail, we say!
   Fling high the scarlet and the grey.
And we shall keep radiant with truth
   Thine everlasting youth.

Verse II
Mother, tried and true,
   We pledge our life to thee;
We pledge thee all our fullest faith
   In loving service free.
Oh, hail to Beaver; hail we say!
   Fling high the scarlet and the grey.
To the finest in the land
   We lay down our heart and hand.

WITH characteristic spirit, and good mileage, the junior class has sped through another college year. Stopping for an intersection, we now gaze for a moment into the little mirror that reveals what lies behind us. A wide white road stretches as far back as we can see, and although we remember a bump or two, we can safely say, "It was the best trip yet!"

We set our pace during our first two years, beginning in the autumn of '33 with all the advantages that the stream-lined era ushered in. With a few competent chauffeurs alternating at the wheel, we soon made ourselves known, and began to participate in every campus activity that there was. There were many more of us then, and a rather heterogeneous crowd we were. North and South, East and West, all met together, ready and eager for what college would bring. We may not be quite the size we were when we first entered Beaver, but we've grown in other ways. We've become steadier; yes, and finer. We've learned things in books, and out of books. Our professors have taught us some things; our friendships have taught us others.

As freshmen we were the class to start the wearing of green caps. Not that it was a matter of choice with us, but somehow we didn't seem to mind it. With due modesty we remember how the upperclassmen were impressed with our spirit and alertness—it was something that we, as a class, have always been proud of, and have striven to keep. The juniors still are vitally interested in every phase of college life as they were three years ago. Nor are our members limited to any one thing; we are versatile, and take pride in being so.

The outstanding event of the year, Junior Prom, was our prom, and for our college and our class we did our best to make it long to be remembered. There was Seventy-eight work to be done. Someone had to plan the programs; someone had to find an orchestra; someone had to have charge of all the mighty and minor cares. With one record we accepted Edwin Colby as our general chairman. Together with her very efficient crew, she worked and wielded until all was smoothed into shape. And then to the music of Joe Haymes, in a fantastical setting of dream castles, we danced and were happy. The week-end was that of February 21, and it was a full one. A gay, carefree time it was, with exams in the past, and classes forgotten for a while.

The junior class tried something new this year. We sponsored a concert in December. Primarily it was because we wanted to raise funds for Prom, but incidentally it turned out to be fun. Two well-known pianists offered their services. We took the opportunity. A two-piano concert was given at Murphy Hall on December 5, which was both a musical and a financial success. The juniors had established another precedent.

Of course there were other events, the traditional things that are done every year and become inexplicably bound up with the memories of college. In November, on the tumultuous night before Thanksgiving vacation, there was, as there always is, a Song Contest. We bowed this year to the seniors who, with their exquisitely beautiful class song, took the cup we had won the year before. We managed, however, to receive honorable mention for our alma mater, as we had when we were freshmen. In December, the night before Christmas vacation stands out in memory with its Christmas dinner, caroling, pajama party, and all the wild excitement of before vacation. January spelled exams, vari-colored snow suits, freezing weather, and a remembered snow party. February brought Prom and the Inter-class Play Contest. March, along with her winds, carried a small whirl of activities. In April came Spring with the strange sweet yearnings that Spring always brings. Then May, with our loveliest of traditions, May Day. And the traditional Junior-Senior Breakfast—and the first thrill of senior rings! June brings exams, and another class saying goodbye. Next year we must take their place. Though our confidence may waver when we consider those new responsibilities, still, we know, our spirits will carry us through.

Best of luck to you, girls.

SECOND-YEAR students' is what they called us when we registered for this year. That certainly gave us a grand feeling, too. There were no more green caps, no more holding of doors or pouring water, and we were up a dozen or so rows of Chapel seats. Our freshman year had been loads of fun and was a great and steep step on our way to graduation. We had become acquainted and made friends; we had taken part in almost everything we had been allowed to participate in; we had been entertained by different classes and clubs and had played hostess in turn; and, as a result, we were ready for another year at Beaver.

On the evening before Thanksgiving, was held the annual Song Contest, the first of several outstanding events of the year. We appeared in bright red and white array, singing "Sophs the Top" with all of our pep. We didn't win the cup for the best songs, but we are proud of the original tunes and words we submitted and we shall always remember the real fun we had getting ready for the contest.

Preparations for Christmas followed the Thanksgiving holidays, with the usual Yule-tide symbols of red ribbons, holly wreaths, candles, tinseled... evergreens, bright lights, and carols, converting Beaver into a gay holiday land. The pajama parties climaxed this period, with the sophs coming to the top with their clever skits.

Holidays over, the new year began. Everybody became study-conscious until the exams were over.

Then came the annual Inter-class Play Contest. "Pink and Patches," a pathetic comedy, was the successful contribution from the sophomores.

The next important event was the Sophomore-Senior Picnic in the spring, and then May Day, with sophomores shining in both affairs.

Sports were a major field for the sophomores. First came the hockey season with several sophs in the varsity squad and one trying out for all-American. Then followed basketball and tennis, with red and white sophomore banners flying over both courts. The inter-class sports program was filled up with sophs and their cheering squad rooted for all games.

Sophomores, you see, shone throughout the year, and in each field lived up to their motto, "Good sportsmanship is our trade."

FRESHMEN are usually too busy to indulge in retrospection, but when they do, they find a host of hurried impressions and quite a few memorable events. First there was the thrill of coming to college and the strangeness of living in an entirely different way, but this was soon forgotten in the friendliness and the activities of Freshman Week. Then there was Dr. Greenway's welcoming address at Grey Towers. Later came the Baby Party, the Big Sister-Little Sister Picnic, the Fudge Parties and the Marshmallow Roast. Freshman Week ended, and the upperclassmen returned to present each newcomer with a shamrock-hued "dink" and a few freshman regulations.

Freshmen soon learned about quiet hour, mid-weeks, night slips, and fire alarms. They missed buses and slept through classes all unknowingly, but they soon caught the swing of college life and fell into step with the others. They all discovered the fountain for themselves, and learned that they did not have to go hungry if they missed a meal in the dining-room.
On Hallowe'en night the freshies transformed the Murphy Gym into a gloomy, witch-haunted cornfield. Many were the spirits who roamed abroad that night, between the cider barrels and the cookie stand. At Thanksgiving, pre-vacation excitement and visions of turkey and stuffing to come spurred them to great heights in the Song Contest, where their class song won honorable mention and where the tell-tale green caps were discarded with genuine regret by many freshmen, for caps had become almost a part of the freshman anatomy. Then came the Christmas holidays, and the trimming of trees, decorating of tables for the last night's dinner, seeing "Why the Chimes Rang," and applauding Dr. Greenway's Christmas address.

The next space of time is blurred. There were exams and a big snow. That is about all the freshmen know of the mid-semester scramble.

Through all these activities was mingled the joy of meeting new friends, of acquiring new learning from books and from people, and of making their own lives mean something more—which is what B-E-A-V-E-R spells to the freshman class.

Ninety-five
NOTHING has enriched our lives more during our college life than the values we have gained through co-operation in the activities of Beaver College. Participation in athletics, music, dramatics, and publications has given us an opportunity for the development of our talents and the broadening of our interests.
The soft-toned chimes in the clock tower mark off all too quickly the happy hours of work and play.
BELIEVING that sports encourage healthy personalities as well as healthy bodies, the Athletic Association has striven to interest every girl at Beaver in some sport. The wide athletic program of which we are so justly proud includes hockey, track, archery, tennis, basketball, swimming, riflery, paddle-tennis, badminton, volleyball, baseball, golf, and horseback-riding. Plans are under way to add lacrosse to this list.

Besides sponsoring varsity teams in hockey, basketball, and tennis, the Athletic Association promotes intra-mural contests in hockey, basketball, and volleyball. Both varsity and intramural tournaments are enthusiastically followed by the student body. Indeed, it is hard to picture college life without the integrating influence of such sports.

The Athletic Association is more than a mere promoter of sports, however. It is a living, growing organization whose scope of activity has widened tremendously since it was first organized in 1933. This year, as in past years, the Athletic Association Board entertained the volleyball and basketball squads at a banquet at the close of the season. Then a gala banquet at the end of the term for those who had shown their interest in any sport closed the year’s activities with a presentation of awards for special achievement. Numerous other projects—roller-skating parties, teas for visiting teams, the Temple play day, play days at Beaver for near-by high-schools, sale of megaphones, decoration of the A. A. Board room—all have helped to make our Athletic Association a truly helpful organization. Miss Ward and Miss Morgan have been of great assistance in all of the Association’s work.
Pentathlon

PENTATHLON is the honorary athletic society of Beaver College and is one of her oldest clubs.

The name "Pentathlon," originally referring to a contest of five exercises between contestants in ancient Grecian games, is now used to signify the competition, active participation, and final achievement in athletics which the members of the club enjoy.

The aim of the organization is to promote a genuine interest in the athletic life of the entire college. The qualifications which the club demands of its members are good scholastic rating, varsity team membership, points in athletic achievement, and a high standard of sportsmanship.

The members find their activity in the club divided between athletic and social events. They find an opportunity to enjoy both.

BEAVER is proud of its hockey record this year. An undefeated team throughout a difficult nine-game schedule, the Scarlet and Gray eleven have established an even more enviable reputation for showing the true spirit of the game. Victory is good, but character is better, for teams as well as for individuals.

During the early fall, many prospective hockey players hopefully reported to practices. From these aspirants Coach Marjorie Morgan finally chose the varsity squad with Verna Clarke as manager. Mary Louise Armstrong, a veteran left half-back of four years standing, was elected captain.

Other players from last year were Louise Orr, center half-back, and Grace Berger, right wing, both of whom played for the third consecutive year. Marion Edwards, Elizabeth Snyder, Violet Hicks, and Lois Brown also remained from last season. New-comers on the first team were Olive Wortman, Margaret McCormick, Virginia Junkin, Anne Armstrong, and Grace Edge. Sub-Varsity letters were awarded Dorothy Miller, Jane Kepner, and Rowena Thomas.

The first game of the season resulted in a defeat for the Germantown Cricket Club, 6-0, on their own territory. Later, the Saturday Morning Oranges visited Beaver, only to meet a similar fate, but by a score of 17-1.

In the first inter-collegiate match, Beaver defeated Bryn Mawr, 3-2. This was the first game ever scheduled between the two colleges. Drexel’s was the next eleven to go down to defeat, 4-0. Elkins Park followed by losing, 5-0, at Beaver.

The game with Swarthmore almost ruined Beaver’s undefeated status, but proved perhaps the most exciting game played all season. The final score was a 2-2 tie, indicating a truly thrilling contest from start to finish.

The Beaver eleven then traveled to Ursinus, to bring back a 3-0 winning. The next game, with New York University, was also a victory, 6-1. The season ended on November 22 with a final triumph of 3-0 over Rhode Island State College. Coach Morgan, Manager Clarke, and the entire squad may well be proud of that record.

The freshman class captured the intra-mural championship. Numerals were awarded the members of the freshman team.

The hockey awards were presented after the annual hockey banquet in December.

Basketball

The arrival of the basketball season brought anew to Beaver the thrill of sport, and victory. Out of nine scheduled games, eight were won and one tied. Thus an undefeated basketball team was added to an undefeated hockey team, and one more achievement to the long list of things that Beaver girls can do well.

Early tryouts seemed to indicate a successful season ahead. It was anticipated that Captain Grace Berger who had filled a guard position extremely well for two seasons, would again perform in brilliant style. But a new guard was needed to replace Rowena Thomas, who was converted to play forward with Louise Orr, junior star from last year. A new-comer, Anne Jeffers, was selected from freshman aspirants for this place, and proved an excellent choice. Center was played by Beatrice Weill for the second season, while Marion Edwards, also in her second basketball season at Beaver, won a triumph when Swarthmore, the only college to tie Beaver.
last season, went down to defeat by a 25-19 loss. Panzer was the next victim in a home-game by a score of 31 to 12.

The squad then traveled to Baltimore and returned with a 37-24 victory. The Rider College girls tried to break Beaver’s streak of good luck, but without success. They scored only 12 points to Beaver’s 28.

William and Mary came closest to marring the Beaver record. Matching speed with agility, clever shooting with clever passing, they held the Beaver sextet to a tie score, 22-22.

A return game with Panzer, away from Beaver, saw another close contest which gave Beaver the game by a single field goal. The Ursinus game ended 18-13. The last game of 1936 brought an overwhelming defeat to Notre Dame College of Staten Island, and a final demonstration of skill. May this record, both in victory and in sportsmanship, continue as long as the Scarlet and Gray!

One Hundred Five
SUMMER brought to Beaver one of its most thoroughly enjoyed sports, tennis. As soon as the courts were ready for use, early practices began. Many promising players turned out, and the final squad of eleven included six veterans and five new members.

Harriet Marsh, playing for her fourth season at Beaver, was chosen captain of the team, which included Louise Orr, Beatrice Weill, Grace Berger, Virginia Junkin, Marion Edwards, Elfriede Mahler, Donalda Gillingham, Anne Jeffers, Ethel Cunningham, and Doris Miller.

Beaver College Rifle Club

This year riflery, a typical American sport, was introduced to Beaver. Under the National Rifle Association of America, Beaver organized a Beaver Rifle Club. This club was formed chiefly to further an interest in riflery among the students.

Riflery not only affords great enjoyment for those who participate but develops each individual in discipline, teamwork, nervous and muscular co-ordination. It also teaches one to give careful attention to all details which play a great part in developing a good rifle shot.

There is no doubt that riflery will add to our success in athletics.
"WELL cheer for Beaver College, we'll never give in" was the slogan for the cheerleaders this year, and the cheerleaders didn't give in. At pep meetings and at games, they kept on yelling and singing with such enthusiasm that the rest of us just had to join in.

The veteran squad and the freshman squad, working together, organized the songs and yells and taught them to the students at pep meetings. They discarded dull ones and substituted new ones until they have made up a catchy collection.

To give the hockey team a good send-off and to convince the girls that the school was with them, the cheerleaders sponsored a bonfire and marshmallow roast, preceded by a snake-dance, before one of the main games away from home. After each home game the peppy, just-a-bit-boisterous cheerleaders assumed the role of dignified, well-poised hostesses while they poured tea for the visiting team.

It is mostly through the efforts and enthusiasm of this cheering group that athletics have become of more and more interest at Beaver. Beaver students are becoming more sports-conscious until now it is "B-E-A-V-E-R, Beaver all the time."

May good fortune be your lot in life always.

One Hundred Seven
Beclex

BECLEx is Beaver's dramatic club. It has a reputation for being one of the most active organizations in the college. As its membership is limited to sixty, relatively few new members are admitted each year, and only upon demonstrating ability in acting or producing. If a student wishes to join Beclex but cannot act she may be admitted on the strength of her ability to cope with costumes and properties and her willingness to work.

This year, under the able direction of Mrs. Eloise MacLean, Beclex has carried out a full and interesting program. The season was opened by presenting on November 22, 1935, in the Murphy Hall gymnasium, the club's first Broadway Production, "Children of the Moon," by Martin Flavin. This play of unusual beauty is a psychological study of the Atherton family, through which runs a strain of insanity. This is not a permanent affliction but seizes its victims at the time of the full moon.

The second event of the year was a pageant, presented at the Seventh Annual Christmas Service of Beaver College on December 15, 1935, in Murphy Memorial Hall. The play presented was a dramatization of the story by Raymond MacDonald Alden entitled "Why the Chimes Rang." The Beaver College Choir complemented the pageant by offering carefully selected Christmas music.
Dear Alice,

We shall all look forward to seeing you and your sister Alice. We surely respect your move with the others of the Prevarcs Students. May you always be fortunate and happy.

Jane S. Bright

With 1936 came the Inter-class Play Contest. This is an annual affair sponsored by Beclex. Each class chooses a one-act play and enters it for competition with those of the other classes. The purpose of this contest is to arouse interest in dramatics outside of the club, to further class spirit, and to find new possibilities for Beclex membership. With each year the class plays have become more widely popular and more enthusiastically supported. In connection with the contest Beclex offers two honorary awards. One is given to the class presenting the most carefully chosen and produced play; the other is conferred upon the individual showing the greatest ability in characterization and interpretation. The awards take the form of plaques upon which the year of the winning class and the name of the individual are engraved.

Beclex presented, at a final production for the season of 1935-1936, "Quality Street," by James M. Barrie. No other play could have been more appropriate. Without a doubt this was the most difficult undertaking Beclex has ever attempted and the most successful. Under the skillful direction of Mrs. MacLean, "Quality Street," difficult because of its simplicity, concluded with flying colors another Beclex program.

One Hundred Nine
Orchestra

Almost every Tuesday night students hear the announcement, “There will be orchestra practice tomorrow afternoon, at four-thirty, in Taylor Hall.” Under the direction of Mr. Thomas Barlow, the orchestra has been working all year, on music by the great standard composers. The instruments used include violin, clarinet, flute, harp, saxophone, and piano. In February the orchestra publicly appeared for the first time at the mid-year student recital. Later it accompanied in the opera, “Robin and Marion.”

The purpose of this group is not to build up a large organization but to give students who know how to play any orchestral instrument, the opportunity to continue study and practice in a profitable and entertaining way under a competent director.

Within this group, there is a smaller one known as the “String Ensemble.” The latter, under the direction of Miss Ruth Bampton, is more specialized than is the orchestra. Its purpose is to play in recital or concert for organizations on and off the campus. It also plays for such college affairs as teas, receptions, banquets, and dinners, as well as for church organizations, women’s clubs, and numerous other kinds of meetings. During the year the ensemble broadcasted over W.I.P.

Most of the members of the ensemble are majors in music and are excellent musicians. Consequently, they often vary their programs with individual solos.
THE Beaver College Choir, under the direction of Miss Ruth Bampton, co-operates with the college by singing for the Sunday night chapel services, at conferences, and on other occasions. The choir has had a most successful and active year, both at the college and when on tour. It is composed of a group of twenty-five selected voices, singing two and three part music, a capella and accompanied.

The choir made its first public appearance this year at the W. I. S. G. conference held at Grey Towers in the early fall. There followed many engagements. On December 10th the choir sang two groups of carols for Mr. Curry’s lecture on “Christmas Carols of All Ages,” given for his Music Appreciation class and visitors from the Jenkintown and Glenside Women’s Clubs. On December 19th, the choir presented its most important work of the year, the Christmas portions of Handel’s “Messiah.” The soloists were Ruth Morris, Francis Hughes, Dorothy Nisbit, Josephine Sebastian, and Margaret VanKeuren who gave a performance of which the college could rightfully be proud.

The choir has sung twice over the radio: first, in December, over WIBG, a group of Christmas songs; and second, over WIP, in February, a group of selected sacred songs. The latter was under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Arts and Sciences organization which sponsors various programs by different choral organizations.

In February, the choir was a guest of a young people’s convention in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, held in commemoration of Youth Sunday. The group sang at the well-known Calvary and Market Square Presbyterian churches at the regular Sunday morning service and on worship programs during the conference. Invited to return in April, it again went to Harrisburg.
this time to sing for the State Christian Youth Conference where fifteen-hundred delegates were present.

The choir also sang for the Philadelphia Presbytery and for a Christian Endeavor rally at a banquet meeting in Temple University. The choir has sung for a number of the churches in nearby towns and in Philadelphia. The crowning performance of the year was its participation in the May Day and May Festival of Music.

Since the choir has become such an active organization, it has adopted a committee form of government. The committee is composed of Margaret VanKeuren, chairman; Katherine Scott, secretary; Reba Ryder, treasurer; and Miriam Woods, Martha Bonsch, Rosamond Heberling, and Dorothy Nisbit.

Glee Club

For years the Glee Club has been one of the largest organizations on the campus. This year, under the able direction of Mr. Charles Martin, the club has grown even "bigger and better." The repertoire of the chorus has been increased by about twenty songs, carefully chosen to fill the varied sacred and secular needs of the group. To learn these songs and incorporate them firmly as Glee Club songs has entailed an enormous amount of practice. Besides long rehearsals on the regular Monday night, extra practices were held, for months, on Thursday night. Mr. Martin freely gave many evenings to conduct these rehearsals.

The Glee Club is prepared to sing sacred songs for any church service or meeting. Some of its favorites include Beethoven's first movement, Op.

27, No. 2, adapted by Alexander Aslanoff to the beautiful sacred words, "Come to Me"; "The Great Awakening," by Kramer; "The Omnipotence," by Franz Schubert; and the gorgeous "Jubilate Amen" by Bruch. The last number contains a soprano solo sung by our soprano soloist, Mrs. Emily Stokes Hagar, head of the Voice department.

The Glee Club also has at its command a varied selection of secular songs. These songs were first used in the Glee Club's visit to the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel in Atlantic City, on the weekend of December 14 and 15, where they were sung for the guests of the hotel. The gay ninety-odd girls piled into the two Beaver buses at twelve noon. Everyone was anticipating wonderful meals and rooms, as well as refreshing salt sea air and fascinating boardwalk. The club sang Saturday night from the Viking room. One-half hour of the program was broadcasted.

Another Atlantic City Hotel, the St. Dennis, made a similar offer for March 27 and 28. This time the freshmen (who were not taken on the fall trip) were included.

Aside from the longer trips, many shorter ones have been made by the Glee Club to various churches in the vicinity. The club has had numerous engagements throughout the year. Among them are:

Oct. 27, 1935—Bala-Cynwyd M. E. Church
Dec. 8, 1935—Abington Presbyterian Church
Dec. 14, 1935—Hotel Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, N. J.

Each year the staff of the college annual attempts to publish a book which will be different. This year, by the gallant efforts of the staff and the senior class, plus the aid of a "New Name for the Yearbook" contest, the Beechbark became the Beaver Log. The staff has also attempted to make the book less formal. Besides presenting a record of the graduating class it has tried to give an informal picture of college life as it has seen and loved it with all its clubs, sports and other activities, in the hope that every member of each class will feel that the Beaver Log really belongs to her.

THE Beaver College Review, published quarterly, is the literary publication of the college. It has attempted, during its six years, to build up a high standard of creative expression in the literary field, and to encourage students in all classes and departments to write and contribute material. Three prizes are awarded at the end of each college year for the best short story, poetry, and essay or miscellaneous sketch appearing in the magazine. Another important contribution to college life made by the Beaver College Review is its lecture program. This year the speakers included Stephen Leacock, the well-known and beloved Canadian humorist, and Thornton Wilder, who is probably the outstanding American novelist of today.

The Beaver News, the college newspaper, which is published bimonthly, is now in the middle of its second year. Besides informing the students, faculty, administration, and personnel of the various events which have taken place and are taking place on the campus, it gives a calendar of future events, alumnae news, personals, club notes, bits of world news, and campus gossip. During its short life it has made rapid strides in becoming a newspaper of which the student body is now justly proud.

We were both philosophically so close.

Best wishes,

Each year, the Student Government Association sponsors the publication of a handbook.

This handbook is of special value to the incoming students in that it contains a copy of the constitution of the Student Government Association, an explanation of the point system, and information regarding dormitory regulations and the social life of Beaver College.

For the year 1935-36, Jane Breitzke served as editor-in-chief of the handbook. She was assisted by Margaret VanKeuren and Phoebe Joslin, the associate editors. Dr. Doris Fenton acted as faculty adviser to the handbook staff.

The faculty committee on publications, headed by Dr. Mary E. Craig, and including Mr. Spruance, Dr. Matheson, Mr. Steinmeyer, and Dr. Fenton, supervises the work of the various staffs on publications.

The interest manifested by the student body in the campus publications testifies to the splendid work which has resulted from the cooperation between the faculty advisers and the staffs.
HAPPY memories of club meetings will come to us as we recall the many activities in which we engaged. Not least among these will be the thought of our Student Government Council and other student organizations of which we are proud.
The grey stone towers stand majestically outlined against the sky.
HE students of Beaver College have established a Student Government Association under a constitution. The aim of this association is to seek the best for each individual. Although all students are members of this organization and co-operate in its activities, the authority to make and enforce regulations is vested in the Student Council. The eleven members of this council, suggested each spring by the nominating committee and elected by the students, represent all classes. This year it was capably guided by Mrs. Zurbuchen, Social Adviser, and by Dr. Krauss and Dr. Fenton, faculty representatives.

The Student Council signs the following pledge, which each student should include in her own code of honor:

“I hereby pledge my honor as a student of Beaver College, that I will abide by the regulations of the Student Government Association, and that I will do no dishonest work either in or out of classes, and that for protection to myself and to others I will discourage any dishonest work or any violation of the regulations that comes to my notice.”

Every student should co-operate with the council and realize that the welfare of the student body as a whole requires rules which may seem unnecessary to the individual. It is only in this way that Student Government can be effective.

The Student Government Association sponsors and finances many extracurricular activities such as Freshman Orientation Week, the Hallowe'en and Christmas Parties, and informal teas and dances given during the year. Its major enterprise, however, is May Day, the annual spring fete. Its executive committee consists of a chairman, appointed by the nominating committee and ten other members. The duties of the committee are to arrange and carry out all plans for the celebration in co-operation with members of the faculty appointed by the President of the College. As its success depends upon the interest shown in it by the students, everyone is urged to take part in May Day.

This year, as an additional activity, the twenty-eighth annual conference of the Women's Inter-Collegiate Association for Student Government, of which Miss Viola Korell, our own Student Government President, was national president, was held here at Beaver. It took place in October from the twenty-third to the twenty-sixth. Representatives from many colleges in the east were present at that time. The general theme for the conference was, "The Ideals of Student Government," which included as subjects for group discussion, various problems that are found in college life. Several distinguished speakers, interested in the field of education, addressed this conference.

One Hundred Twenty-one
Nominating Committee

INCLUDED in the Student Government Association are several other councils of great importance and responsibility. One of these in the Nominating Committee. The Nominating Committee of Beaver College was established six years ago for the purpose of furthering fair election of candidates for various offices connected with student activity in the college. The committee determines the qualifications of each girl as far as possible, and makes nominations for offices. After the nominees receive the approval of the Advisers, the students are given an opportunity to vote for those whom they believe to be the best fitted to carry out the duties of the offices. The members of the committee, who represent the leading organizations of the college, are the presidents of the Y. W. C. A., the Honor Council, The Student Government, the Athletic Association, the presidents of the four classes, and the chairman of the Point Committee.

Honor Council

THE Honor Council is an organization of which Beaver well may be proud. During the five years of its existence it has striven to make as nearly perfect as can be the honor system of Beaver College students. The Honor Council is composed of eight members appointed by the Nominating Committee. Dr. Thomas was the faculty adviser this year. His kindly criticism and advice are greatly appreciated.

Dormitory Council

The Dormitory Council is a comparatively recent organization. Its purpose is to take care of House Government, which means enforcing quiet hour and seeing that the dormitories are neat and attractive. It is also responsible for the general conduct of students on campus. The work of this organization is an important factor in making Beaver pleasant and comfortable, and in producing an atmosphere favorable to study. The council, which is a branch of the Student Government Council, is composed of the presidents of the dormitories and an adviser from the student government council. Recently the practice of electing members instead of appointing them was adopted.
Lambda Delta Alpha

LAMBDA DELTA ALPHA, the honorary scholastic society of Beaver College, was founded in September 1932, by the Faculty Committee on Honors. The purpose of Lambda Delta Alpha is to stimulate high scholastic attainment, and to promote the development of noble character, leadership, and service.

Elections to the society are made at the end of each school year by the Faculty Committee on Honors. Juniors and seniors are eligible for election, announcement of which is made at the annual observance of Scholarship Night in May.

The newly elected members of Lambda Delta Alpha are initiated into the society on Commencement morning. At this ceremony, which is both beautiful and impressive, each new member is presented with a torch-shaped pin bearing the Greek letters Lambda Delta Alpha, signifying membership in the society. A breakfast at Grey Towers follows the initiation ceremony. It is attended by the Faculty Committee on Honors, faculty heads of departments from which students have been elected, old and newly elected members of the society, and alumnae members.

Students who received this honor in 1935 were:

JUNIORS: Blanche Fulton, Emma Crawford, Mary N. Mitchell, Lucile Becker, Doris Cooper, Margaret VanKeuren.

SENIORS: Nancy Chase, Ethel Roeger, Florence Murphy.

One Hundred Twenty-four
IN GLANCING over the past year's accomplishments of the Y. W. C. A. we find that discussion groups were held formally in the Drawing Room and supported by the respective classes; that there was increased interest in the welfare work carried on in the Jenkintown Nursery, the Abington Hospital, and other institutions; and that the active membership of the organization was well maintained.

These activities could not have been carried on had it not been for the wonderful co-operation which the whole student body afforded. Members worked with the Cabinet from the very first in the Big Sister movement. Then, at Thanksgiving again, they contributed money for food for the less fortunate. At Christmas, too, dolls were dressed and scrapbooks made.

Junto

Alice Tedford .................................................................President
Grace Berger .................................................................Secretary and Treasurer

JUNTO is a club of about thirty members who have joined for the purpose of encouraging greater interest in history and more enthusiasm in problems dealing with current events. This group took its name directly from the original Junto founded in 1726, by Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia. Franklin's club was organized for discussion of morals, politics and natural philosophy, while ours emphasizes discussion of current historical problems.

Junto holds its meetings twice a month under the able sponsorship of Dr. Mary F. Clarke, head of the History department. The members show their generous spirit by inviting Beaver College, as a whole, to hear their outstanding speakers.

In November, an illustrated lecture on Ethiopia was given by Mademoiselle Aijah, under the auspices of Junto. The personally photographed slides of this well-informed speaker augmented the interest in that country. It is an annual social event to have a costume party where famous characters of history return to earth and, as nearly as possible, re-enact their roles. Also scheduled on the calendar of the club as an annual event is a dinner at Grey Towers when an outside speaker of note is the guest.

Junto plans to hold an "International Night" when Beaver's students from foreign lands will be asked to speak on their native country. If successful, it will be repeated in following years.

Dear Alice -

I always remember the good times we had together; as the table, joints and aunts all went in the back.

I hope we may always keep our friendship and remember each other sometime.

Lots of luck and love,

One Hundred Twenty-six
International Relations Club

THE International Relations Club was organized two years ago, under the able guidance of Dr. Ryland, head of the Social Science department, for the purpose of discussing international problems. It is directly affiliated with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace through which the club not only obtains prominent speakers, but also the very latest books on relevant subjects and pamphlets and booklets on current problems. Fortnightly summaries on international events, valuable for reference work, are also given to each member.

The club lost a little time in getting organized in the first semester because of the absence of Emma Crawford, the former president. With the coming of the second semester, however, plans were revised and programs varied, and the club is now progressing rapidly.

In the fall, two members, Doris Witte and Etta Gordon, represented the club at the regional conference of the International Relations Clubs at Syracuse, New York, and brought back new ideas and helpful suggestions which will be included in future programs. The programs are planned with a consideration for our desire to have one hundred per cent participation in the meetings. Such topics as "The Diplomacy of Neutrality regarding the Abyssinian Question" and the "Croix de Feu" of France were reported on by designated members and were followed by an open discussion. Apropos of the presidential nominating conventions this June, the club plans to sponsor a mock convention of similar nature. This, we hope, will arouse a keener interest in national affairs on the part of the student body.

The last meeting night was set aside for brief review of the books sent us by the Carnegie Endowment. These resumés enabled us to decide which books were suitable to our individual interests.

Through monthly meetings and social affairs, the club promotes co-operation and closer friendships among the students.

Modern Language

The clubs which represent the romance languages play an important part in the college activities. It is through these clubs that the girls get a glimpse of the life and customs of the people whose language they are studying.

This year the French Club entertained at Grey Towers, Monsieur Rovacon of the French Consulate in Philadelphia. He spoke to the members in French, his theme being French language and civilization. He pointed out the difference in the educational systems of France and America and the importance of the individual thinker from the French standpoint. He stressed the musical qualities of French literature, illustrating by reading "Le Lac" by Lamartine. Monsieur Rovacon's talk was quite informal and was followed by a general discussion.

The meetings which are held once a month are unusually interesting. During the meeting the members speak French exclusively. The programs consist of readings and recitations in French. With the serving of refreshments, the girls play amusing French games.

At the opening of the year, the club gave a banquet as an introduction to the year's activities. There was also an illustrated lecture on France presented by the girls to promote interest in that country. The club adviser, Mme. Frank, has been deeply interested in the club and aided it greatly.

In compliance with the purpose of the German Club, to stimulate interest in German language, literature, and customs, the members sponsored in October a program of recitals given by Paul Dietz, a well known dramatic interpreter. Two selections in German were from Lessing’s Minna Von Barnhelm and Schiller’s Wilhelm Tell. Several selections in English were from Lessing’s Nathan the Wise, Schiller’s Death of Wallenstein, and Goethe’s Faust. Mr. Dietz spoke the German language so beautifully that he could not help being an inspiration to those present.

At the regular meetings, German songs are sung and talks are given by the members. Last year much time was devoted to presenting an evening’s entertainment for the College. This was called the “Volkfest.” The crowning of the Wurst Queen, Katherine McKee, was an amusing event of the evening. Mr. Spruance led the “Schnitzelbank,” a German song, using illustrations. Besides other German songs and dances, original and humorous skits were given by faculty members and students. The toastmaster, Julia Giles, led the evening’s entertainment and kept the audience in laughter with her imitations in the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect.

The Spanish Club is organized in an attempt to increase the student’s facility with the spoken language and to broaden her understanding of Spanish psychology and customs.

At the meetings of the club, the students present programs consisting of music, dramatic sketches and monologues. During the social hour they play Spanish games. At least one play of some importance is given during the year. In February the club held a banquet at which there was a guest speaker. In the spring, a picnic was given by the members.
The Classical Club

OFFICERS
Clara A. Taylor.......................................................... President
Helen R. Brown............................................................ Secretary-Treasurer

The Classical Club of Beaver College is composed of the girls who have registered in Greek and Latin courses. It meets once a month under the sponsorship of Miss Peirce, head of the Classical department.

The club colors, purple and gold, are carried out in the costumes, copied after ancient Roman stola, which are worn by the girls at every meeting.

There are usually two outstanding meetings during the year. The first of these is held in December, to which each member invites a guest. The second is the banquet in May to which the alumnae return. Following the banquet, the club is addressed by a member of the faculty who is interested in the study of the classics. Two meetings are devoted to the presentation of short Greek and Latin plays.

This year the Club is centering its programs around the study of the life and work of the Latin poet, Horace, in connection with the bimillennial celebration of his birth. Besides the papers given on this subject the girls in the club have attended a lecture in Philadelphia on "Art in the Time of Horace."

The Art Fellowship Club

THE Art Fellowship is an honorary club including all students enrolled in the Fine Arts Course.

From time to time the club has sponsored exhibitions by prominent artists. Those hung in the Drawing Room of Beaver Hall this year included:

1. Contemporary Prints.
3. Joint exhibition of the Art Faculty.

Activities for the year included a Christmas party for the entire student body, a dinner for the pledging of new members, a competition in black and white drawings open to all art students, and various trips to interesting exhibitions.

EPSILON ALPHA is a new club organized this year by the students in the Elementary Education Department. Its purpose is to further interest in elementary education at Beaver College, and to promote a broader outlook in that field. The activities of the club have been limited this year, but plans are being made for future programs.
Psi Alpha

THE purpose of Psi Alpha is to stimulate the growing interest in psychology at Beaver College, to discuss the subjects of paramount interest to the group, to contribute to the equipment of the Psychology department, and to promote good fellowship among its members.

The club meets once a month. Its programs have included debates and experiments by various club members, and lectures by such people of note as Mrs. Joshua Charles Taylor (Dr. Millicent Yatke), Mrs. Frank Bonynge, Dr. John F. Humes, and Mr. Wendell Carson.

The new psychology laboratory was opened this year. Psi Alpha gave a laboratory tea for the faculty and took this opportunity to explain and demonstrate the new equipment.

The Chemistry Club

THE Chemistry Club of Beaver College was organized for the purpose of combining social activities with a study of problems of scientific interest. The club holds a banquet annually, at which time the new members are formally initiated. Only those having a high scholastic standing are admitted.
Meetings are held once a month. The programs include lectures and experiments which cannot be adequately considered during regular class periods. This year the club had the pleasure of enjoying a lecture and demonstration on "The Chemistry of Photography," and another lecture on "The Making of Ice-Cream." The latter was accompanied by moving pictures of the process.

Commercial Club

The Commercial Club is composed of all junior and senior commercial students, both business administration and business education students, and of those sophomores who have attained an average of B in their commercial subjects. The club was formed for the purpose of familiarizing the students in the Commercial department with modern business methods and procedures. Through frequent meetings and social affairs the club fosters a spirit of co-operation and good fellowship among its members. This year the club has enjoyed its largest membership. May its work be continued for many years.

Health Education Club

The Health Education Club is composed of the majors in the Health Education department and is mainly a social club. In September the club gave a picnic for the freshman members and initiated them into the organization. At various times during the year, it sponsored skating parties to which the rest of the college was invited. The spring picnic ended the club's activities for the year.
May Day

"A LICE IN WONDERLAND" was the theme for May Day this year. The pageant was written by Betsey Poor and Lucile Becker, and followed the story of Lewis Carroll’s book of the same name.

The queen was crowned at the opening of the pageant and reigned throughout the afternoon. The Honor Court was composed of juniors and seniors, who were selected on the basis of scholarship, character, attitude, co-operation, and service to Beaver. The Laurel Chain, made up of freshmen and sophomores, was also chosen on the basis of appearance, scholarship, attitude, co-operation, and character.

The chairman of the May Day Committee was Betsey Poor. Other members were: Dorothy Green, costumes; Doris Witte, dances; Emma Willis, grounds; Eleanor Sladkin, publicity; Harriet Marsh, properties; Nancy Eyer, May Day dance; Lucile Becker, idea; Polly Naschold, scenery; Callie Nistle, dramatics. The advisers for the committee were Mr. Benton Spruance, Mrs. Ruth H. Zurbuchen, Miss Marie Fuller, Miss Dolores Ward, Mrs. Eloise MacLean, Mr. Lawrence Curry, and Dr. Doris Fenton. Mr. Spruance designed the character dance costumes and was in charge of the art work.
MAY the following snapshots serve as an ever-pleasant reminder of the countless precious contacts made in hours of relaxation and play. May they ever keep alive memories of by-gone days which were accompanied by joys too deep for expression.
And ere we leave we cast a parting glance upon the joyful panorama that was our college life.

The Picture's Thing

Year Books are made to perpetuate pleasant memories, pleasant friendships and to refresh us in after years about those wonderful days.

Of course, pictures are the most important element — and in printing they represent the ultimate impression. They should be made as good as the finest craftsmanship will permit.

That is the crux of our effort — to serve with sincerity and furnish quality engravings that properly pictures those happy years.

"Excellence is not a mantle put around our shoulders by destiny. It is something attained by thought and act."

Excellence in Annuals is attained. There is some thing a book has, or does not have—and the "ability" to know what to do to make a book different and distinctive—is something you cannot buy indiscriminately at any price.

When a Staff places their Annual in our hands, they immediately have at their disposal a service that is truly exceptional and complete. We look beyond the dotted line of the contract to broader horizons. Your problem becomes ours. Our resources of experience and facilities become yours.

Our cumulative knowledge of years in this line of work is applied understandingly and sympathetically to your specific aims. Cost is held to a figure in sensible proportion to the result to be accomplished.

Back of our organization is the spirit of "He Who Shoots the Stars"—vision—ambition—confidence—strength—and with the Staff catching this spirit along with us, the result will be an Annual which can be passed on to your Classmates with pride.

PUMUNANGWET
(He Who Shoots the Stars)

... who dares to attempt even the unattainable with the conscious pride of an unconquerable spirit.
